

Considerable new investment was made over the past few years, but the Canadian industry stills lags behind Nordic producers in terms of technology and new facilities.

In contrast with their Scandinavian competitors, there has been relatively limited investment by Canadian firms in the EC. (See Appendix E.)