Etc., Etc.

The Dorenwend Belt contains an actual battery, produces a current of quantity as well as of force. The current is carried to different parts of the body as desired by conducting cords. The current can be regulated to a finer degree than any belt in the world. It is the only one that allows of regulation while the belt is on the body. If you wish to use electricity get a Dorenwend belt. It accomplishes all that electricity can. Avoid all belts wherein there is no battery; they are humbugs, and any scientist will endorse what we say.
