Brothers, press secretary; William Ingham, athletic director, and T. Keck, L. Galloway and T. Gibson, committee members.

The proposal to enter a junior hockey team in the O. H. A. was the main issue before the club, and was mainly a financial one. There are sufficient leligible players to nut a good snappy team on the ice, but some were doubtful of being able to finance it through a scheduled season, especially if the schedule should call for long jumps. A special committee was formed of Ray Gibson, Louis Keck, George Morningstar and T. Gibson to investigate the situation and report to the next regular meeting in October.
