April 28, 1918. Jesus Rebukes Selfishness-Temperance Lesson .- Marks 9: 30-50. Commentary.—I. Jesus foretells his death (vs. 30-32). Shortly after the transfiguration and the healing of the demon-possessed boy, which took place in Caesarea Philippi. Jesus and His disciples went through parts of Galidisciples went through parts of Gali-lee on their way to Capernaum. The language of the narrative 'indicates that they went over unfrequented roads, so that the presence of Jesus would not be disclosed. He took occa-sion to tell his disciples again about the death which he must soon suffer. He had declared this truth previously (Matt. 16: 21), and now they were 'exwent through parts of Gali-(Matt. 16: 21), and now they were "ex-ceeding sorry" (Matt. 17: 23) by the repetition of the announcement. The Son of man was to become, for the time being, subject to the power of sinful men, to suffer death at their of hands; but though it would be granted to them to accomplish his death, they could not present his rising again from the dead. They still failed to understand him, for they were unable to reconcile Christ's purpose to establish a kingdom with the idea of his death. Their minds were only partienlightened with respect to spirially tual things, and their inability to com prehend the announcements which he had already made caused them to fear to pursue the subject further. 11. Greatness and service (vs. 33. 33. he came to Capernaumwest shore of the Sea of Gallice, had been the home of Jesus. He had been away from Capernaum for several months, being in the house-It is for several probable that it was Peter's house. disputed among yourselves by the way—On the way from Caesarea Philippi the disciples had probably fallen behind Jesus, and were earnestly discussing some subject. Our Lord knew what they had said, but he wished to secure an acknowledgment from them. their peace-They were ashamed to tell Jesus, for it would be a confession of a wrong disposition on their part. who should be the great-est—"They called to mind perhaps the preference given on Hermon to Peter the sons of Zebedee, and now disputed, who should be the greatest in the Messianic kingdom, which they foully believed was about to be specified was about to be specified was about to be regent necessity of rebuking the self-secking disposition of his followers. 35. he sat down-He assumed the at-titude of Oriental teachers. called the twelve-That he might give them a much-needed lesson. if any man desire to be first . . . servant of all-Such a desire is opposed to the spirit of Christ, and is utterly out of har-mony with a spirit of humility. The greatest in the kingdom of Christ are who render the most devoted service to him and to their fellowmen

36. He took a child-Matthew says, sus called a little child unto Him' (18, 2). As the house was probably

Peter's, the child may have been his. Set him in the midst-Jesus placed the child before the disciples to illustrate the truth He was declaring. 37. Whosever shall receive one of such children in My name—Matthew records other words of our Lord: "Ex-cept ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven" (18.3). The percessive of a burble teschable such necessity of a humble ,teachable, sub-missive spirit is urged. The self-seeking spirit is out of harmony with the spirit of the gospel. Jesus both exaits childhood and shows the need of hav-ing the childlike spirit. Receiveth Me -One who possesses the humble, childlike spirit receives Jesus. Receiv-eth Me, but Him that sent Me-Not eta Me, but Him that sent Me—Nott only does he receive Jesus, but in re-oeiving Him he receives the Father.

This expression shows the oneness of Christ with the Father.
III. John's Report and Jesus' Ans-wer (vs. 38-50). 38. John answered — The conversation between Christ and His disciples continued, but the sub-lect was changed It may be that the ject was changed. It may be that the words, "In my name," which Jesus had just used, reminded John of what what he and his fellow disciples had recently done. Master-John recogniz-ed Jesus as the great Teacher. Cast-ing out devils in Thy name-The life and works of Jesus were having a great influence. There were some who had come to have great faith in Him, although they were able to averging although they were able to exercise the faith that subdued and cast out evil spirits, but it was done in the name of Jesus. It is evident that the exorcism was real and not pretended or fancied. We forbad Him—The dis-ciples believed they were doing right in commanding those who were using Jesus' name in this way, to refrain from it. They farcied that loyalty to from it. They fancies that loyers to the Master demanded that course, be-cause he followeth not us— The dis-ciples' loyalty, as they regarded it, was of the nature of bigotry. There is distributed in the second second second second second distributed by the second second second second second distributed second sec significance in John's saying, "Follow-eth not us," instead of using the words, "Followeth not thee." The language conveys to us the idea of a strong party spirit among the dis-ciples. Jesus would soon give them a broadened vision of Hinself and His work. 39. Forbid him not—If you meet him again, let him go on quietly in the work in which God owns him.

In the work in which God owns him. If he were not of God, the domons would not be subject to him ,and his Would not be subject to him , and his work could not prosper. A spirit of bigotry has little countenance from these passages.—Clarke. If really good work is being done, we are to bid the workers Godspeed, rather than seek to hinder them or try to discredit their work. Through prejudice and narrow-ness the Jewish leaders had sought to discredit the mission of Jesus, and their prejudice had grown into intol erant ofposition and harred. Lightly speak evil of Me-The very fact that one could perform a miracle in the name of Jesus is proof that the work-er was a sincere believer in Jesus, and hence would have no disposition or motive to speak slightingly of Him. 40. Not against us is on our part-We are either on the Lord's side or arrayed against him. There is no middle ground. There is no such thing no as being neutral so far as our attitude toward Jesus Christ is concerned. 41. Whosoever shall give—in My name—One who should confer this name One who should confer this favor on a follower of Jesus in His name would receive a reward. That being true, how more would he be esteemed who should, in the name Jesus, perform the miracle of casting out evil spirits. It was thought of as the natural thing to do in the dry, hot limate of Palestine to offer water to the thirsty. Though in itself insigni-ficant, it would not escape the divine notice when done to a disciple in the name of Jesus. In these words Jesus showed His followers that they should have encouraged those who were casting out devils in his name instead of coposing them. 42. Shall offend. Shall cause to stumble. It-is better, etc.—The Saviour uses strong lan-guage to express the culgability of them who put coutients.

those who put anything in the way of believers in him. Jeans would make this lesson most emphatic, Hsi fol-lowers are commissioned to be hepful to others in letting them into the good way and do all in their power to keep them in it. The millstone men-tioned here is not the one that could could be turned by hand, but the one that is turned by an animal. The act of pun-Ishnent that is here referred to was practised by the Greeks. Romans, Syr-ians and Phenicians. 43-48. In these verses Jesus shows how important it is that unsublic the state of the state to the structure of the cause us to stumble. We may cling to the things that lead us astray and go down to eternal ruin, but this is not the reasonable thing for us to do. It is far better to sacrifice some of the things that the world calls good, but which are hindrances to spiritual advancement, than to be cast into eternal punishment. The words of Jesus show plainly that the torment of the wicked is unending. 49, 50. Fire and salt are mentioned in the beside show plainly that the torment of the wicked is unending. 49, 50. Fire and salt are mentioned in the came connection. Salt is used as a preservative, since it destroys the act-ion of that which would produce cor-rection, and fire is used as an emblem of saving or preserving order. Fire destroys that which is perishable and renders the imperishable more valu-able. The excellence of salt in do-mesting uses is everywhere recognized. QUESTIONS.—What revelation did Jesus(make to His disciples after the transfiguration? What subject had the disciples been discussing on the way from Caesarea Philippi? What course did Jesus take to rebuke them? What had the disciples done to one who was castine out devise in teme: course did Jesus take to rebuke them? What had the disciples done to one who was casting out devils in Jesus' name? How did Jesus regard their act?, From what are all Christians called upon to separate themselves? What are the properties of salt? What is it to have salt in one's self? is it to have salt in one's self?

Master's words were a gracious re-ivelation of his mind and disposition, as well as an instructive lesson for his disciples. They revealed his gra-rious heart, his compassionate pur-bose and his widely extended love. By unveiling the future to his disci-less desired to open their eles, Jesus designed to open their builds to the spiritual nature of his Fingdom, and to dispel many of their reconceived notions and expecta-tions. The unfolding of his purposes incompletely apprehended. Such ncompletely apprehended. prospect seemed inconsistent with the view they were forming of his Mes Bianic character and glory, and with the expectations they were cherishing of his speedily approaching kingdom. They all expected to occupy posts of lignity and power in his kingdom.

II. Uncharitable judgment. The name spirit which led to the disputing and prompted the disciples to fortid others from working miracles. Jesus proved his superiority to hu-man informity by permitting and encouraging service which his disciples tvould have forbidden. Jesus. taught them that in the conquest of evil, every one's best interests are advannd; that the law of kindness for his ake, is of all things, the most likely to remove prejudice against Christi unity and to bring together those whose interests are separate; that toward all who do not oppose Christ, should be an attitude of hopeful and rustful encouragement, since all perional efforts and public movements righteousness in the world are really parts of Christ's work and are depostient upon his power. Jesus admon-ished his disciples to be more strict with themselves and more charitable with others. He would thus in." them to lowliness of mind, diligent ndustry, willing, self-sacrificing service for the common good. He emphasized the difference between amvition and the desire for excellence.

111. Presumptuous authority. The ebuke of the disciples to those bring-ng the children to Jesus, arose in a neasure from ignorance of the chil tiren's need. While they forbade them but of zeal for Christ, they really misrepresented him and wronged the thildren. It was a revelation when Jesus said, "Of such is the kingdom of heaven." He raised child life to its rightful place and threw the shield of his protection around it. It was in indication of his willingness to receive children, a declaration as to the duty of bringing them to him, a ment with set teeth and powder-black-ened faces, pounding hearts and ach-ing sinews, fighting and dying for every inch of ground in a hell of leclaration of the sin of withholding them. Jesus was the first great ne sympathy for childhood, and taught that there are elements in childhood which should be preserved in manhood. His love and their ivorth, his care and their need, their rights and parental duty were all prought to view in his words, "Suffer "he little children to come." T. R. A.

Pidgin English.

The word pidgin, or pidgeon , as connected with English, is a Chinaman's poor attempt to pronounce the word business. Brewer gives it-busi ness, bidginess, bidgen and pigeon. Pigeon English, therefore, means business in English. It is a strange admixture of English. Chfnese and Portuguese, and is used in all parts of the far cast as a means of com-munnication between the natives, and the foreigners. During nearly half a century, and especially since the open-ing of many ports to Europeans, bus-iness relations have developed to such yast proportions and reuched into co vast proportions and reached into many channels that some universally many channels that some universally understood means of communication became absolutely necessary, and pid-gin or pigeon English was the natural result. Its acquirement in the coast result. Its acquirement in the coast ports, at all events, is a matter of importance both with traders and with natives, who seek situations in foreign employ, and it has become popular as a medium of communication.—Exchange.

He had a beautiful villa, and it was winter time. He was fond of yacht-ing. Had a beautiful craft in her ing. Had a beautiful craft in her winter berth. He showed me into the drawing-room, and lo it was a sail-loft; the only thing on it was the main sail of his yacht. He could not afford to firmish his drawing-room with all sorts of nic-nacks and pay the wages of his crew in summertime. I learned a lesson here. Life large-

The digestive system is inter-fered with, and there is gradual loss of flesh and harshness and dryness of the skin. There is often headache and dropsical swelling of the limbs.

> The most effective treatment is that which awakens the action of the liver and bowels, as well as the kidneys, for these organs work together in removing the poisonous impurities from the system.

This is the reason why Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are so successful in the treatment of diseases of the kidneys. This is why they frequently cure when ordinary kidney medicines fail.

Just put this medicine to the test when you have backache, headache and other indications that these filtering and eliminating organs are sluggish in action, and see how quickly they will respond.

Prevention is always the wiser course. For this reason it is well to keep Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills at hand, and by regulating these organs forestall serious disease.
