Replies to "Looker-On."

Dear Sir,—I would feel obliged to you if you can find space in your esteemed paper for the following letter in reply to one "Looker-On." As "Looker-On" had written to the "News," I thought it but fair to him and to that paper that I reply to him through the same medium. The "News" has refused publicity to my letter, which is unfair, the more so as I am writing over my own signature, and ask no paper to assume any responsibility for my words by adopting a non-deplume, as "Looker-On." "Looker-On" insinuates that I am seeking notoriety by giving my name for publication. I may say to "Looker-On" that I am doing just what I have always contended, that men should speak out their convictions, and always in the open. I seek no reward, I seek no notoriety, and by making the mean insinuation "Looker-On" is but confirming my opinion of him, that he is biased, he is prejudiced. He condemns in others, just what he has not the malice to do himself. He confesses prejudice in regard to Mr. McGrath, when he says he did not read "Newfoundland in 1911," because McGrath had written it. In the same breath he maintains that the work is an excellent one, for the late W. T. Stead had praised it. And because Stead had praised it, it was impossible for me to have refuted its claim. What does "Looker-On" know of me or my ability? I will leave the answer to "Looker-On." I will let "Looker-On" know nothing whatever of me, although he says I have not the ability to criticize McGrath's book.

ARTHUR ENGLISH.

Editor Daily News.
Dear Sir,—I had forgotten that I had taken Mr. "Looker-On" to task till taking up the "News" this morning.

brag of driving the author from the field of controversy, an absolute impossibility for such a writer as Mr. Arthur English. What more convincing proof is needed of "Looker-On's" bias and prejudice. He has neither read the book itself nor my criticism, but a short review of it by W. T. Stead, and at once concludes that for Arthur English to drive McGrath from the field of controversy, is an impossibility. That I did drive McGrath completely into silence, is admitted by all who followed my writing. His only attempt at defence was by adopting abuse. He advanced no clean argument, but introduced irrelevant personalities from the start which disgusted even his friends. Mr. McGrath's bubble of fame has been dispelled like the mist of the morning before the rising sun.

Again, "Looker-On" convicts himself of being unreasonable when he objects to my advice to clean up at home. He takes that to himself in a personal way, when the context proves that I meant the camp in which he chose to stand as a defender. I have not accused the poor simple fellow of mud slinging either, though he thinks I have. It is but another evidence that you are not logical, Mr. "Looker-On."

A further evidence of "Looker-On's" sincerity, is in the whole tenor of his miserable juggling with the language. The whole letter is a tissue of abuse and lying, though doubtless he does not see it, so undeveloped is his power of discernment. I have no intention of engaging myself in a wrangle with one who is so incapable of putting a proper construction on the plain and simple words of another. Mr. "Looker-On" cannot produce one sentence from anything that I have ever written, which would show that mud-slinging has ever been in my line.

Until you will have learned to reason and to abstain from foul language yourself, Mr. "Looker-On," I will advise you as I advised Mr. McGrath last year to go into retirement. Read some, study some works on logic, and let the books you read be suffused with Christian charity. You must know that however much you may desire a better tone to the press, your patry and abusive letters are not conducive to that desirable end.

Murder Was Political.

LONDON, March 24.
The Pekin correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, says that the murder of General Sung, former Minister of Agriculture, was political, and may have disastrous effects. He and General Hsiang, former Commander-in-Chief, represented the militant element of the South, who have 386 out of 546 members in the coming Parliament, who stand for the party of Provincial Rights, against President Yuan Shi Kai's idea of Peking dictatorship. The correspondent seems to indicate that President Yuan had something to do with the murder. He adds that blindest pessimism reigns in diplomatic quarters.

President Coaker in Fogo District.

DOTING COVE.
via MUSGRAVE HR.,
March 24.

Special Evening Telegram.
On Thursday President Coaker arrived at Carmanville, having been met by Unionists numbering upwards of 200 three miles from Carmanville. The great parade marched to Carmanville amidst volleys of musketry, which continued throughout the whole march. Arches were erected at Noggin's Cove, bearing mottoes painted by the residents such as "Sink or Swim with Coaker," "The F. P. U. Forever," "The Graballs Must Go," and "Welcome to our President." At Carmanville the District Council met, holding two sessions. A large number of delegates representing every Council but one were present. On Thursday night the ladies tendered a grand banquet to the President and delegates, which was a grand success. The banquet was held at the new school building. At 8 o'clock the President delivered a speech in the Orange Hall which was packed to its fullest capacity. The speech was two and a half hours long and nothing equal to it is ever heard at Carmanville before. The enthusiasm was wonderful and the speaker was cheered repeatedly throughout the speech. The minister was present on the platform and Warmly Congratulated the President, expressing the great pleasure it gave him to be present and his thanks for the great speech. The District Council opened again after the public meeting and sat until 3 a.m. on Friday morning. Another great demonstration was tendered the President as he left for Lads Cove. At Lads Cove, three splendid arches, similar to the Bonavista arches, were erected along the road the President was to pass. The ladies gathered with the men and cheered, although it was raining heavily. At White Point, three miles from Doting Cove, the Unionists of Musgrave and Doting Cove had gathered, and had been waiting several hours for the President. When the President left the ferry-boat, the reports from 60 joyful hearts gathered with the President greeted him. The cheering was wonderful. The parade, under the direction of friend Peter White-way, marched to Musgrave and all around Doting Cove. The rain continued to fall, but almost every man, woman and child was in the street. Musketry, such as was never before heard, belted forth their welcome all along the route. Old men, over 70 years, were in the parade.

Upwards of 250 men marched. Three splendid arches with the usual stirring mottoes, had been erected by friends at Musgrave. The arches had been forgotten. Several non-Unionists fired joy guns and decorated their places with bunting. At Doting Cove five great arches had been erected bearing some new and novel mottoes. One of them had a room on either side equal to a home, where the girls gathered and sang the grand old hymn "Onward Christian Soldiers," and "Rescue the Perishing." The women and girls of Doting Cove numbered about 100, and joined the parade on the return march from the South side of Doting Cove, and cheering the men responded in reply. The whole route was decorated with bunting. Almost every home had a flag flying to the breeze. The members of the Union then entered Doting Cove Union Hall, and were addressed by the President. In the afternoon, a Union meeting was held. At 8 Saturday night, the President opened a great mass meeting at Wesley Hall, Carmanville. Every possible inch of space was clinched. The crowd was so large that the audience were prevented from stamping, owing to the Great Weight of the Audience.

The Musgrave Union Chairman, friend James Goodyear, presided. The President delivered a brilliant address occupying 2½ hours. It was the best speech of all he delivered on the Strait Shore. The people were held spell-bound by the brilliant address. The applause was deafening; hand clapping only being permitted. The Rev. Mr. Morer and lady were present. Never before did such an audience gather. Never before was such a speech heard. The audience did cheer and every person showed their appreciation of the President's speech at the close. The cheering was wonderful. Cheers were given for President Coaker, the F. P. U. and Sir Robert Bond. Nothing like the Union feeling prevailing now was ever known here. The non-Union men openly stated that they intended to vote for Coaker. The District Council reports show that out of 1,900 votes, 1,400 is sure for Coaker. From Victoria Cove to Doting Cove, the President's tour has been a triumphal one, every settlement receiving him as a Prince, firing powder guns, walking in parade and cheering as they never did before. Arches were erected throughout the district, one settlement trying to out-do the other in the shape of workmanship and mottoes of the arches. President Coaker is hailed joyfully by men, women and children in the district. His speeches are like sermons. He touches every part. He convinces the most hardened opponent. All opposition disappear before the eloquence of his addresses. Yesterday the clergymen spoke of his speeches in their sermons. Union politics appeal to the people as nothing political ever before did. The people inform President Coaker that they need not trouble about Fogo District next fall, but to visit places where no union exists, as wherever a Council is established there is no fear of the outcome. The President left for Indian Islands to-day. He will have a hard tramp overland as there is no driving, but he does not mind a 20 mile tramp every day. We will "Sink or Swim with Coaker." Why does not the Government send the Stella Maria to our harbours. We want feed for cattle and other goods, and ask Sir Edward to see that the Stella Maria call at the Fogo ports of call. She passes our doors, but seeing her is our portion of her. We pay her subsidy and we demand her service.

LINCOLN, Oregon, March 24.
A hundred are dead and 200 injured by a tornado, which devastated Omaha and its surroundings last night, demoralizing the telephone and telegraph service and cutting Omaha off from the outside world. The property loss was heavy. The tornado swept from south-west to north-east, over residences in the city, leaving destruction and carnage from two to four blocks wide. Fires added to the horror, and so numerous were they that the firemen could not respond in many cases. The police were unable to protect the district, and soldiers were called out from Fort Omaha. The tornado zone is now under martial law.

Weights and Measures Question.

The question of want of uniformity in weights and measures and the irregularities existing at present in the trade were discussed at the Board of Trade rooms last evening by a large number of city dealers. The old-time method of gauging molasses and the system of measuring casks were criticized. It was indicated clearly where the dealer suffers loss owing to the prevailing system in measuring. The recommendations to be forwarded to the Government are not as yet drawn up.

Tailors Celebrate.

The Tailors' Annual Dance, which was the first Easter social event, took place in the British Hall last night under favourable conditions, and it was the most successful event yet held by that body. Over two hundred people participated. The ballroom was prettily decorated. At nine o'clock dancing commenced, the music being supplied by Messrs. Myron O'Grady and Bailey. At midnight there was the customary interval when a short concert was given. Dancing was continued until 3 o'clock this morning when the company dispersed.

The Highlanders Ball.

The Officers of the Newfoundland Highlanders will hold their annual ball in the British Hall to-morrow (Wednesday) night. The hall is being very handsomely decorated and a very enjoyable time is assured those who attend. The decorations will be left in position for the warrant and non-coms dance to be held Friday night. The C. C. C. band will furnish the dance music.

McMurdo's Store News.

TUESDAY, March 25, 1913.
At this time of year, many children exhibit the symptoms of worms. These symptoms—variable appetite, restlessness at night, itching of the nose, dark circles under the eyes, foul breath—should not be ignored. The difficulty that many mothers have to get their children to take medicine for worms, can easily be gotten over by the use of McMurdo's Worm Syrup, which no child will refuse to take, and which is beside, one of the most effective remedies for intestinal parasites. Price 25 cents a bottle.
Mazerine's English Cure for Carrh is a soothing, healing and anti-septic cream which quickly relieves irritation of the nasal passages, stoppage of the nose, cold in the head, offensive droppings into the throat, and other results of catarrh. It has been found particularly good this season, when sudden changes of weather have made throat and head trouble more than usually prevalent. Price 50 cents a crock.

Benefit Night.

The attendance at the Prince's rink last night was large despite the lateness of the season. The proceeds were for the Ice-men. A spirited and interesting hockey match took place between the City and a team of Bankers. The game resulted in a victory for the former by nine goals to eight. The players were—City—Thomas, goal; G. Herder, point; Tobin, cover; Higgins, rover; Churchill, left; R. Herder, centre; Brien, right.
Bankers—N. Vinnicombe, goal; Morison, point; Ford, cover; Joy, rover; White, left; Lilly, centre; Stick, right.

Prospero Damaged.

The following message was received to-day from Capt. Connors, of the s.s. Prospero:
"Jammed off Hermitage; bay full of ice; twisted rudder same as before; temporary repairs made; got to handle carefully the rest of the trip."

Stabbed At By Sailor.

Yesterday about one o'clock a young man was stabbed at by an unknown person on Gover Street and came near being badly injured. The former is a teamster and was accosted by a man who was identified as a sailor and who was intoxicated. The sailor brandished a sharp knife and without any provocation plunged it at the passing citizen. The weapon took him in the left side, cut through his clothing, but fortunately did not harm the flesh. The police should get after such dangerous characters as they should not be allowed at large.

Not Heard From.

The two men, Maurice and Edward Michael, who are missing at Woody Islands as reported by us yesterday, are Syrians and brothers. Maurice, who is 30 years old, is married, and Edward is single. They left Woody Island two weeks ago to walk to York Harbour and were overtaken in a snow storm which set in shortly after they left. Mr. Joseph Murphy, of this city, wired for particulars yesterday and found that a search party had set out to look for them yesterday morning.
