gether prepared , if it cannot be ast that Ontario

rial to rouse the

on to the subject h Canadians in er will be safe.

English-speakid

Protestant population there are now appealing to their kith and kin in this Province to come to their rescue."

In its issue of August 21st, 1886, The Mail threatened again to overwhelm Quebec with invasion from the east and west in the following style:—

"They (the people of Quebec) may depend upon it that a Macedonian cry from the eastern townships would elicit a vigorous response from the three million English-speaking Canadians to the east and west of Quebec. of French Cana The result. we need hardly say, would be felt by every interest in Canada. All he efforts put forth by Cartier and others to establish concord and harmony would be, in great measure, undone, and the work of building an united country out of wo separate and distinct peoples thrown back indefinitely."

The article from which the above extract is taken is a sort of general sum-English inhabit ming up of the series of attacks it had been making for months on the Catholic Church introduce thurch. It pictures the Church as injurious to the Protestant minority in Quebec; Ontario—and, as natities the "most unique and most oppressive institution of its kind on the face entitled by law hat it is the "most unique and most oppressive institution of its kind on the face tion in this Proof the earth:" that it compels the State to recognize the supremacy of its e in our own celesinstical and canonical codes; that it "interdicts the operation of the civil law out, which is nder pains and penalties deemed worse and death;" that Quebec, under the subjection to hurch's rule, is so much worse than other countries that "even in Spain and ake Jean Bap elgium the wreaking of clerical vengeance upon the dead is made a criminal lince;" that the Church wholly disregards the Dominion election law prohibiting tario against the adue clerical influence in election contests; that "the whole civil code of Quebec e constant effort based upon the principle that the ecclesiastical law is above the civil law;" of Quebec werend, generally speaking, it denounces the Church in the most unsparing manner.

Commenting on this article the Montreal Herald of August 25th, 1886,

e very nature observes:—

1 of its existence: "Now, as a matter of fact, there is nothing at the position of the Report of the Church in this Province that has not been known to the Toronto of Quebec and the Dominion Government as long as they have had an existence. More that has not been known to the Toronto of the Church or its priests interfered in electious in the past, their interference or less that is for the benefit of the Conservative party. If there has been a union of the conservative party in the past, their interference of influence or power that is proven. For whatever increase of influence or power, there is nothing at the power that is not been to keep Sir John Macdonald in particle the Bronder of the Provention of the Recommendation of the Rec return him to power. For whatever increase of influence or power, three n f the electors of cislative action, the Church has secured, the Protestants of Quebec must thank party of which The Mail is an organ, the party in Quebec supporting Sir John and you, the mornost continuously for the past thirty years. * * * Now if there is to be a and you, the memost continuously for the past thirty years. * * Now if there is to be a ection—to speak igious war proclaimed by The Mail, if the Government party are going to make an election say so their card for the Dominion elections, if the country is to be convulsed, if not you desire the ned, by a sectarian struggle of which no one can predict the end, it is due to ay—you will be Canadian people that those who are initiating the revolution should at once ince—you do not us why they do it. * * * The Government newspaper organs in Quebec use the law was no longer keep silence. They cannot take advantage of these attempts to suse Protestant feeling in Ontario and at the same time claim the allegisters of use Protestant feeling in Ontario and at the same time claim the allegiance of Roman Catholic Church in Quebec—this would be altogether too monstrous, Haldimand, M. outrageous and indecent. They will, of course, be asked to explain why they e thus far sanctioned what, without explanation, looks like a gross and Catholic priest ked attempt to precipitate a religious war for purely partisan ends. The eriously retarded it, in the past, has stopped at nothing in its partisan zeal. It has defended religious celebrations corrupt proceedings of its government friends. It has sworn that white