Crown Attorney Curry was present at the inquest for the first time last night, in company with Mr. Dewart's partner, Mr. Raney. Mr. Curry took a hand in the cross-examination, and handled Somerville very severely. The coroner's summarion, and handled Sommary included a very severe roasting of the unlucky Lothario from Banda.

"Somerville's partner, Messrs. Foster, Montague and Dickey, equally acquired an unenviable reputation amongst those who have at least learned the rudiments of good ing house in Market-street, last night, were found H. H. If the latter they must decide where it was committed and by whom. In winding up the coroner said that facts were being kept back. "There's something we don't know all about yet." In his preliminary remarks the coroner placed the circumstances, which the jury were called upon to decide on, as those prior to July 16, the date of the discovery of the girl's true condition by Dr. Lehman. After that was all clear, it was as to the facts leading up to Miss James' illness that they were in doubt.

The jury evaded the issues that were put to them and contented themselves with exonerating Dr. Lehman.

The Girl's Mother Testifles The evidence offered last night was ur important except so far as it related to Somerville. Mrs. James, the middle-aged mether of the dead girl, was the first witmether of the dead girl, was the first witness. She testified that she had expected Sadie home on July, 9 from Creemore, where she was teaching school. On that day Mr. James went to the station to meet her. She did not arrive and next day a note was received, saying she would be home in a few days. On July 20 witness got an unsigned telegram, saying:

Witness opened the letter and wrote to Somerville that Sadie had not reached home. He sent a note back saying that she was no doubt enjoying herself somewhere. When witness arrived in Toronto, Dr. Lehman told her that her daughter was suffering from inflammation and blood-poisoning, and would probably die. as ever in his testimony. The admission was elicited that he received Dr. Lehman's letter saying Sadie was ill, and Mrs, James' letter making enquiries about her daughter by the same mail, and that he sat down and wrote to the mother that Sadie was well and probably enjoying herself somewhere. Somerville could offer no explanation for having kept the mother in ignorance of the girl's illness, but explanation for having kept the mother in ignorance of the girl's illness, but maintained that his action was not dictated by a knowledge of Sadie's condition and a desire to conceal it.

He swore that he was to have been married to Sadie in about a month.

"The evidence shows that her fondness for him was unlimited. When dying she expressed a wish to live for him. How do you reconcile that with what Somerville has told us? Why did she not say something to him of her condition? Surely she would tell Somerville if the affection between them was so great!"

Trinidad Not Much of a Prize.

London, July 31.—United States Ambarsador Bayard says to-day that he had to say: "I have to say that I did not tell Mrs. Lacasse that deceased killed herself, because I killed her myself, but she asked me to take her life. She said the priest told her she had a disease that prevented her from marrying under any circumstances, and she also gave me that disease, the name of which I do not know. She said: 'Since we cannot The letter exouerating Mrs. Doherty the coroner considered suspicious. Regrettably it was undated. Why would the girl write it if she did not know there had been wrong-doing. The jury must decide whether the girl was, although in the fourth month, unaware of her condition and told Dr. Lehman the whole truth about her symptoms or whether she kept facts back, and they in St. James-street, near Inspector. Before shooting the deceased, she said, 'we will marry in the other world,' and again I promised her that I would kill myself." The evidence of the girl's family went to show, however, that deceased was as gay as possible when she left home at 2 o'clock and never gave them to suspect that she was going to her end. The inquest will open to-morrow, and so far there is little talk of defence, so it is quite likely that Gauthier will go to
