

ADVICE TO YOUNG MEN.

Robert J. Barlett, the famous Burlington House man, lectured at the Young Men's Christian association hall last evening. His subject was "Advice to Young Men." It is more blessed, the lecturer says, to give than to receive advice. The only man I ever knew who felt that he was too young to advise other people was 98 years old, and had just begun to learn that he didn't know anything. You always pay for the best advice. Really good advice is never free. Did you ever ask your lawyer a question? And what did the lawyer say? Fifty dollars. If you want to be somebody in this world you must begin by being yourself. Your great-grandfather can't help you, because he is dead, and this is a live world, and wants living men. When I hear a man talking too much about his ancestors, I say "There is a man who needs them." I have known men who were very proud of their ancestors whose ancestors would have been diabolically ashamed of them. We care more for the pedigree of the horse we buy than for that of the man who sells him. After all, hard work is the greatest secret of success. It accomplishes more than genius. There are white crows but they are no more useful than the black ones. Hard work doesn't kill men. "Fun" kills men. The "good times" the boys have lay them out. The hard workers have no time for dissipation, as they live long. Man's work goes on forever, but every man doesn't go on forever to do it. He doesn't do it all while he does stay here. A young man must do his best and hardest work now. When you get $50 a line for poetry, my boy, as Mr. Tennyson does, then you can afford to write as poor poetry as Mr. Tennyson does. Wearing a Barnside hat doesn't give a man a war record. Twenty-eight inches of coat padded across sixteen inches of shoulders doesn't make a man a gymnast. Men do not value a turkey for its plumage. Don't go into debt. If you can't get along without more than you have, don't borrow; steal. It would not worry you so much and if you steal enough you can go to Canada and become a shining light in society. "Does it pay," you ask, "to be honest?" No, my son; not if you are honest for pay it doesn't. Not if you are honest because you think it will pay; not if you are honest because you are afraid to be a rascal; not if you are honest because you believe in that mean old saying "that honesty is the best policy." Honesty isn't a policy; it is a principle; and if you can't be honest because your soul hates a lie and despises a mean action; if you can't be honest for the sake of the dear white truth herself, don't try to be honest; be a rascal; that's what you were intended for.

Get married, my son. Look me in the eye. If you never do anything else in the world, get married. Don't be in too big a hurry about it, but don't be too deliberate. It's your duty. Don't think the girls are butterflies of fashion. If you want to marry a laundress, do your courting in the laundry; but if you want a wife, marry the girl you love. Be honest in the world. Don't sail under false colors. Don't repine over your poverty; it is good for you. We get most of our presidents from Illinois tanyards and farms and Ohio tow-paths. Don't envy any great man, my boy. The great man, with his weight of care, envies you every time he passes you by. And if you can't be a leader, double-leaded, a column long, on the second page, you can be something just as useful. You can be a little paying four-lined solid non-parted "ad," on the inside, down under the picture of Lydia Pinkham, and that will help the make-up and fill its place in the paper. Be anything in the world, my boy, that is alive and useful. Be anything but a "dead ad."—Boston Herald.

THE EVIL OF THE AGE.

It is a rare evil of the age that the professions are so overcrowded. While independent fathers are supporting a regiment of deceased sons in every State in some kid-glove profession that does not pay office-fee, the poor country is suffering from the lack of producers and industrious workers. At the National Capital and at every State Legislature professional service is a drug while business ability is in demand. Men are today wandering about with nothing to do, who have spent time enough poring over Greek and Latin, to have acquired knowledge of and skill in a business or trade that would have assured success. The field for intelligent and skillful labor in this country is large and poorly supplied; that for accomplished imbeciles is small and terribly overstocked.—Sd.

"That's the sort of umbrella that people appropriate," said a gentleman to a companion one morning, showing a very handsome silk purchase.—"Yes," rejoined his companion, "quietly." "I thought so when I saw you holding it."
