Judging from the miracles performed by nedicinal treatment as daily set forth to medicinal treatment as daily set forth id newspaper advertisements we are living in a miraculous age. Do you believe it? I think not. Medicine has never yet is human hands performed miracles and never will. It can and does effect cures when judiciously used, and those who look for a supernatural influence are possessed of greater faith than judgment. When you want a medicine from which a reasonable natural influence may be expected buy a bottle of Hallsmore's Expectorant, test it by your judgment, and your faith will come naturally.
