

The Keswick Collin will grow vigorously, bear early and annually, heavy crops, anywhere in the Province; the Duchess of Oldenburg comes next with me, and Gravenstein is third. I am waiting patiently to see what will come 4th, 5th, &c., on our coast line.

Inland we can grow even the Newtown Pippin. I had two trees of this among my kinds on trial, for some six or seven years. Convinced, at last, that they would never grow to any size, or fruit with me, I dug them up, and sent them to our Club Farm, at Carlton, some fifteen miles inland; in two years they were transformed from stunted, moss-covered scrubs, into healthy, vigorously growing trees; this year one of the trees has one apple on it, for which I have offered one dollar, if it be kept to maturity, and for exhibition.

Should this be in time for next number of Journal of Agriculture, and there be room for it, will the officers of the several Agricultural Societies in the Counties of Digby, Lunenburg, Shelburne, Cumberland, Antigonish, Guysborough, Cape Breton, Richmond, Inverness, and Victoria, kindly accept it as equally addressed to them, and take measures to secure a representative collection from their respective counties at the Exhibition. There is no competition between the counties. Usually, if but one collection only is shown, first prize is awarded, but it will be interesting and instructive to learn the relative standing of the several Counties of the Province, and from time to time hereafter, to record changes and progress, as industry, enterprise and perseverance attain success.

Very truly yours,
CHARLES E. BROWN.
