

C. L. B. Defeated.

St. John's Wins in Poor Football Game.
The C.L.B. Old Comrades Football team went down to defeat last night when they played the Saints, in a poor exhibition football, the score being 3 goals to 1.
The game was played under ideal weather conditions, and as the ground was in better condition than at any other time for the season there was no excuse for the weakness of the game. There was an entire absence of combination, and the only idea the players seemed to have was to kick the ball in any direction at all, so long as it was kicked. Opportunities for scoring goals fell to the fore- and back-sides but were always missed by fumbling and bad judgment. Snowy and Burridge played well for the C.L.B. whilst Munn and Munn were in good form and did excellent work for the Saints.

It was not until the game was 20 minutes old that the first goal was scored. Rendell (C.L.B.) netting the ball from a mix-up in front of the Saints goal. Play bucked up a little after this and just before half time Munn scored the equalizer after a whistle bit of play.
The opening of the Second Half showed the Saints pressing hard and less than five minutes Young had put them ahead by obtaining an easy goal. Shortly afterwards a curious incident occurred. Play was circling around the C.L.B. goal when a whistle sounded and everyone immediately stopped playing. It was seen, however, that the referee had not seen the players' feet. Munn had kicked away and had lodged the ball behind an unresisting goal keeper. The referee Mr. Ern Churchill, walked to the Grand Stand and confiscated the ball of the small boy who had caused the interruption of the game. He was awarded a goal. From this point on there was no further scoring although both teams tried hard. "Buckley's" is ankle during the last few minutes but was enabled to go with the game although the injury was quite painful. It is to be hoped that future games will see an improvement in the quality of the ball handed out. The line up last night was:

C.L.B. Old Comrades—Goal: F. J. full backs, C. Hooke, R. Noon; half backs, A. Feaver, Henry, R. Harker; forwards, J. Snow, H. Rendell, W. Keate, Harvey, Burridge. Saints—Goal: Joyce; full backs, T. Michael, McCarter; half backs, Hase, Clouston, Brown; forwards, Munn, Munn, Young, Elton, McPadden.

Mr. Ayre to Mr. Flavin.

Dear Sir—It is very apparent from Mr. Flavin's letter that he, neither has his duty as President of the L.S.P.U. nor does he understand the right of the members to be informed of any proper letter addressed to him as President, requesting that he should put same before the body. I am much question his competency to appreciate the importance of the difference between keeping the 22nd and the 24th.
I agree with him that what the L.S.P.U. want is work and not holiday, but if they are going to keep at holiday I would suggest the 24th and not the 22nd, and I should like to know what the members think on the subject. Quite a number of the L.S.P.U. are among the unemployed workmen for whom I am acting, and I am certain that these desire the 24th. What about those who are not? If I have wronged Mr. Gibbs, I apologize. I notice, though, that Mr. Flavin says nothing about the substituted letter.

Yours sincerely,
GEO. W. E. AYRE.

Under Prohibition.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir—A brief visit to the outposts, from which I returned by express yesterday, gave me direct evidence of how the Prohibition Act is being abused by some of our Medical doctors. Of course many of your readers know what is going on, and probably some in the outposts have concluded that we in the city have entered into a conspiracy to destroy this Prohibition Act. This may be true of some of our citizens, and thank heaven, not of all. My first eye-opener was obtained on the express going North. Some men in the car, quite intoxicated, were using profane language in a way to shock the most cautious and that in presence of ladies, one of them, the wife of one of the men, with a sweet child in her arms. Needless to say, the mother was heart-broken at the condition of her husband.

When things had reached a certain stage I thought it necessary to try to save the situation. If possible, and stepped forward while the bottle was again being passed round. After a few words with the men, I enquired of them how they obtained the liquor. The reply came instantly: "Dr. of St. John's supplied the script." This was a prominent "doctor" whose name has of late become a byword for selling scripts to all-comers at a dollar each. If the police desire information and call at my office, I shall supply the names of the parties concerned. In trying to prevent one of the men from another drink, he was prevailed upon to return the bottle to his valise, where I saw at least one other bottle quite full of liquor. Evidently the booze-joint where the purchase was made had no scruples as to the quantity supplied.

On relating the above incident to another clergyman later, he replied that he was informed on good authority that another well-known "doctor" had been asked at one of the railway stations for the script, and that he at once passed the precious scrap of paper to all the men present who cared to accept, and did it on that occasion without charge. Now, Mr. Editor, what are we coming to a Newfoundland? Is there any power anywhere to enforce law? or have we reached a degree of lawlessness when every man does what is right in his own eyes? Surely if medical doctors have no respect for themselves or their profession, it is time to bring the arm of the law to bear upon them, or, at any rate, give them such free advertising that respectable, law-abiding citizens will give them a wide berth.

Thanking you in anticipation,
Faithfully yours,
L. CURTIS.

A Good Idea.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir—I think the time has arrived for the Regatta Committee to meet and their first business should be to decide about erecting the Band Stand, on the usual site of Quill Vidi Lake, so the various Brigade Bands would give three Band. Concerts a week up to Regatta evening, or even later in the season. Now the fine weather is with us, it certainly would be an ideal spot for the city folk to spend very pleasant evenings, watching the various crews practicing on the old popular Lake. The Boat Clubs are getting their boats ready for the season's work and crews may be practicing next week.

Hoping the Executive of the Regatta Committee will take the above suggestion and get busy to make our Annual Derby just as popular this season as last.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for publishing the above, I remain,
P. F. C.

Meeting and Concert.

A general meeting and concert held in the Casino Theatre last evening under the auspices of the Self-Determination League for Ireland was largely attended. Hon. M. P. Gibbs presided and, after the routine business had been transacted, an enjoyable concert programme was given through the following contributing numbers: Misses Shea, Brown, Howlett, and Messrs. P. Brown, P. Dobbin, A. Neary, J. Canine and J. Brown.

Two papers dealing with the Irish situation were read by Miss Mary Keegan. Hon. M. P. Gibbs made an appeal for funds and was met by a ready response, a substantial amount being realized.

Seapool Reaches Port.

At 8 o'clock last evening, as Seapool, Capt. Bartlett, with her bows, below the water line, stove in by collision with an iceberg, steamed through the Narrows and anchored in the stream. The Seapool left Montreal on June 2nd with 8,000 tons of grain bound to Avonmouth and Dublin, and shortly after leaving the St. Lawrence, ran into dense fog which made navigation difficult. On Wednesday morning, when steaming very slowly, the ship struck the projecting ledge of a large iceberg, damaging her bows below the waterline. The engines were reversed and S.O.S. calls sent out. S.S. Ingley picked up the signals and reaching the disabled steamer, stood by her until yesterday morning. The ship's forepeak is full of water but the bulkheads are undamaged. The Seapool is a ship of 4,527 tons net, and is owned by Messrs. R. O'Connell & Son, West Hartlepool. The ship's agents in this port are the Furness Withy Co.

Obituary.

There passed peacefully away at Torbay, on May 24th (Empire Day), a much respected citizen in the person of Edward Cantwell. The deceased was of a cheerful disposition and made a host of friends in business and social life. For a number of years he did a coasting business and supplied bait along the shore, later retiring from the seafaring business, taking up farming and was very successful. His health had been failing for some time past so that the end was not unexpected. He was predeceased by his two wives. Left to mourn are four sons, Edward, at home, and three in the United States; one daughter, Mrs. John White, of Torbay, four sisters and a host of friends. May his soul rest in peace.

Opening of the Crystal Palace.

On June 10, 1852, the Crystal Palace, Sydenham, was opened by Queen Victoria, with the greatest ceremony, in the presence of forty thousand spectators. The commotion incident to this event was noticed in the City from a very early hour in the forenoon, and by the time the doors were opened the closely packed multitude stretched far into the grounds of the Palace. Around the dais in the centre of the transept were gathered the Archbishop of Canterbury, the diplomatic body, the Directors of the Company, the Lord Mayors of London, Dublin, and York, with the civic dignitaries of other cities throughout the Kingdom. At 3 o'clock the Queen entered the Palace, leaning on the arm of Prince Albert, and followed by the King of Portugal, the Duke of Oporto, and a brilliant company. The National Anthem was led off by a crowded orchestra, under the baton of Mr. Costa-Missa Clara Novello and Signor Labiche being the most noticeable of the singers. In answer to the address presented to her by Mr. G. Laing, M.P., the Chairman of the Company, her Majesty said: "It is my very earnest wish and hope that the bright anticipations which have been formed as to its future may, under the blessing of Divine Providence, be completely realized, and that this wonderful structure and the resources of art and knowledge which it contains may long continue to elevate and interest as well as to delight and amuse the minds of all classes of my people." Copies of the guide-books to the various departments of the Palace having been presented to her Majesty by the authors and other officials, the Royal procession was formed and proceeded through the building. Prayer was then offered by the Archbishop, after which the orchestra performed the Hallelujah Chorus, with immense effect. When it was ended, her Majesty—through the Lord Chamberlain—declared the Palace open. This concluded the more formal part of the day's ceremony, and her Majesty then retired, while the notes of the National Anthem were once more swelling through the Palace. The immense glass structure was originally erected in Hyde Park for the Great Exhibition of Works of Art and Ingenuity brought to it from all parts of the world, and which had been opened in 1851. It was removed to Sydenham in 1852, and since its re-erection there has been used for the Handel Festival, which has been held there every three years with the exception of the war period. How enormous this building is may be estimated by the fact that at one of the festivals there were in its orchestra four thousand chorists and instrumentalists. And yet, as at Hyde Park, its walls and roof consist of glass in its large proportion as those of a greenhouse or conservatory. It is now the home of the Imperial War Museum, which was opened by the King on June 9, 1920.

FATHER SONG.
It's oh, my little laddie, as you're romping at your play
There's an old heart running with you every minute of the day
And though you cannot see me when you're wrapped up in a game
But it's I that am beside you in your striving just the same
It is oh, my little laddie, there is much you cannot know,
But it is I that follow proudly everywhere you chance to go
There's a hand upon your shoulder whosoever you may be
That would help you out of danger, and that hand belongs to me
It is oh, my little laddie, though you cannot hear me call,
I am always there to help you every time you chance to fall
I am with you in the school room and I'm with you on the street
And though you may not know it, I am dogging at your feet
It's oh, my little laddie, all my life belongs to you,
All the dreams that I have cherished through the years depend on you
And though now you cannot know it, you shall some day come to see How this old heart loved to have round a boy that used to be.
