Extract of a letter from a Corporal at the front to a Suffolk Clergyman:—
"What hurt us most" he writes, 'was the poisonous gas, which made the air green and yellow, choking and poisoning men where they stood. Tobacco saved many lives in that battle. We began to feel choky, but put big chews in our mouths, and this caused us to expectorate the gas. Now whenever we notice the gas, we chew tobacco, which greatly helps.

They Are Reliable

Fairbanks-Morse engines are reliable because they are made by people who know how a good engine should be built and who put their theory into practice.

Before a Fairbanks-Morse engine reaches you it has passed a test which would send a mail order "bargain" to the scrap pile. No balking, no uncanny noise about our engines—they run as "smooth as silk," and are besides, remarkably economical in operation.
