

of practical ideas in regard to collecting insects which no in-door meeting could have afforded. It seemed as if every member had some original idea of his own either in reference to capturing or carrying specimens, the advantages of which were freely urged and as freely discussed with much profit. After thoroughly enjoying themselves for several hours, the members returned at nightfall well satisfied with the afternoon's sport.

On Friday morning a second meeting of the Entomological Club was held at the rooms of the Detroit Scientific Association. In the absence of the President, Mr. Lintner was called to the chair.

The Committee on Nomenclature reported as follows:—

“The committee appointed at the last meeting of the Entomological Club to consider whether any immediate action is advisable on the part of the club to aid in establishing uniformity in zoological nomenclature, finding that the committee of the general association intends to report during the present session, and deeming it best to await this report before making any definite proposition, would at the present time recommend that the club appoint a committee of five to prepare and present to the club at its next annual meeting a compendium of the views of the leading entomologists of the country upon points which, in their judgment, require elucidation, and also to present a series of resolutions touching such points, in order that intelligent discussion may be had upon them, and some general agreement, if possible, arrived at.

Signed,

SAMUEL H. SCUDDER,
C. V. RILEY,
WM. SAUNDERS.”

On motion the report was adopted, and the appointment of the committee left with the President, who subsequently nominated the following gentlemen:—Messrs. Scudder, Saunders, Grote, Riley and Leconte.

An interesting discussion then took place in reference to the various methods of pronunciation followed by entomologists when speaking of insect names, which culminated in the following resolution, which was carried unanimously.

Resolved, that in view of the desirability of securing uniformity among Entomologists in the pronunciation of the names of insects, Mr. O. S. Westcott, of Chicago, be requested to prepare such an accentuated list for publication in the CANADIAN ENTOMOLOGIST.
