GRAPHIC TALE OF LIFE UNDER THE RED CROSS

Miss Mary Burn Tells of Conditions on French Fighting Ground

GREAT NEED OF ASSISTANCE

Instructions to Those Who Wish to Help in the Making of Clothing and Comforts for the Soldiers at the Front

It is hard, in fact almost impossible, for those who have not actually visited the hospitals at the base in France at the present time, to realize the suffering that our soldiers and our allies are experiencing in their battle for the freedom of Europe. Although the casualties from wounds are heavy they are not to be compared to those caused by exposure to the elements and other diseases brought on by continued exposure. The cold, wet weather has for the past month or more wrought a dreadful havoc amongst our soldiers and the base hospitals at Boulogne and St. Omer, where the British headquarters are located, are filled to overflowing. The nurses and officials of the Red Cross Society are called upon to work night and day on behalf of these men who bear their misery with true British fortitude.

Hospital ships, bearing the Red Cross flag, ply continually between the coasts of France and England bearing their quota of wounded soldiers and those suffering from pneumonia and other diseases. The scenes of horror and misery beggar description. Never before in the history of the world have such pitiable cases come before the authorities and were it not for the great work that the Red Cross Society is carrying on at the present time, the loss of life would be appalling.

Few people realize the awful state of affairs existing in Serbia and until Lady Paget went to those stricken people with a band of faithful nurses, wounded Serbians were dying in the streets of Belgrade for want of ordinary Red Cross appliances. Great credit and gratitude is due to the American Red Cross hospital in Serbia which has been doing a wonderful work under the guidance of Miss Emily Simmons, a British Red Cross nurse, who arrived back in New York recently. In an interview recently with a correspondent of the Associated Press, this lady said she had been working with the wounded and with seven young girls she had administered to the Serbians in the trenches for four hundred yards from the firing line and for 48 hours at a time.

Miss Mary Burn has given a graphic description of life under the Red Cross flag in France. Miss Burns says: "There are slaving in Caen some ladies of the French Red Cross waiting for orders to take their hospital train to the port of Cherbourg to bring a trainload of wounded back to the hospitals. Madame la Comtesse de Genes, who is at their head, invited Lady Bagot to come down and see their train and Mr. Farquhar took a party down in the ambulance which had been fixed on to his car as soon as the war broke out. He drives it himself and being cheerfully ready at any hour of the day or night to transport wounded of any sort, he is in great request and has saved much suffering and loss of life."

Miss Burn then goes on to describe a ride in the ambulance van to the railway station where she visited the ambulance train which consisted of forty carriages. She thus describes the train. "First we visited the sleeping carriages of the soldiers. Each one had a sort of little cabin formed out of one of the divisions of an ordinary corridor carriage, a little larger than an English compartment, with a bed on one side, a seat on the other and various boxes and shelves for a little luggage stowed away above and below. They had lately installed a stove in the passage in view of the wintry weather and here they had been living, eating and sleeping for months together. One of them said she had not slept in bed for a month.

"Then we came to the carriages for the wounded," continues Miss Burn. "They are like big, square refrigerators, vans, opening at the side with three great stretchers hung one above the other in each corner—twelve in a wagon with room to get between each set and move freely about as there is no other furniture. Each carriage has one infirmier, who tends these in his carriage but cannot get out of communication with the other carriages till the train stops. They told me that the infirmiers are often priests and that when the patients are dying they perform for them the last rites.

Miss Burn was informed by the sister that the train often went close up to the rear of the action and the workers could hear the cannon booming and the mitrailleuse.

"You cannot know la guerre que cest terrible," said the sister, "until you have traveled through miles and miles of devastated country, black, empty of man and beast, ruined houses, corpses of the roadside unburied, such sadness; and then to come where the people seem lively and cheerful, plenty to eat and the ordinary life going on. Oh, the suffering we have seen and the cruelty to women and children.

This is a description of the work that the Red Cross is carrying on in the devastated places of a country that was once the admiration of the world. Now it is a blackened ruin, and its people are homeless and in many cases starving while the head of the despot tramples them down. In spite of these sad conditions the Red Cross is endeavoring as far as possible to alleviate these conditions as they exist. Hospitals have been equipped at Boulogne and at the base of operations and Red Cross workers are engaged night and day, with little time for sleep or recreation, in their work of mercy. But they need assistance if this work is to be carried on. What are you, reader, doing to help?

In many towns and cities of the dominion parties of ladies have joined together and formed sewing classes where they are doing a splendid work in making comforts for the troops. While the society has received a goodly quantity of these articles, the demand is always being made for more. Those who are unable to join these classes can perform quite as useful a work by giving a cash contribution for money to always the first need of the society for it can be converted at any moment into the most necessary supplies and can easily be sent to any place.

For the benefit of those who are occupied in making comforts the following information may be useful. Women organized for sewing should not spend money on buying the supplies which have simply to be shipped away as bought as these can better be bought at headquarters, but they are recommended to spend money on materials to work up into such garments as shirts, pyjamas, dressing gowns, bed jackets, night shirts, socks, wristlets, mitts, cholera belts and scarves or kit bags, all of which require careful making.

CASCARETS CURE HEADACHE, COLDS, CONSTIPATION

Tonight! Clean Your Bowels And Stop Headache, Colds, Sour Stomach

Get a 10-cent box. Take a Cascaret tonight to cleanse your liver, stomach and bowels, and you will surely feel great by morning. You men and women who have headache, coated tongue, a bad cold, are bilious, nervous, upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach, or have backache and feel all worn out. Are you keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passageway every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil?

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the bowels. Remember, a Cascaret tonight will straighten you up by morning. A 10 cent box from your druggist means healthy bowel action; a clear head and cheerfulness for months. Don't forget the children.

GLASS OF SALTS IF YOUR KIDNEYS HURT

Eat Less Meat if You Feel Back-achy or Have Bladder Trouble

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night. To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and gives a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.

ANSWER TO "4-13"

Fascinating Story Revealed at Gem Theatre in Picture Full of Thrills

The programme at the Gem Theatre yesterday was one of special interest, being featured by a splendid Vitaphone production entitled "4-13"—one of the Broadway Star features which this company has been issuing. There was also a Selig comedy which aroused very hearty laughter, in addition to which the Gem orchestra had an enjoyable bill of musical novelties.

The story of "4-13" is fascinating. It is enacted in three reels by a clever Vitaphone cast headed by Julia Syvann Gordon and Harry T. Morey, and deals with the career of a supposedly respectable business man who is leading a double life. To escape detection in a trying moment he jumps aboard a train moving sixty miles an hour, grapples with the driver, opens the throttle, and the car plunges over a fifty-foot embankment. Death reveals identity. What has this to do with "4-13"? See the answer at the Gem today.

There is no possibility of any firm continuing in business and selling "Tas" of the quality of "SALADA" for less money. You can get "SALADA" Brown Label from your grocer at 8c. a pound. Blue Label at 4c., and Red Label at 5c. a pound, and these are from the choicest of grapes raised on the Island of Ceylon. All "SALADA" Teas are clean, pure and free from dust, which so many other teas are loaded with to reduce their cost.
