CANADA IN POETRY.

The Herald is in receipt of a very neat Souvenir from the St. John Gazette. Be-tween pretty covers are a number of leaves, on each of which is published a verse. The writers are H. L. Spencer, J. F. Herbin, A. W. W. Dale, Chas. Sangster, Alex. McLauchlan, Kay Livingstone, Henry H. Pitman, and John Hunter Duvar. Following are samples of the poems :

HALIPAX, Dec. 25, 1889. Mr. PATE. F. BROYDERICK.

Ms. Pays. F. Broyderics.

Dear Sir. — Having heard with sincere regret that it is your intention not to offer for re-election as director of our society and taking advantage of this joyous season when all hearts are filled with joy and our volces mingle with those of the angels in glorifying God, we beg to appreach you for the purpose of testifying in some measure the esteem in which you are held by the members of St. Patrick's Catethistical Society. During the two years you have held the office of director you have endeared yourself to us all by the unassuming manner in which you have discharged your duties. We fully recognize Sir, that at times they were difficult and of a very laborious nature and the obstacles with which you had to contend were such that if you were not pessessed of business integrity and discipline, we are inclined to think you would not have been able to terminate them so successfully. We, therefore, beg your acceptance of the accompanying testiment as a mark of our esteem for you and fondily pray that God's choicest bleasins may fall on you and yours during the holy time of Christmas. I have the honor to remain yours truly, P. J. McManus,

St. Patrick's Catechistical Society.

MR. BROYDERICK'S REPLY.

MR. BROYDERICK'S REPLY. Mr. Broyderick replied as follows: 'o the members of St. Patrick's Catechia tical Society:

GENTLEMEN,—To me this evidence of rour "good will" on this joyous Christmas norming, is a surprise as well as a satisfac-ion, that I assure you I feel more deeply has I can find words to adequately express.

I am fully sensible of my own unworthiness of this expression of your kindness, and the generosity that has prompted you to present me with an address accompanion of the companion of th ied by this very acceptable gift. You can understand the overcome feelings of one placed in such a position.

The duties incumbent upon us as teachers of the male children attending St. Patrick's church, are not to say onerous, yet they are such that we should endeavor to faithfully perform. The progress and ultimate success of the classes depend largely upon our own efforts, and it is only by a regular attendance at our classes, and at our monthly meetings, that we can hope for greater improvements.

As director for the past two years (as pointed out in your address), I have endeavored in my own humble way to advance the interests of the children, perhaps, at times, firmly, yet with a consciousness for their welfare. In this I have been ably seconded by 'yourselves, and whatever success, if any success has been attained, must necessarily be credited as much, if not more, to yourselves, than to any set of mine.

It is but left for me to thank yon, is all sincerity, for your kind and flattering address, as also this handsome present, and closing I wish you all a Merry Christmas and a prosperous and very Happy New Year.

P. F. BROYDERICE.
