Beaty:
Wheat—Wheat continues to fluctuate in a wild kind of a way and is puzzling in the extreme to the trade in general.
Early strength was generated on the long reduction in acreage in India and an exaggerated idea as to the volume of business done here yesterday by cash interests.

an exaggerated idea as to the volume of business done here yesterday by cash interests.

We are inclined to take a scalping view of the market for the present, as the wide range of price permits quick turns of a profitable kind.

On any good bulge we still feel that wheat is a sale, and would be inclined to take profits on the breaks with the idea of putting wheat out again as the opportunity offers.

Ennis & Stoppani wired to J. L. Mitchell at the close:

Wheat—The action of the market today was such as to discourage trading on the part of the outside public. At times real strength was shown, while there were periods of weakness as equally pronounced, and after a range of about 1½c perbushel final prices were about unchanged from yesterday. The character of the news abroad was quite buillish, but domestic news was regarded as bearish. Reports regarding the growing crop were very favorable and the only feature of the sersion was hency selling of Sept. and July on all rallies, while the mystifying feature was the gyrations of the May, option, which created some talk of possible accumulation in anticipation of a much greater premium for the nearby futures. In such a market an opinion is worth but little, but we are inclined to feel that there is the ground-work for a good bull movement.

Corn and Oats—Were fairly steady during most of the day, yielding late in the session to realizing sales and closing at lest week. There was cuite a revival of the cash wheat demand. This was the chief bull feeture and there was some very good hiving. Corn—As usual strong, receipts 141 cars. Would use great caution in shorting corp.

Following so closely on the finding of dynamite which had been hidden at one of the towers of the uncom-pleted Blackwell's Island Bridge, the blaze on the Williamsburg span led the police to suspect a general anarchistic plot against the great public works of the city as the outgrowth of the labor troubles,
