THE PLEBSYTE BILL

Passed the Second Reading in the Commons Yesterday.

Lengthy Discussion in the House—Temperance Advocates Say Canadians are Disposed to Prohibit—The Measure One of the Planks in the Liberal Platform—Plebiscite Will Cost $30,000—Mr. Foster Reviews the Bill.

Ottawa, May 3.—(Special.)—There was not much of a debate upon the prohibition plebiscite bill. Indeed, rather a mild interest seemed to be manifested in the measure all through, and, except for the presence in the members' gallery of a modest contingent of prohibition advocates, there was nothing to distinguish the proceedings from those of the most ordinary routine of the House.

Contrary to some expectations, the disposition of both sides was to expedite the passage of the bill, so that at the one sitting it went to second reading, passed the committee stage, and now stands for a third reading.

It appears that when Harbel came to the United States about six years ago he left his wife at home, and after being in New York a short time he met a woman named Annie Brewer, with whom he went to live.

Ottawa, May 3.—(Special.)—The House today passed the plebiscite bill to amend the Northwest Territories Act, providing for giving to the Legislative Assembly the control of education now vested in the Government of the Northwest Territories.
