A MURDER VERDICT.

Foul Play.

So Say the Coroner's Jury—Identifying the Axe—Dr Duncombe Examined Deceased for Insurance—The Owner of the Woods Where the Tragedy Took Place Was Suspicious—Welter Charged With the Murder and John Hendershott With ing an Accessory Before the Fact.

St. Thomas, Ont., Dec. 28.-The ininto the death of William Henry Hendershott, near Middlemarch, on December 14th, was resumed to-day at the Grange Hall, this being the fourth day on which it has sat. The crowd of spectators was not so large as yester-

Sylvester Swisher, Neil Campbell, and Henry Couse gave evidence as to the finding of the axe, with stain, seemingly of blood, on the handle, last Sunday. Neil Campbell first noticed a portion of the blade and the axe was taken out by Swisher. It lay between an old tree and the bark which had partly fallen down. The blade and part of the handle could be seen from one side after its first discovery. The three witnesses thought it was hidden for some purpose om the marks made by a notch in keeps the Penwarden House in this city, started positively that she saw William Welter in her private sitting-room of the hotel on that Friday evening, and conversed with him about Hendershott's death. Welter, in his statement the first night of the inquest, said that he went from the woods to Charles Welter's, thence to Duncan Hendershott's, at Fingal, and then back to John Hendershott is where he remained for the evening. This witness also thought it strange that when Wm. Welter, John Hundershott and his daughter met at the hotel next day there was no conversation between them as to the alleged accident. Before Welter came in she called Hendershott's attention twice to the fact that Welter was outside in the buggy, and would perhaps drive oif, but he did not go out.

Mrs. Charles E. Welter's evidence agreed with that of her husband given pesterday, as to his movements on that Friday as far as within her knowledge. She had not noticed Wm. Welter crying when he told of Wm. Hendershott's death, as Craig said yesterday.

THE INSURANCE.

THE INSURANCE.

THE INSURANCE.

Dr. Charles E. B. Duncombes examined deceased for, insurance in the Covenant Mutual, of Galesburg, Ill., on the 2nd of September, John Hendershott coming with him, and J. W. Cook, agent of the company, coming in shortly after. He did not then know that the policy was to be paid to John Hendershott. Patrick Fitzpatrick, of St. Thomas, was brought to him for examination by Hendershott and the agent of the same company the 7th of last June. He reported unfavorably on the risk, because he knew personally of Fitzpatrick's intemperate habits, a matter of general knowledge in St. Thomas. From the Canadian manager of the company he afterwards learned that Dr. Marlatt, of Aylmer, reported favorably on an application from Fitzpatrick under the mame of "Patrick Doyd Fitzpatrick, of Middlemarch," but the similarity of names caused enquiries to be send from the head office to the witness, and the contraction of the company the property of the company heads of the THE INSURANCE. from the head office to the and on his report the application was rejected. The agent of the company had told the doctor that the reason Hendershott wanted the insurance on Fitzpatrick's life was to secure a board owed Hendershott. Gilbert A. Roche, agent of the Mutual Gilbert A. Roche, agent of the Mutual Reserve Fund Association, of New York, canvassed Wm. Henry Hendershott successfully for a $6,000 policy after three interviews, being first introduced to deceased by John. The application was made on the 22nd of September, but the policy was not issued till the 13th of November, the delay occurring, witness thought, because the policy was made payable to deceased's uncle, while his father and mother were alive. It was at witness' suggestion this was done when deceased made the application, he having stated that he had quarrelled with his people and was living with his uncle.

THE OWNER OF THE WOODS. Edwin Wardell, owner of the farm ohn Hendershott leased, and of the John Hendershott leased, and of the woods where the death took place, testified that Hendershott had no right to cut down timber except such dead or dying trees as might be pointed out by witness. No trees had been pointed out by witness. No trees had been pointed out by him this fall, and he did not know of the timber being cut till after the tragedy. He saw blood marks between the body and the stump of the tree the afternoon Hendershott was killed, and said, "There's room here for a coroner to clear this up." He had an axe similar to the one found in the woods on Sunday, borrowed of John Hendershott about two years ago, but would not swear it was the same.

SMEARED WITH BLOOD. Mrs. Duncan Hendershott, who washed deceased's shirts and braces, found a spot or two of blood on the latter, blood on the back, front, and sleeve of the undershirt, and a smear of blood on the back of the outside shirt, extending below the shoulders, and in front down to the stomach.

ing below the shoulders, and in front down to the stomach.

John Begg, John Tyle, and Samuel Crocker made and took measurements of the patches of blood on the leaves on the afternoon of Sunday, the 16th inst. They were distant 28 feet, 60 feet, 104 feet, 170 feet, and 196 feet in a circuitous direction from where the body lay. Crocker, who had been there in the morning, said there were traces of blood discernible between the patches at that time.

and Richard Sanders corroborated the evidence of previous witnesses.

The evidence was concluded at 10.10

pointing out that an investigation would have to be made before a magistrate in any event, and expressed the belief that he would be able to establish the innocence of his clients when the proper time came. County Grown Attorney Donohue addressed the jury, explained the law, and propounded and enforced the theory of the Crown that William David Welter killed William Henry Hendershott, and that John Hendershott was an accessory.

The coroner reviewed the evidence, expressing the opinion that a murder had been committed.

At 11.30 the hall was cleared for the jury to deliberate, and at midnight they agreed upon a verdict that William Henry Hendershott came to his death in Wardell's woods, Southwold, on the 14th inst., at the hands of William David Welter, and that John A. Hendershott was an accessory before liam David Welter, and that John A. Hendershott was an accessory before the fact. The verdict was unanimous. The jury passed a vote of thanks to the coroner, County Crown Attorney Donohue, Detective Murray, and Mr. Frank Hunt, J. P., who has taken an active interest in the investigation. The prisoners were remanded by Mr. Hunt till Friday, January 4th, at one p. m., at the City Hell, St. Thomas. It is expected that Police Magistrate White, Mr. J. McCausland, J. P., and Mr. Frank Hunt, J. P., will hear the evidence.

THEIR FIRST ANNUAL DINNER.

Commercial Travellers at the Royal Last Night.

A Convivial Party Where Good Fellowship Reigned Supreme—Interesting Speeches From Fromment Knights of the Grip— The Toast List—Growth of the C. T. A.

For years past the Hamilton branch of the Commercial Travellers' Association has given an entertainment, either in the form of a conversazione or ball which has invariably been counted an important event. Further on in this column will be found the reasons for the change this year to the dinner which took place in the Royal Hotel last evening. The attendance was in the neighborhood of 100, although covers had been laid for many more who were unable to be present owing to the failure of the Dominion Association to conclude the business of its annual meeting in Toronto yesterday before evening.

The appointments of the eight course dinner were perfect in every respect. Mr. H. G. Wright, Vice-President for Hamilton on the Dominion Board, was in the chair and the vice-chairs were occupied by Mr. W. G. Reid and Mr. J. cupied by Mr. W. G. Reid and Mr. J. H. Herring. Mr. Herring presented the regrets of Messrs. C. C. VanNorman, R. H. Gray and J. C. Beck, retiring President, President elect and Secretary, respectively of the Dominion Board, who were detained in Toronto. Although the dinner commenced at 9 it was exactly 11 o'clock when the toast list was reached.

Robert Stevens remembered seeing an axe handle similar to this one splintered at a bee at John Hendershott's two years ago next March or April. Hendershott spoke of having paid 40 cents to Fortner for making it, and of Fortner's son having broken it. Witness was one of those who went to the woods on the latal Friday afternoon and watched the body. He saw marks of blood between where the body lay and the stump of the tree, and remarked that it did not look right. Craig, who gave evidence yesterday, asked: "Do you suspect foul play?"

Mrs. James Bancroft, whose husband keeps the Penwarden House in this city, stated positively that she saw William Welter in her private sitting-room of the bottle of the body and the friday evening, and the body of the private sitting-room of the private sitting-room of the body of the private sitting-room of the time had arrived for an ententainment in which all members could participate. "I would like," said he, "to say a word or two in reference to the Commercial Travellers' Association of Canada, of which we form an important part. Some 21 years ago our membership, all told, numbered but 558, while to-day it stands within a slight fraction of 4,000. Our surplus in the year 1873 was only $959.95, and to-day it has reached the handsome sum of $238,524.28, and we have paid in accident, bonuses and mortnary benefits the enormous sum of $201,329.79. We also have a relief fund, which amounts to some $400 a year, and with which an immense amount of good has been accomplished.

The first named substituted his favorite recitation, "The Charge of the Light Brigade," for the usual speech. Capt. Mioore's speech was cleverly done, and while commendably brief contained many witty points.

Another musical number, "The Girl I Left Behind," by Mr. James Simpson, was well received, and Capt. Hendrie followed with several interesting references to his own battalion (the Highlanders), and to the well-known prowess of the Scotch on the battlefields of the world.

"Canada, our Home," was responded to by Messrs. J. Madill and C. Murdoch. The former made an exceedingly patriotic speech. Canada was pre-eminent among the countries of the world in knowledge and morality. His hearers represented the back bone of the country.

He told of the early struggles of the association, when the membership was small and finances low, and referred to the past year as a hard one in the annals of the organization, in that no fewer than 30 deaths had occurred in its membership during that time. Commercial travellers were, in his opinion, the pioneers of civilization, and," conconcluded the speaker, "it is not surprising that such a combination of beauty and brains as composes our organization should have been the success it has," (Laughter and applause).

Mr. T. M. Davis followed with a few humorous remarks about the practical side of the commercial traveller's life, and Mr. Eagan sang the well-known "Prinking" song and chorus.

"Mercantile and Manufacturing Interests" was responded to by Messrs. H. N. Kittson, A. Munro and J. Black. Mr. Kittson, spoke at some length, saying that while he did not think there was much in the present trade outlook to warrant any enthusiasm on the part of business men, and particularly wholesale dealers, still it was a matter for con-

Gentlemen.—I have much pleasure in acceeding to your request to become a candidate for addermanic honors for No. 1 Ward for 1895. Your requisition, with 179 signatures attached indicates that there is a large number of electors who are in favor of seeing me fill the position. On the other hand, I would point out to yourselves and to all the other electors who may be favorable to my election that there are two reasons why I may be defeated. One is, I cannot conscientiously see that it is my duty to go round the ward and canvass for votes. The other is, that inasmuch as I am strongly opposed to the saloon and the liquor traffic, I take it for granted that those who think differently from me in this respect will do their utmost to defeat me. If my friends want me to represent No. I Ward, a good deal of nord work from now until the election is over will be necessary, more particularly acceptance that the time is very short and taken the content of the time is very short and taken the content of the time is very short and taken to the time is very short and taken the content of the time is very short and taken the content of the time is very short and taken the content of the time is very short and taken the content of the time is very short and taken the content of the content of the time is very short and taken the content of the conte cork from now until the election is over ill be necessary more particularly as he time is very more particularly as ther centlemen who are lessed the he position have been early in the field and will have pretty well canvassed the eard.
