Steps are being taken by a number of prominent merchants and shippers to create a market for New Brunswick potatoes ate a market for New Brunswick potatoes in Cuba. At present the market for these products is rather poor. The Aroostook counties ship their supplies into Maine and find sale for them there, but the market has never been properly worked up. The proposed plan is to have the potatoes shipped direct from St. John to Cuba by the steamer Bauta, which could call at that island to discharge, without losing much time—Sackville Post.

Recently he was given an advance in salary and a promo tion from ledger keeper to teller. He was a most efficient clerk. The influx of American immigrants into Western Canada is causing much concern to the officials at Washington, and many inducements are being held out to prevent it. So far they have been futile. American agriculturalists recognizing that Canada is the country of the near future, are swarming by hundreds across the Canadian hands against a the Canadian hands against a the Canadian hands again. border and taking up lands in the Canadian west. The man who is in as good a position as anyone else to judge of the extent and effect of this is now at the Royal hotel. He is John R. Costigan, of Calgary, son of Hon. John Costigan, of this province. Mr. Costigan, who has been in the west for some years, is well established in a lugrative legal practice at Calin the west for some years, is well established in a lucrative legal practice at Calgary. He is enthusiastic over the future of his new home and when asked by The Telegraph recently as to the extent of the flow of Americans to the Canadian west, said that from 10,000 to 12,000 would enter Canada this season. Alberta gets the largest proportion, as most of them enter Canada near Calgary. They are for the most part scientific farmers, with plenty of money, able to buy the latest improved farming machinery and get their living from mother earth by the most up to date methods. Iowa, the Dakotas, Minnesota and Oregon are the states which contribute most largely to the ranks of these settlers. A farmer with say 300 acres of good land in Iowa can find no trouble in disposing of his farm at a figure often as high as $100 per acre. This he does and then removes to Canada, where plenty of just as good land can be got for from $3 to $10 an acre. This, in a nutshell, is the principal reason for the investor of Canada. a nutshell, is the principal reason for the invasion of Canada. In Alberta the lands on the line of the railways are already well taken up, but other lines being built through the district are opening up line sections of country. Particularly is this true of the Canadian northwest in Northern Alberta. Many of the settlers thus coming to Canada are French-Canadians, who originally went to the United States, and a large proportion of them are from

John's (Nfld). Timber Market Peculiarities.

The manner in which a particular marime to peculiarities in the way of speci-ication is not a little singular. The 3x9 ndsawn deals, 14ft. long, of the Spanish trade, although not so general a feature as ally, these were turned out by the Finrish peasantry, and picked up by jobber on the coast, who paid for them, as a rule somewhere about £1 per dozen. In the days when a shipowner was almost always merchant also, and the captain of the ressel, in addition to his nautical duties was largely engaged in buying and seiling, round voyages which yielded handsome profits were made between the Finnish coast and the Iberpeninsula, the vessels taking on the outward voyage, and returning with salt and colonial goods. But were the palmy days of the timber trade, and the Spaniard has awoke to the act that it is cheaper to import timber n the various sizes required than to cut t out of 3x9 deals. At the present day South Africa almost in a similar manner clings to 9x3 deals, 1x6 1-2 tongued and grooved flooring, and 5-8in, ceiling boards, to the exclusion of pretty nigh all other descriptions. The demand from Holland for "Dutch timber" is another striking eature. The logs are brought from all parts of Northern Europe in just the same manner as for generations past—London Timber Trades Journal.

STOCKFORD ALWAYS LOST, CANADIAN TRADE EXPANSION

Countryman's Partner Knew Why THE SUBJECT GONE INTO BY THE He Lost at Cards; Because He Had the Money to Pay.

In the county court Wednesday afteroon the case of the King vs. Amelia lowrey was tried. John L. Carleton, K. C., appeared for the prisoners. On behalf of the crown, the thaniel Stockford, the complainant, Lizzie Wetmore, Jacob Lupee, Ella Mitchell, Sarah G. Phillips, Sarah Cosman and Officers William White, George Henry and James K. Maclaren. The only posipocket book out of Stockford's pocket while he was asleep in the house. The witness admitted she took Stockford's watch, but gave it back to him next morning. She took it for safe keeping. Stockford himself does not seem to have a very clear idea as to what happened on the day he was robbed. He was drunk and seems to think his liquor was drug-ged. All he seems sure about is the fact that he had almost $100 when he went into the Francis house and some one re-lieved him of it before he went out. He was there from 11 o'clock Tuesday until the next afternoon at four, playing cards for the drinks. He says he always lost but did not know why. This was explained by Lizzie Wetmore who said she was by Lizzie Wetmore, who said she was Stockford's partner and he always lost be cause he had the money to buy the drinks. Only very small sums of money were found on the prisoners.

Mr. Carleton did not call any witnesses for the defence. In addressing the jury he claimed that the crown had not proved its case against any of the prison-ers; he did not think the evidence was ufficient to find any of his clients guilty of theft. He more than suggested to the jury that perhaps the person who took the watch for safe keping also took the the watch for safe keping also took the money and hegletted to return it. He would ask them to examine all the evidence carefully and see if there was anything in it which would justify them in finding any of the prisoners guilty. On motion of Mr. McKeown Judge Forbes discharged Peter Francis on this indictment as the evidence was not sufficent to hold him. Mr. McKeown addressed the jury briefly. He stated the dressed the jury briefly. He stated the crown case against Amelia Francis and Lowrey. He drew their attention to the

that he had received two $5 bills from Stockford in payment for a drink and it seems that Stockford never got back any part of this money at all.

After his honor had addressed th jury they retired at 5.15 o'clock and returned at 5.30, bringing in a verdict of guilty against Amelia Francis, and not guilty against Thomas Lowrey. The latter was consequently discharged on thi indictment and Amelia Francis was re manded for sentence.

Departure of the Provincial Soldiers.

Owing to unlooked for complications the final selections of men from St. John corps for the coronation, there was one who instead of leaving for Levis, now compelled to put aside all thought of witnessing the coronation as a soldie in Canada's contingent. It was thought that J. C. Henderson would represent the Bearer Corps, but at the eleventh hou ected instead. The men from the 62nd were Col.-Sergt. Allan Leavitt and Sergt. Herbert Smith. The Little Fellow Smashed Him. An interesting fracas is reported t have occurred on the D. A. R. expres hortly after leaving Annapolis for Digb vesterday. A party of four big lumber men, it seems, endeavored to monopoliz the smoking car and being half intoxicat ed made it very unpleasant for the other passengers, a number of whom left the car in disgust. Finally the biggest of the quartette, who was also the most loud-mouthed and profane and abusive, reach-ed over and knocked the hat off the head of a little commercial traveller about half his size. The little man quickly picked up his hat from the size straightened up his hat from the aisle, straightened out its dents and replaced it on his head saying in a very mild tone: "Oh, see here, don't do that again!" The remark and action elicited only a loud guffav from the big bully who promptly dropped his fist on the top of the little fellow's hat by way of taunt. He never made a bigger mistake in his life, and the other assengers enjoyed the scene that follow ed. In less than a breath's time from the perpetration of the second offence the ittle chap had reached over the back of the seat and the big bully's face was streaming blood. In the ten minutes that followed the bully, if he had time to realize anything between blows, rea ized that he was "up agin' it for fair."
The other passengers prevented interfer ence and the commercial man used up his target so scientifically that when the train hands came into restore order the

GUARDIAN OF MANCHESTER, ENG.

Record Year of Immigration from the Old Country--Prof. Robertson, Dominion Commissioner of Agriculture, Interviewed by the British Paper -- A Bright Future.

The present year promises to establish a "record" of emigration from the United bookings of emigrants during the first now the Dominion government has sent over Professor James W. Robertson. ommissioner of agriculture and dairying at Ottawa, to arrange for the placing of better and increased supplies of Canadian food products in the markets of the United Kingdom.

In the course of an interview Professor Robertson gave some account of the plans of the Dominion department of agricul-ture. While keenly alive to the advan-tages of new markets that are opening Robertson says that his department is devoting its most strenuous exertions to the expansion of the markets of the United Kingdom, and it is doing this by taking every precaution, that legislation, direct expenditure, and educational influence can bring to bear upon delivering Canadian commodities to the British consumer in as good condition as when they sumer in as good condition as when they leave the soil of Canada.

In admitting that the recent census of Canada was disappointing and that the population had not increased much during the past 10 years Professor Robertson pointed out that the populations of the cities and towns had increased very considerably. siderably. The mining communities of Ontario, British Columbia, the Yukon, and elsewhere in the Dominion had grown to enormous proportions. These, of course, are all non-producers of food commodities, and the standard of living throughout Canada generally is much higher than it was 10 years ago. The point that Professor Robertson makes rease in domestic consumption would made substantial progress during the past the increased output of products, (2) the improvement in the quality of the exports and (3) the protection of their original condition during transit. As a matter of Allan, the Thomson, and the Donaldson than the condition during transit. fact Canada's exports have trebled during the past 10 years, and Professor Robert-son looks forward with entire confidence to at least a similar increase during the decade 1901-10.

Professor Robertson says that the work charged in Canada is the education of the agricultural communities in the most scientific and up-to-date methods of profitably carrying on their various industries. He regards this as the safe and effective way of helping the farmers to meet these new conditions that surround them, meaning thereby such forms of help as will result (1) in increasing the intelli-gence of the farming population in regard to their own business, (2) in developing practical ability, and (3) in bringing about co-operation. "Man to man," he said, "we in Canada have as intelligent a people as can be found anywhere. The average man in Canada in general intelligence as I meet him is ahead of the people in nearly all other countries I go to, but in special knowledge regarding agriculture he is in very many cases very far behind the land his father lived on before him, and who acquired almost by inheritance the information with regard to the best methods of management which a man in a new country and place cannot find out a new country and place cannot find out for himself in any one lifetime."

In support of the statement that export of agricultural commodities from Canada had about trebled in the 10 years ending in 1900, Professor Robertson furnished the following figures showing the value of some Canadian farm products exported in the years 1890 and 1900, and for statistical nurnoses these years end are nine inspectors charged with the enfor statistical purposes these years end on June 30:-

While Canada exported $72,554,343 worth of the commodities enumerated in the above table the imports of the same articles into the United Kingdom from all countries was no less a sum than $476, 382,389. It is for a larger share in this vast trade that Canada is now battling (1) by educating the Canadian farmers to produce nothing but the best, and (2) by educating the British consumers into the habitual use of what Canada pro duces, and can increasingly continue to produce in quantities sufficient to feed many United Kingdoms. It will be noted that in the foregoing table the export of cheese has increased from about 91-3 million dollars in 1890 to nearly 20 million dollars in 1900, but Professor Robertson is not yet satisfied tha it is put on the British market in the best possible condition. The cheese is not uniformly cured to meet the taste of the best customers. Satisfactorily to obviate this defect the Dominion government is now building four large conso dated curing-rooms, two in Ontario and two in Quebec province, at the chief cheese-producing centres. These are to be used as object lessons in a new meth od, and it is expected that when the gov ernment has demonstrated their success the whole country from ocean to ocean will be dotted over with similar estab lishments, worked by private enterprise.

Of the consolidated curing-rooms now into such a picture as his mother wouldn't being erected each will handle the cheese recognize. Then the little man sat down and resumed his newspaper while the other bullies threatened to "do him up" when they got to Yarmouth.

times hindered the extension of business in this great Canadian staple in the Brit-ish markets. The work at these consoli-dated curing establishments will for some years be managed under government superintendence, but it is anticipated that will about cover the expenses—"and so," remarked Professor Robertson, "it is good business as well as good policy for the department of agriculture.' "Now, if we cured the cheese in the very best possible throughout Canada generally is much higher than it was 10 years ago. The point that Professor Robertson makes from this is that even if Canadian exports holds of steamers, and hence the department of agriculture in its educational campaign among the farment of the control of business with Canada direct for th mechanical refrigeration of those parts of lines.
