

international organizations, the Canadian observers will visit polling stations and monitor the conduct of the elections.

The election for a House of Representatives was made possible when the King, in response to domestic political demands, appointed an interim government in April 1990, and later approved a constitution recognizing fundamental human rights, parliamentary government, a multi-party system, a constitutional monarchy, and an independent judiciary.

- 30 -

For further information, media representatives may contact:

Media Relations Office
External Affairs and International Trade Canada
(613) 995-1874