"There has been a reduction of 70 per cent. in drunkenness since the Ontario temperance act became effective on September 10," said Chief of Police W. T. Williams, of London, Ont., in answer to a question as to the effect prohibition has had on general police conditions.

Word has been received by friends in Dunwich of the death of Pte. John M. McIntyre, who was killed in action in France on Sept. 26. The soldier, who is one of three brothers at the front, is a son of Daniel G. McIntyre, of Clearwater, Man., and a former resident of Dunwich.

The organization of farmers in a non-partisan political league is being attempted in Saskatchewan, and already, according to one of the organizers, nearly two thousand farmers have paid $15 each into a common fund. It is stated the organization will attempt at the next election to secure a majority in the Legislature on a platform including Government ownership of flour mills, elevators, packing plants and rural credits.

A delegation representing the Association of Rural Postmasters waited on the Postmaster-General on Thursday and asked that the salaries paid to rural postmasters be improved. They based the request upon the alleged inequality existing as between country and city postmasters in regard to salaries and the amount of work required.

The delegation presented Albert Postmaster-General with a cheque for $2,000 to be divided among the patriotic funds, making in all $13,000 collected by the postmasters.

The Supreme Sacrifice.

Sorrow was keenly felt throughout the community and the war was brought nearer home to us when on Thursday morning an official telegram was received to the effect that Harry Finlayson, another of our village boys, had fallen on the field of honor on Sunday, Oct. 8th.

Private Harry Alexander Finlayson was the eldest son of Archibald Finlayson, traveller for John Garvey & Sons of London, and was born and brought up in Glencoe. A few years ago he went to the West and took a position as travelling representative of the Canadian Rubber Company's Regina branch. In August, 1915, he enlisted with the 3rd University Company of the Princess Pats and was attached to the machine gun section. He had spent nearly a year at the front in France and was in several sharp engagements with the enemy.

Two brothers, Corporal Arch. Finlayson, is a member of the paymaster's staff of the 133rd Battalion, now stationed at St. Thomas. Another brother, Stuart Finlayson, is at Aldmonte. Two sisters, Mrs. Chas. B. McLean, and Miss Jennie Finlayson, reside in Glencoe.

Harry will be remembered in Glencoe for his kind-hearted disposition and manly bearing, which won for him the esteem of the whole community.

A. E. Powley Dead.

The Winnipeg Free Press says:—The death occurred on Tuesday, Oct. 17th, of Albert Edward Powley, who before he retired three years ago was a prominent builder in Winnipeg. Mr. Powley, who was 57 years of age, had been in poor health for about a year. He came from Wardsville, Ont., about 20 years ago to Winnipeg, and was held in high esteem by his many friends. He is survived by Mrs. Powley, one daughter, Mrs. F. L. Martin, 192 Maryland, two sisters, Mrs. John H. Johnston, Carman, Man., Mrs. E. Robinson, Newbury, Ont., and one brother, John Powley, of Churdam, Iowa. The funeral took place Thursday afternoon at 2:30 to Elmwood cemetery, the Rev. R. W. Whiting conducting the services.

Writes of Trip Across.

In recent letters to his home in Ekfrid, Corporal D. C. McArthur of the 36th Battery, and was born and brought up in Glencoe. An interesting write from Camp Petawawa to Witley Camp in England. From these letters we are kindly allowed to quote:—

En Route, Halifax, 10-9-16. We were rather surprised on Thursday when we were told that we were to leave Petawawa on Friday evening at 8, as we had been told that Saturday was the time. However, we got busy at once and packed up our earthly possessions and entrained as per schedule.

When we woke up the next morning we were not far from Montreal, at some big remount depot, with mules on one side of us and horses on the other. We stopped in Montreal for an hour or so, and bought postcards and fruit at a little French store near the station. There were lots of people around, but the 9th, which comes from there, got most of the attention.

After Montreal we had a day of Quebec, in fact we didn't get into New Brunswick until this morning. We travelled on the east side of the river, but most of the fine scenery went by when we were asleep. Most of what we saw was long, narrow fields, with endless rows of parallel rail fences running away from the railroad, and small whitewashed houses all on the main road, like a long village. Here and there we saw oaks in the fields, and husky-looking women in black dresses and black straw hats pitching grain. We had fun trying our very rusty French on the other men in the stations. Most of them didn't have a word of English. I thought I was having a great time with an intelligent-looking "infant," but he closed the conversation by telling me to "Shut up" in French and "Damn fool, you" in English.

About 10 Sunday morning we got into northern New Brunswick, among the Appalachian foothills. The day was bright, and the scenery was certainly wonderful. Big, round-topped mountains, covered with pine and birch, on all sides, and a narrow, rocky river running beside us. The farms began to look more like Ontario again, and the villages did not have the time I spent in Glencoe and the fine way in which you and Mr. Annett always treated me. I was figuring it all out today and I find that it is now about 41 years since I saw you last—the time I came through Glencoe on the Chatham with the St. Catharines regiment. I have become a very expert drummer since I left Glencoe and now I am in the best of the best, if not the very best band that is with the Canadians in England. Undoubtedly our band will remain at the machine gun depot to which I am attached for the duration of the war. So you can imagine what good news this was to my mother when I told her. Bands are a very important part of the army. I like England very well, and I had a very fine trip over, about four months ago, and I really wondered why Mr. Annett always used to say he wouldn't like to cross the ocean. Of course we were in danger of being torpedoed by submarines and so on, but we didn't mind that. We get fairly well treated here, but the food isn't such as a fellow is crazy about. I often think of the times when Fred and I used to come home late and make a raid on the good cake you had to have. Fresh, poor soul, while he was living today, would be one of the gamiest of them all in the way of soldiering. I know he would have been right there with the first to do his duty.

I had a week's holiday in England and had a very enjoyable time in London, Southampton and Bournemouth. Our band gets lots of jobs at hospitals, and in this way I have a chance of seeing a lot of England. We are continually in danger of zepp raids, but a good soldier fears nothing.

I frequently get the Transcript, so you see I am not entirely forgotten. It keeps me in touch with the old town.

When you are in the army you certainly have to toe the mark. It's a whole lot different from being your own boss. Any of the Glencoe boys who can tell you that. We are up at 6 a.m. every morning and have to be in at 9:30.

From where we are stationed at Shorncliffe we can hear the big guns roar in France when a big drive is on. It makes a fellow feel that he'd like to be there too.

When this terrible war is over, and I get back, I am going to make it my business to call and see you and Mr. Annett.

I had a big surprise the other day when I got a cake sent over from mother. You can't imagine how good it tasted as we are never served with cake here. It didn't last very long.

stuff I used to eat in Canada. It is funny that when you can't eat anything, and couldn't get what you want anyway, what visions you get of fried chicken, roast duck, pancakes and maple syrup, creamed cauliflower, etc., etc. I expect to make an awful hole in some English restaurant before long—I have been planning out a meal for a week now.

Killed While at Play.

Sad news was received yesterday from Sarnia to the effect that Floyd Jelley, son of Rev. W. T. Jelley, who recently moved to that place from Glencoe, had been accidentally killed.

It appears he and some other children were playing on the street Tuesday evening when one of the steel ribs of an umbrella in the hands of a little girl pierced his eye and penetrated to the brain. The boy died a few hours later.

The remains were expected here last evening and the funeral will be on Friday afternoon from the residence of his uncle, Frank Copeland, Symes St.

World's Record Wheat Crop.

In view of various claims of world's record wheat crops for large areas, the Crowfoot Farming Company of Crowfoot, Alberta, submit a sworn statement of their results for the year 1915 which probably surpass all properly authenticated claims from other sources.

From 1,356 acres the Crowfoot Farming Company received an average yield of 51 bushels, 561 pounds per acre of number one spring wheat, by actual sowing weight; 400 acres of wheat averaged 50 bushels per acre. These records were established in the Canadian Pacific Railway Irrigation Block in Southern Alberta.

A Shorncliffe Letter.

Pte. Corrie Doherty, in a recent letter from Shorncliffe, England, to Mrs. M. Annett, Glencoe, says:—

It is unnecessary for me to tell you that I am serving my country, as all young men should be doing, because you have no doubt read it in the Transcript. At times it is rather lonesome over here, so far from home, and many of the hours I spend thinking of the time I spent in Glencoe and the fine way in which you and Mr. Annett always treated me. I was figuring it all out today and I find that it is now about 41 years since I saw you last—the time I came through Glencoe on the Chatham with the St. Catharines regiment. While in the danger zone we had to wear lifebelts all the time, except at night, as a precautionary measure. We had a couple of practice alarms to teach us our places.

Outside of a half-hour of physical exercise before and after dinner, I had the day to myself. I had planned a lot of things to put in my spare time at, but most of it was spent in my bunk, thinking of what good
