years of office he accomplished many notable civic reforms and waged a long and persistent battle against the trac tion interests that sought to bring the city under their uncontrolled domination. As the state laws of Ohio do not permit of municipal ownership and operation of franchises, the late mayor was heavily handicapped by his inability to make this a direct issue, and the electors did not sustain the franchise to the private company he organized under conditions which made it a public trust.

But he continued his efforts and early in October last he secured a settlement of the traction question, which made him the ultimate victor. As The Cleveland Plain Dealer editorially remarked at the time: "Patient in the face of the most tedious and discouraging difficulties, and delays, persevering thruces innumerable setbacks and temporary defeats, Mayor Johnson has brought the city a sane and sensible street rai!way arrangement that will long be considered the best attainable. Neither his most ardent supporters nor his bitterest enemies can with justice den;" him the honor of accomplishment and victory." The traction companies and the city agreed on the value of the traction property and the maximum rate of fare being fixed by Judge Taylor, and it is understood that practically a three-cent fare will be imposed. The last election turned largely on the manner of making the quadrennial appraisement of property for taxation. Mr. Johnson urged that this should be done according with a uniform rule and stated that there was property in the city assessed at not over five per cent. of its value. "Combinations of property," he said, in a press interview, "have kept their valuations to from 10 to 35 per cent.; while property outside the combination is assessed at from 40 to 110 per cent. of its value." With the traction question at an end, the Republican organization carried its candidate, but Tom L. Johnson will keep up the contest and has already intimated that he will stand again in 1911. Constancy and courage are needed these days in United States cities.

THE MAN ON HIS FEET.

The east is east and the west is west. Each has its problem; neither can wholly sympathize with the other. In solving its salvation the west may take measures too generous to win the approbation of the east. But then the east is east and the west is west. The west knows what it wants. The east doesn't know the west, yet. it is with the Province of British Columbia-the farthest' west, so far that it has created an atmosphere as another Canada, even as Californit up until a few years ago possess ed an entity distinct from the rest of the United States.
