

TABLE OF CONTENTS

CHAPTER XIV

The Struggles for Responsible Government

Conditions Prevalent after the Union of the Canadas—What the Advocates of Responsible Government Wanted—Reason for Opposition—The Governors and the Colonial Office—Bagot, Metcalfe, and Elgin—The Political Leaders and the Issue—Draper and McNab, Baldwin and Lafontaine—Lord Elgin Settles the Question—In the Maritime Provinces—Howe and the Governors of Nova Scotia—Varied Phases of the Issue—Fisher and Wilmot in New Brunswick—Satisfactory Solution of an Important Controversy	PAGE 284
---	-------------

CHAPTER XV

Political Reforms and General Progress

The Troubles of 1849—The Rebellion Losses Bill—Riots and Elections—British Free Trade and One of its Results—A Perambulating Parliament—The British American League and the Early Days of Sir John Macdonald—George Brown comes to the Front—Abolition of the Seigneurial Tenure—Settlement of the Clergy Reserves—Political Complications and Parties in the Canadas—On the Verge of Deadlock—Position of Affairs in the Maritime Provinces—Rise of Charles Tupper and Leonard Tilley into Prominence—The Grand Trunk and the Intercolonial—Gradual Growth of the Provinces	305
--	-----

CHAPTER XVI

Reciprocity and the United States Civil War

The Early Fiscal Policy of the Provinces—Abolition of British Preferential Duties—The Public Mind Turns to the States—Lord Elgin's Ability and Diplomacy—Visits Washington and Obtains the Treaty of 1854—Its Nature and Benefits—Its Tenure and Disadvantages—Different Interpretations—The Galt Tariff in the Canadas—Complaints by the United States—The Civil War and the Supposed Attitude of England. Her Real Position and that of the Provinces—The Alabama Claims and Fenian Raids Result from the War—The General Nature of the International Situation—Its Effect upon British America	327
---	-----

CHAPTER XVII

The Confederation of the Provinces

Origin of Confederation—Early Advocates of the Idea—Causes which Brought it to the Front in 1864-66—The Conferences at Charlottetown and
--