

It would be best to hang them up where the air could circulate freely, they might lose in weight by drying, but the gain in preventing spoilage would more than equal such loss in weight. Smoked fish are not expected to keep for a long period. Never put them in your basement they will become mouldy.—Journal of Trade.

THE four feet of an ordinary ox will make a pint of neatfoot oil. Not a bone of any animal is thrown away. Shin bones are used for the making of knife handles, and are worth £8 per ton. The thigh bones are the most valuable, being worth £18 per ton for cutting into tooth brush handles. The foreleg bones are worth £6 per ton, and are made into collar buttons, parasol handles and jewelry, though sheep's legs are the staple for parasol handles. The water in which the bones are boiled is reduced to glue, the dust which comes from sawing the bones is food to the cattle and poultry, and all bones that cannot be used as noted, or for bone black, used in refining the sugar we eat, are made into fertilizers, and made to help to enrich the soil. As regards the waste, it is the story of the pig. Nothing is lost except the squeal.
