THE SUNDAY OPENING LIBRARIES. In Woodstock an agitation been started for the opening of days of the Free Library there. And why not? The experience of Brantford the same regard has been most satisfactory and pleasing. For some two years now the library has been kept open Sabbath Day between the hours and five o'clock and in the age a large number of both sexes have an advantage of the opportunity afforded. By all that is reasonable harm is there in allowing the same access to the periodicals and magazines on the Sabbath. To the direct contrary there is benefit, for a quiet read is better than loitering about the with no definite aim in view.

THE SENTENCE OF M. PANKHURST. British criminal annals do not afford a more brazen-faced felon authority, and individual right safety than is the openly avowed of Mrs. Pankhurst, leader of the militant suffragettes. On top of all this it is pronounced on behalf of those few women, that murder is to be to the category. This last device on the part of these members of the "gentle" has been made because Mrs. Pankhurst incited arson and a few ladylike things of that kind, as boasted that she was proud of criminalities. There are many men who like to see women have the
