Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

A HUNDRED TIMES BIGGER THAN THE GAME.

"There is no quality the whole world thrills to as it does to physical courage," said the Authorman the other day.

I didn't disagree at the time. But on thinking it over, I did.

There is another quality, I don't know just what to call it, that I think sends the quivers of pride in the whole human race up one's spine just as much as a display of physical courage.

Here's a newspaper paragraph that illustrates the sort of quality I mean.

The Spirit of Sportsmanship.

"Neither of the flyers," runs the article which was in regard to the controversy for second place in the cross-country flying race, "would discuss the controversy, but Major one (one of the two leaders) paid a tribute to Lieutenant Kiel (the other leader) for the mastery way he had organized the aerial fire pageant.

Don't you love that spirit of gallantry, chivalry, sportsmanship, whatever you call it?

Don't you thrill to it whenever you read it or hear of it?

Of the many anecdotes of Colonel Roosevelt, I liked none better than the story of his first boxing match at Harvard. At the end of a round his opponent struck him after time had been called and Roosevelt had ceased to defend himself. The onlookers immediately began to hiss and cry foul, whereat Roosevelt cried out, "He didn't hear."

The Handshake Between Winner and Loser.

It is the same sort of spirit which goes into an honest hand shake between winner and loser at the end of a game, the same spirit which made one of the women champion players deliberately serve two bad balls because she felt the referee had made a mistake in deciding a contested play in her favor.

And just as nothing thrills us like the display of this spirit of sportsmanship, so nothing shames us with most a personal shame, like a display of the opposite.

Take the case of Hawker, for instance. Like all the world I was tremendously interested in his magnificently plucky adventure. I felt an almost personal rejoicing the day the Authorman brought in the paper saying that he had been found. I would not open my mail until I had read every detail.

A Cloud Came Over the Sun.

And then came those terrible interviews and speeches in which he deliberately ran down what the American flyers had done. The day I read those it seemed to me as if a cloud suddenly went over the sun.

The pride I had felt in his exploits—that almost possessive pride we feel when mankind shows its splendid possibilities—was dimmed and tarnished. I felt as if I had lost something.

The world loves success, it loves a winner, but I thoroughly believe that the civilized world (a narrower term than it used to be), loves a good loser better than a bad winner.

When you teach your child to play games, teach him this, and you will teach him something a hundred times bigger than the games.

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited.

Gentlemen,—In July, 1915, I was thrown from a road machine, injuring my hip and back badly and was obliged to use a crutch for 14 months.

In Sept., 1906, Mr. Wm. Outridge, of Lachine, urged me to try MINARD'S LINIMENT, which I did with the most satisfactory results and to-day I am as well as ever in my life.

Yours sincerely,

MATTHEW X BAINES.

An Unknown Language.

The revival of the Gilbert and Sullivan operas at the Prince's Theatre, London, reminds me of an amusing story which that popular Savoyard, Mr. Rutland Barrington, once told me.

When "The Mikado" was first produced at the Savoy, he went into a music shop one day and asked, somewhat abruptly, for "The Mikado" libretto.

"I beg your pardon?" stammered the salesman.

"Mikado" libretto," repeated Mr. Barrington.

The salesman gulped, then: "Me no speakee Italiano!" he replied.

German Spies in Alsace Lorraine.

As has been expected, the French are having their troubles in Alsace-Lorraine. The main difficulty seems to be that there are too many Germans there. Among them are agitators, who, finding fault with France and everything French, are creating serious difficulties. Latest and most troublesome in this agitation is the demand for an independent Alsace-Lorraine, which came into strength about two weeks ago. It looked from the first like a piece of German propaganda, and now the French Government makes the charge that it has uncovered the payment of 500,000 francs to agitators by the German Ministry of Foreign Affairs. M. Louquet, the French Radical leader, has become tangled in the affair. The French have arrested several hundred leading German agitators for deportation. A wide-spread investigation has been started, and the French press is turning great attention to the situation. There are also propagandist troubles in Lorraine. On October 22nd, 100 Germans were arrested as agitators and locked up at Metz. The French seem firm in their belief that this trouble-making propaganda is directed from Berlin.

A Wonderful Veil of Beauty.

The Queen of Siam owns a toilet article which is altogether calculated to fill the hearts of all other ladies of the kingdom with ardent desire and envy. For the Queen is the happy possessor of a veil capable of beautifying her face most wonderfully. This veil is a delicate tissue of the finest threads but woven so as to have some resistance. Part of this long veil is intended to conceal the face, while the remainder flows down over the figure and closely nestles to the body. The veil, which falls over the back, is completely sown over with diamond dust, while the part in front is less dusted, so as not to impair the face and the organs of sense. The lowest ends of the veil are covered with brilliants. Naturally, the veil has an almost inestimable value, as the dusting with diamonds is extremely difficult, and from time to time must be renewed. The tissue of the veil is so prepared as to cause changes in colour when exposed to the air. No sooner has the wearer stepped into the street than the veil assumes a delicate rose hue, which deepens and, as it were, becomes animated the longer it remains in the open. When the Queen returns to her abode the hue passes away and the veil turns pale and dead as before. The veil has been credited with possessing the most wonderful powers. For a century it has been in the possession of the royal House of Siam, and although constantly used and exposed to all kinds of influences of the weather it has not lost anything of its texture and beauty.

ANTI-FOREIGN.

Said Jim McGee in a talk with me:

"I'm nobody's fool, you bet!

As a working man, I follow the plan of wantin' what I can get.

I work for pay, an' I'm free to say that money's a-thing I like.

But I do object to a dialect that understood!

I'm willing to fight when I know I'm right, an' the fightin' is on the square.

There are times I shirk when I ought to work, but I guess I am human there.

I've been to school and I ain't a fool; I'll get while the gettin's good.

But the Flag of the Free is the flag for me an' I'm wantin' that understood!

"I'll stand in the ranks with trueblue Yanks, but not with the Huns or Greeks."

I'm through with the cuss that would make a fuss and only a jargon speaks.

As a working man, I'm American, to-day and to-morrow too.

And I won't respect any dialect that tells me what I must do!"

Financial Creed.

The ten points of the Financial Creed are as follows:

1. Spend less than you earn, to assure your being on the road to success.

2. Make a budget, to ascertain how you should dispose of your income.

3. Keep a record of expenditures, to see how close you come to your estimate.

4. Have a bank account, to keep your money in a safe place and help you save.

5. Carry life insurance, to protect your loved ones in case of your death.

6. Make a will, to insure your resources going quickly to those you desire.

7. Own your own home, to secure the greatest satisfaction in your home life.

8. Pay your bills promptly, to meet the moral obligation you have to your creditors.

9. Invest in Government securities, to help your country and to make a wise investment of your savings.
