The Double Murder at Cumberland.

CUMBERLAND, Ont., Oct. 10.—The terrible murder case is still the absorbing topic of conversation here. An inquest on the bodies of the McGonigle girls was commenced last night. Dr. Wm. Ferguson gave the result of his medical examination. The bodies, he said, bore an unistakable evidence of the horrible crime. Both girls had been outraged and had come to death by strangulation. A witness swore that he saw the prisoner, Will Gamble, following the girls along the path which led to their home about 5 o'clock. A farmer named Dalrymple heard cries of 'murder' and made an ineffectual search of the spot whence they came.

THE FALL SHOWS.

The West Nissouri fall show was held at Thorndale Wednesday and was largely attended. From early morning people from the surrounding country came into the village in crowds—the farmers and their vives bringing with them samples of the products of their farms, which, with the contributions from the villagers, made a splendid township exhibition. It is said by the officials and many of the exhibitors and visitors that it was the most successful fall show yet held at Thorndale. About the middle of the afternoon there muss have been over 2,000 people on the grounds, and a more criterly, sober and respectable crowd could not be found on any fair grounds in Ontario. The total lack of anything like drunkenness was by some attributed to the fact that there are no hotel licenses here this year. There was but one thing which appeared to give any dissatisfaction, and that was that a number of the gentry known as fakirs were allowed on the grounds. The show in every department was good. A large number of horses of different classes were shown and much admired, and where there were so many first-class animals it would be difficult to make comparisons. The show of cattle, though not so large as at some township shows this fall, was very good indeed, a few head of thoroughbred Shorthorns and Shorthorn grades being on exhibition. A lot of fine long-wooled sheep, as well as short-wooled ones, were shown. Mr. James Anderson, of Westminster, a competent judge, pronouned it one of the best township shows of she p that he had ever seen. The show of swine and also poultry was very fair. There were four pairs of large turkeys exhibited, which no doubt made many of the London visitors think of Christmas and their friends. The exhibitors were the names of R. Harding, John McCutcheon, Henry Belton, G. Holland, E. Booth, J. H. Brydges, McGuffin, J. Walker, D. Aikens, R. Garner, M. Field and Miss McLean, and many others were on hand whose names were not ascertained.
