Le Moine, J. M. The explorations of Jonathan Oldbuck, F.G. S. Q., in eastern latitudes. Quebec; L. J. Demers & Frere. c. 266 p. Svo, pap. $1.

A new work from the pen of one of our most industrious and pleasing writers. Those who have followed M. Le Moine in its former volumes, through unfrequented posts of Canadian history will welcome this familiar itmerary of travel by sea and land over the most picture-sque portions of the province of Quebec. The writer's mind is saturated with stories and legenas of the localities to which he acts as guide. The angler, the hunter, the tourist, the historian, will each find in this volume, if not all that they can desire, at least much to instruct and denot all that they can desire, at least much to instruct and de-light. We wish that the accomplished and versatile author would turn his attention to "western" latitudes and furnish us with as attractive a handbook to the Lakes as he has given us to the Lower St. Lawrence

THE BINDING LINK.

Mr. Dennis Gaghlin, Ottawa, in remitting his subscription, writes the following letter, which is only an echo of many others received: GENTLEMEN--I have received the first number of your Canadian Bulliegrapher, and am much pleased with it. I think it is destined to form the binding link in the literary chain (if the expression may be excused) of Canada. In the past we have had both writers and readers, but there seemed to be, unfortunately, a wide gap between them. It is my earnest hope that the CANADIAN BIBLIOGRAPHER is destined to bridge the chasm, and, bringing together the disconnected bodies, ultimately result in the formation of a national literature.
