Victory's Speech. Belfast, June 8.—In a speech at a complimentary luncheon at the Victoria Hotel, the new viceroy, said: "Ireland is not prosperous. No country has a right to be prosperous when it is rampant in large parts of it. Before we can hope to see Ireland prosperous the sin of murder must be eradicated. One of the most deplorable, one of the most public things to me in coming to this country is to realize that what I fear is true, that many persons perpetrating these crimes are taught by their leaders that they are not committing sin. If that spirit continues there is no hope for the prosperity of Ireland. Men who inculcate such doctrines into the young men of this country know in their hearts they are acting against the laws of God and His church and are drifting into heinous crime."

Victim of Crime. Victim of crime against the Black and Tans. "Let us be frank about these things," he said. "It is true horrible crimes have been committed by individual members of this force, but it is unjust to say that the whole force is guilty. The force was hastily enlisted and hurriedly set to work, without proper discipline, and some of them are guilty, but not the force as a whole. Explanations of provocations may be adduced on behalf of those who have perpetrated these crimes, but there is no excuse for any force committing such crimes, and I will be much surprised in the future if any more such offences occur, because the proper spirit of discipline now exists."

Victory appealed to the people not to think only of what was said against the Black and Tans, but to remember that there were many things in their favor. He instanced the burning of the serious house at Dublin and the loss of life there which would have been more serious but for the extraordinary courage of a small number of Black and Tans.

MINERS TO TAKE ANOTHER VOTE

Brighter Outlook in British Coal Trouble.

Executive Recommends Ballot on Amended Proposals of the Mine Owners—Engineering Trades Employers Announce Cut.

London, June 8.—(Canadian Associated Press)—The best news which has come to the public for many weeks is that the miners' executive has resolved to recommend that the convention of district delegates of the miners which will assemble here on Friday, order a ballot of the miners' unions on the question of accepting the amended proposals of the coal owners.

A two-thirds vote of the delegates will be necessary to carry this recommendation, but the leaders are said to be sanguine that it will be forthcoming. Assuming that the referendum is favorable to acceptance, work can hardly resume before Monday week. The miners will have lost more than fifty million pounds in wages, and many will be unable to start work for weeks, owing to the conditions of the mines, engineering trades posted notices of reductions in wages, affecting a million and a half men. Negotiations between the employers and unions have been proceeding for two months, but the employers allege that the workers have taken an impossible position, and hence have decided to fix wages on their own account.

The minister of labor is still, however, meeting both sides alternately. His Thomas MacNamara, the minister of labor, is meeting the employers in the cotton trade today. The cotton operatives have already adopted his suggestion that both sides confer again, taking up the questions at issue at the point they were dropped on last Friday. A settlement of the disputes between employers and operatives in the woolen industry is said to be likely.
