Is a powerful drama of intolerance, rivaling in interest that of D. W. Griffith's picture, in five reels of interest-compelling action.

It has a type we all know—the severe, unforgiving "Christian woman, who elects herself a rigid deputy of God, depending upon quotations from the Bible to strengthen the dictates of her narrow judgment.

How, through her harshness, a mother, fighting for justice at the hands of society for her child, is placed upon a Social Pillory more terrible than the one of old, is told in a thrilling succession of scenes.
