A Woman Made Happy
 I could scarcely get about the house to attend to my work and feel miserable nearly all the time," writes Mrs. Alex. Buchanan, Island Brook, Que. "After using Dr. A. W. Chase's New Food my system is wonderfully built up. There is no further trouble from dizzy spells and stomach weakness, and with health and strength restored, life has a new pleasure for me."
 "What's your boy going to do when he gets through college?"
 "Coming right back here to work the farm. With hogs at eleven dollars, and hickories farming 'goin' the law skin and a mile."

Eczema Not a Blood Disease.
 Eczema is a disease of the skin and not of the blood. For this reason internal medicine has never been successful in curing it. What ever the cause local application is necessary to heal the sores and restore the skin to a healthy, natural condition. For this reason Dr. Chase's Ointment has world-wide reputation as being without a rival as a cure for Eczema.

What Are Women?
 Some little time ago a lady correspondent found fault with us for giving voice to the commonplace that women treat each other harshly, and that they are capable of exceeding bitterness toward each other. One of the female characters in a play holding the boards of a local theatre this week exclaimed: "If women were only as loyal to women as men are to men!"
 Our correspondent seemed to think that by adding the names of a number of the most eminent women in history she had overhead the general argument. And she also appeared to think that we ranked men on an altogether superior level to women.
 One of the poets has declared that men at worst and best differ as heaven and hell. Tennyson speaks of men and women in comparison as endowed with passions which are "as moonlight unto sunlight, and as water unto wine." While few will agree that women are the "lesser man" most will accept Tennyson's generalization in "Locksley Hall." But Tennyson lived to write "Locksley Hall Sixty Years After," and to describe the woman "with all the breadth of man, strong in will and rich in wisdom."
 Ideals like this may be exceptional. It is not with exceptions we are dealing, but with the mass of women. Philosophically minded women sometimes explain the difference between men and women as due to economic or social or domestic conditions which have involved the subjection and subservience of woman's nature. The argument at least involves recognition of the difference that exists. That there is a difference is the important thing.
 Unless a weakness or defect is recognized it will never be remedied, and one of the difficulties about reform is the exceeding sensitiveness not to say touchiness, of certain individuals under criticism. Your critic, whether friendly or hostile is doing you a service for he sees with a microscope where your friendly "critic is looking with half-closed eyes."
 Until women understand themselves and until the champions of their sex are willing to see with clear vision, the release of women from natural disabilities will not be accomplished. As they surmount their natural limitations, their artificial restraints will be abandoned.—Toronto World.

 "Oh, no, indeed," answered the physician, modestly, "just an ordinary doctor."

Earnest Request.
 With earnest supplication:
 O Lord, we raise our plea
 That men of every nation
 From liquor may be free.
 While duty's call is pressing,
 Our minds for work prepare,
 And give all strength and blessing
 In answer to our prayer.
 Where once the war was doubtful,
 There comes new signs of strength;
 For faithful work is fruitful,
 And brings success at length.
 To those who long have striven
 For liquor's overthrow,
 May larger life be given,
 While prospects brighter grow.
 By all Thy great revellers,
 Clear as the noonday sun,
 Make known to liquor dealers
 The harm which it has done.
 May people say, "We never
 Were for such bondage made,"
 May they renounce forever
 The hurtful liquor trade.
 Direct, we pray, all voters,
 And all who make the laws,
 That they may be promoters
 Of freedom's righteous cause.
 Give firmness and decision
 To all who act and think;
 Till none shall have permission
 To traffic in strong drink.
 —Pioneer.

A Sad Story.
 In one of the dailies, on the last day of the year, was the story of a man who had just died in a Montreal hospital, destitute and an outcast, after having been picked up in the streets as an unknown. This man had held one of the most important positions in the Grand Steamship Company's business at Halifax. He was known as one of the most capable men in his business, and gave promise of great success. He moved in what is called the best society, drank best him his position. He secured a good place with another steamship company, but was soon reduced to a checker's job. Later he lost that and was for a time a watchman about the wharves, sleeping on piles of hay in the sheds. And at last he was picked up in the streets in a dying condition, nobody recognizing him. At the hospital he was found to be suffering from utter breakdown due to alcoholic excess. He ended the life of one whose prospects had been as bright as those of any man in the shipping business of Canada. And he is but one of many who have gone and are going the same way, by the same means. All this wreckage of manhood is the toll paid to the cruel liquor traffic. Death is the hand of the midnight assassin in the least cold-blooded and revolting. Therefore, the assassin in law, the average wind and a decent conscience can fill the blank.
 Drinking Impairs Industrial Efficiency.
 The United States Steel Trust has discovered that the present custom of drinking heavily is seriously impairing the efficiency of its men at Pittsburg. Statistics gathered by the company show that for seventy-two hours after each pay day, when a majority of the employees have been drinking heavily, the coke ovens do not run up to their full capacity. Some plans for the regulation of the drinking of its steel employees are now being considered. In the same connection the report says that the Carnegie Steel Company of Sharon, Pa., has announced that it will give preference to total abstainers in promotions. Notices to this effect have been posted, and a stringent rule has been adopted by which its employees are forbidden to drink in saloons or on or off duty.
 What He Might Have Drunk.
 A well-known preacher riding in a London omnibus was entertained by a dialogue which was sustained upon the one side by the driver and upon the other by an elderly passenger. "I understand you're temperance," began the driver.
 "Yes, I'm pretty strong against liquor," returned the other. "I've been set against it now for thirty-five years."
 "Sarcasm it will ruin your health," "Yes, but that isn't the main thing. Perhaps it don't agree with you," returned the driver.
 "Well, it really don't agree with anybody. But that ain't it either."

Something Happened.
 A witness in a railway case at Fort Worth, asked to tell in his own way how the accident happened, said:
 "Well, Ole and I were walking along the track, and I heard a whistle and I got off the track, and the train went by, and I got back on the track, and I didn't see Ole; but I walked long, and pretty soon I see Ole's hat, and I walked on, and seen one of Ole's legs, and then I seen one of Ole's arms, and then another leg, and then over one side Ole's head, and I says, 'By gum! Something must happen to Ole.'"

Royal Household Flour
 is a world product. It is well known in Africa as well as in Canada. It is as much appreciated in the poorest household at home as it is in the Royal Household abroad. To make Royal Household Flour the product it is, involves vast capital and resources. Every advanced process, every modern device that can in any way improve the quality of Royal Household Flour is immediately adopted regardless of expense.
 If the production of ROYAL HOUSEHOLD FLOUR was purely a milling process it would not be better than any good flour. But it is not the milling alone that makes it the finest flour in the world. It is the all embracing system of care and watchfulness and scientific knowledge that surround it at every stage from wheat-field to kitchen.
 Canadians may well be proud of Royal Household Flour. It is so small a thing to have that the world's most perfect flour is made in Canada from Canadian wheat and has become a world-wide factor through Canadian skill and capital.
 "Royal Household" is head and shoulders above ordinary flour in quality. It is the best flour for Bread and Pastry is "ROYAL HOUSEHOLD". To try it is to prove it.
 If you should prefer name and address of nearest dealer, please send me your name and address and I will send you a 1/2 lb. tin of Royal Household Flour free of charge.

THAT ACHING BACK
 Will Promptly Get Well If You Help It a Little.
 Father Morrey's medical researches led him to evolve, out of Nature's laboratory, a Liniment of remarkable curative power. It had the merits of other prescriptions of the kind, without their disadvantages, and combined other ingredients with unique value in bodily life.
 The good priest-physician prescribed it for many kinds of aches and pains with most gratifying results, and after his death it continues to relieve and cure suffering.
 In cases of backache due to kidney trouble it is efficacious as a supplement to Father Morrey's "No. 7." It is indispensable in rheumatism, strains, bruises and many similar affections. Taken with the Lung Tonic, it quickly cures cold on the chest.
 The Liniment is clean, has an agreeable smell, and when rubbed in goes to the seat of the trouble and promptly gives relief. Nothing more widely useful has ever been compounded. Keep it in the house.
 Ask your druggist to-day for a 25c. bottle of Father Morrey's Liniment, or get it from Father Morrey's Medicine Co., Ltd., Chatham, N.B.

 The thing that sets me against it is a horrible idea!
 "A horrible idea! What is it?"
 "Well, thirty-five years ago I was sitting in a hotel in America with a friend of mine, and I says, 'Let's order a bottle of something.' As he says, 'No, no. I'm saving my money to buy government land at 75c. and 60c. per acre. I'm going to buy to-morrow, and you'd better let me take the money you would have spent for the liquor and buy a couple of acres along with mine.' I says, 'All right.' So we didn't drink, and he bought me two acres.
 "Well, sir, to-day those two acres are right in the middle of a flourishing town, and if I'd taken that drink I'd have swallowed a city block, a grocery store, an apothecary, four lawyers' offices, and it's had to say what else." That's the idea. Ain't it a little awfully?
