The Result Very Encouraging

The prospect yesterday at the hour Prog-RESS went to press, were that the total attendance at the exhibition would approach 60,000 very closely. This exceeds the conservative estimate made by the association directors and must be satisfactory indeed, since they are assured, so PROGRESS is informed that expenses will be met with the assistance of the guarantees. This includes the cost of construction as well and when the thousands that the new buildings cost are taken into consideration the result is as remarkable as it is encour sging. This means that an exhibition may be an annual affair, and if that proves to be correct the city may well be gratulated. Perhaps at no time have the gratuiated. rerasps at no time nave the people generally been so convinced that an exhibition was of such benefit generally as at present. Now is the time to decide for another exhibition next fall and to fix the dates. It would do no harm to fix them somewhat earlier next year.
