

Seminary of Quebec: "We have shared in the general consternation which the death of our lamented sister occasioned. I have always known her to be a person filled with the spirit of God. She excelled in all virtues, but especially in that of Humility, of Mildness, of Obedience to her superiors, perfect resignation and confidence in Divine Providence, which endowed her with a courage capable of undertaking and executing the greatest enterprises for the glory of God. Not the least doubt remains on my mind, but that you are the heiresses of her spirit. We have all offered our prayers in her behalf, and I have begged her to intercede for me."

The very Rev. Father Bouvart, Director of the establishment of the Jesuits, forwarded the following letter to the Superior of the Congregation :

"We have been informed, by your favor, of the melancholy tidings of the departure of the venerable Sister Bourgeois. In compliance with
