Sunday Cars in Port Arthur.

Dr. Smellie having pleaded for Sunday cars at Port Arthur in conmittee with the Port Arthur bill, Premier Whitney stated that the large majority of the people of Ontario desired Sunday observance. The government could have taken no other course than they had without expecting the severe censure of the people. Nothing done by the government had afforded himself and his colleagues so much satisfaction, and they had been much satisfaction, and they had been endorsed by over 200 letters and telegrams.

Sam Clarke declared 90 per cent, of the population did not need Sunday cars and were not interested in the question. He belonged to a religious community, and was, therefore, endangering his reputation, but he felt that people who lived in towns of 10,000 or 15,000 inhabitants and had cars six days a week should not be deprived of them on Sunday.
