"Yes,"saidajeweller,"weareconstantly "Yes, "said neweller, "we are constantly on the watch for theeves. Of course the imperative rule is not to let goods go out of your sight until you get the money. The truck of having goods sent to hotels and boarding houses with bills for collection is so said that the undertaining rule is to keep your goods in sight. But a shrowld follow once managed to get three shrowd fellow once managed to get three watches from me by a claver dodge. A bright sharp-looking person came in one day and said. I am from Ohio, and have a commission to buy some goods for my aster who is about to be married there. He picked ou's bill of five hundred deliars worth of various articles and said. Just send them around to my store on Broadhay at twelvo o'clock naming a well known carpet store in Broadway The goods were sent by a clerk, who found thee istomer ap arently ongaged in showing arpots and perfectly at home. He recognized the clock and at home. He recognized the clock and said 'Ab' just step this way, and I will give you a check. He went with the clerk to a desk, drew a check, and took the goods. He appeared to be so perfect. ly at home that the clerk had not the clightest suspicion. Of course the check was northless, and we found that he had secured the desk privilege at the carpet store by pretending that he was buying a large stock of carpets among other pur chases in the city. He fooled five jewellets in New York, and others in other cities. One day a swarthy, foreign looking, well dressed young man called on a brother joyallet and buyded him his card. brother jeweller and handed him his card — Alexander Dumas, Prussian Legation, Washington. He said he was with his wife and child at the Ss. Nicholas Hotel, and wanted to buy some watches and pawellery, for which he would pay cash. He said his wife was too sick to leave the hotel, and wanted the goodssent with the bill. The jeweller thought he would make a sure thing of it and take the goods himself. He went to the St. Nichelas, was told that Mr. Dumas was stopping there and was shown. his room. Mr. Dumes was ous? writing, but welcomed the jeweller cordially. 'Ah,' he said, 'I am glad you have come. I am surry that my wife is confined to her bed, I will just step into the next room and let her make her selections.' The juweller in a moment of weakness, consented. After waiting five minutes he began to get ner-Ho aid not like to disturb a sick rous. lady, but went to the office to make some inquines. There he found that Mr. Du mas had just stepped out, and had no wife or child in the house. He was finally caught, after he had played the same game on a number of jowellers, and lodged in Sing Sing. When he was captured he tried to conciliate the last victim by the presentation of a beautiful overcoat. But the overcoat proved to have been stelen."

A Question.

How can we raise more corn to the acher? Why of course by using Putnan's Corn Extractor. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor has given universal satisfaction, for it is sure, safe and painless. Like every article of real merit it has a hest of imitators, and we would specially warn the public to guard against those dangerous substitutes offered for the gen-

Catarrh—A New Treatment.

Perhaps the most extrao diasy succes that has been achieved in modern science has been attained by the Dixon Treatment of catarrh Unt of 2,000 patients treated during the pass alx months, fully ninety per cent. have been cured of this stubborn malady. This is none the levs startling when it is remembered that not five per cent. of the patients presenting themselves to the regular practitioner are benefitted, while the patients presenting themselves to the regular practitioner are benefitted, while the patient modicines and other advertised cures nover record a cure at all. Starting with the claim now generally believed by the most scientific men that the disease is the tissues, Mr. Dixon at once adapted his cure to their extermination: this accomplished the catarrh is practically cured, and the permanency is unquestioned, as cures effected by him four years ago are cures still. No one clse has ever attempted to cure catarrh in this manner, and no other treatment has ever cured catarrh. The application of the remedy is simple and can be done at home, and the present senson of the year is the most favorable for a speedy and permanent cure the majority of cases being cured at one treatment. Suiferers should correspond with Messars, A. H. DIXON, S. S. M. King-street West, Toronto, Canada and enclose stamp for their treaties on catarrh.—Montreal Star.
