

he said, "require that there be something more than a mere expression of sympathy. No word spoken during the war so thrilled the oppressed people of the world as the statement that the United States was in the war to apply the principle of self-determination."

Principle of Self-determination. "Is there a principle of self-determination? If there is, where on the face of God's earth should that principle be applied if not in Ireland, where we find the only English-speaking people in the world that is fighting for a government of its own. It is only by peaceful means that the principle of self-determination can be applied."

The first and most important step in that direction, he said, had been taken when the Irish people, by every possible means, had informed Great Britain and the world what their desire was, and how overwhelming was the sentiment supporting Irish independence.

When the debate was in progress an attempt was made to reach an agreement for a recess for dinner as soon as the platform had been voted on. The McAdoo people were inclined not to agree. The soldier relief plank was briefly debated. Then a motion was taken to close the platform. He had 20 minutes.

Bryan Closes Argument. When he came to the convention of nations Mr. Bryan told the convention that no one had made more speeches than he for satisfaction of the "Ten Commandments" resolutions. It had become apparent, however, that satisfaction without reservations was impossible.

"Shame on the man," he continued, "who talks of making this a party question when the world is on fire. I should give a guarantee that the world will not drift back into war while we are debating reservations."

"Praying provisions of the treaty," he declared the path toward world peace had been cleared by the provision for disarmament, open diplomatic negotiations and investigations of international differences.

"They will never be able to arise from the pages of history," he continued, "these great principles to the world. You can't call me the enemy of 'Woodrow Wilson. Why was my name placed on the platform to Paris, and I have done all I could to help him get it ratified. If I could secure its ratification, let him have the credit of it. I'd gladly walk up to the scaffold and die for such a cause. But it cannot be done. And I do not care to go to the judgment seat of God with any blood on my hands. I do not propose to have it said that women and children were killed while I was talking politics."

Standards Torn to Shreds. As Bryan closed his speech with an oratorical picture of the benefits that would come to the world if the treaty were given a great demonstration, a parade was soon organized on the convention floor, the Texas state flag the first to get into action. A score of others followed. The din was terrific. The cry of "Woodrow Wilson" which has been heard at every Democratic convention since the death of the only distinguishable yell in the history of sound.

There was a fight over the California standard, and in the end it was torn to pieces. A woman, borne on the shoulders of other women, carried the flag of the state name, and was carried to the speaker's stand, where she waved the remnant triumphantly.

The Alabama standard was also torn to shreds and there were fights over others. At the height of the excitement a woman dressed in a Grecian costume of white to symbolize peace, went to the top of the speaker's stand and set the demonstrators going again. It was 15 minutes before the chairman could restore order.

Defends Platform. Criticizing Mr. Bryan's treaty stand, Mr. Colby said in so many words that no one could have brought back a better treaty than Wilson did. He says no one could have brought back so good a treaty. Then if that is true for God's sake let us ratify it.

The senate, said Mr. Colby, had had its day in court with the treaty and the day had passed for the treaty. He said the senators apparently had suffered from "intellectual lockjaw."

"The question comes to a higher tribunal," he continued. "We want to throw the matter out in a new way and a new field. The Democratic party is for the league of nations without reservations that impair its integrity. Of course we are, because when the United States goes into a thing it goes in honestly. It goes in to get it done."

Mr. Colby closed with a tribute to the president, and this caused another demonstration lasting ten minutes.

Senator Glass moved the platform committee, followed. He protested take the credit for the platform to the party from the president and give it to Henry Cabot Lodge.

As for prohibition, declaring that he had voted for that long before Mr. Bryan did, Senator Glass said he saw no reason to put into the platform any declaration on either side. The committee had not wished to become involved in the issue of peace.

"The question of peace is a complex and troublesome one. The Democratic party has long been in sympathy with the Irish people. But we have obligations, and say what we may, we are in the platform the best that we could do."

Mr. Glass dealt briefly with the other minority planks, and then the convention reached a roll call on the Bryan dry plank. There were eleven sub-planks in all pending.

Bryan's Plank Defeated. State after state registered a majority against the dry plank, amid cheering from the wets. Mr. Bryan was simply snowed under, 193 1/2 to 15 1/2. Eight delegates did not vote. A sub-prohibition plank proposed by Mr. Hobson, Alabama, was rejected by the convention without a roll call. The beer and wine plank of W. Bourke Cockran, New York, was defeated by a vote of 728 to 318. Without a roll call, the convention voted down Mr. Bryan's planks for the publication of an official newspaper by the government and against profiteering in peace time. The Bryan league of nations shared the same fate.

A plank for the committee to investigate the feasibility of silver bonus was also rejected without a roll call. The sub-licensing plank was next in order, and a roll call on it was ordered. This proposal, which declared it to be "the purpose of the nation to recognize the independence of the Irish Republic," was voted down.

Platform Carried. This disposed of the last of the sub-planks, and the platform again stood exactly as it was when the resolutions committee presented it to the convention early in the day.

Then Chairman Glass moved the adoption of the platform itself, and it went through as framed with a roar. With a cheer, the convention, freed from all preliminaries, at last turned to the first ballot for president.

INDICTED FOR SALE OF POISON LIQUOR

Druggist Faces Charge of Killing Over 100 With Alcohol

New York, July 2.—A druggist in connection with the sale of poisonous alcoholic liquor that caused the death of more than 100 persons in the New England states last winter, Samuel K. Slesby, a Brooklyn druggist, was arraigned in the King's county court today on a charge of manslaughter, and was ordered held in $25,000 bail for trial next September. Another man also has been indicted and his arrest is expected within the next 24 hours.

The indictments grew out of a five-months' investigation by federal agents and local authorities in New York and New England states. The investigation disclosed, the police say, that the week before Christmas truck loads of poisonous liquor were transported from this city to Massachusetts and Connecticut saloon keepers. According to the investigators it had been found that 100,000 gallons of wood alcohol stolen from a Manhattan pharmacy, a few hours before it was to be loaded aboard ship for England.

The alcohol, the police said, was to be sold in England for $1,500, but the "whiskey" which was taken by the New England saloon keepers brought $21,000.

Mr. Reider stated that shoe prices cannot be expected to come down overnight because of the still high price of hides, leather and other materials.

A JOKE 3,000 YEARS OLD.

Planned by the ancient Egyptians over 3,000 years ago, a joke has just come to fruition, writes Prof. Hildner Petrie, the noted archaeologist. "While we were trying to find a way into a queen's pyramid," he says, "we discovered on a rock face a door which was so beautifully and exactly fitted that it was difficult to see the joints. We immediately set to work on this, thinking that it was a door leading to a treasure chamber. We had found at last an entrance to the inner chamber. After a considerable amount of work we removed the door and found—solid rock! It was a carefully arranged blind, to deceive anyone who wanted to find the entrance into the royal tomb, and had been made about 3,000 B.C. by someone with a sense of humor."

TOM MOORE SPEAKS AT NIAGARA FALLS

Declares Hydro Always an Opponent of Eight-Hour Principle

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 2.—A public meeting was held in the city hall tonight, and addresses were given by the local leaders and Tom Moore, president of the Canadian Labor Congress. The speeches were largely a restatement of events leading up to and since the strike. The keynote of all the speeches was the expressed opinion that an ulterior motive is behind the shutdown. Cost of construction, it was stated, has far exceeded the original estimates of pre-war prices of materials.

Tom Moore in caustic criticism castigated Beck and members of the Hydro Commission. The history of the Hydro Commission is a history of determined opposition to the principle of the eight-hour day, Mr. Moore claimed. The deliberate intention behind the commission's attitude is to force a ten-hour day on labor. Has the increase in cost been due to the fault of labor or blundering in the original estimate? he asked.

SALARY SCHEDULE IS RAISED AT O.A.C.

Manning Doherty Announces Higher Pay for Agricultural College Staff.

Guelph, Ont., July 2.—(Special)—In a letter to the new president, J. B. Reynolds, who assumes his duties here on Monday next, Hon. Manning Doherty, minister of agriculture, announces the new schedule of salaries to go into effect at the O.A.C. in the July pay list. In most cases the changes date back to the first of November last. The minimum salaries are provided for as follows: Fellows, $750; demonstrators, $1,400; lecturers, $2,000; associate professor, $2,500; professor, $3,000. No arbitrary maximum of rate of increase is adopted as elasticity on these points will no doubt make easier the recognition of merit and the proper remuneration for outstanding services. In the new schedule the professor of animal husbandry and the professor of field husbandry, who were formerly at its maximum have been placed at a salary of $4,200, and the other salaries range from the minimum mentioned upward in accord with length and value of service. The amount of increase for those naturally varies, having regard both to the salary at present received and the length and value of service. In a number of instances the salaries being paid were obviously low for the services rendered and hence a very much larger amount is required to bring the salary up to standard.

WHO RULES AIR WILL RULE TRADE

London.—"It does not take a very vivid imagination to foresee a time, not very far distant, when aerial traffic will have a serious, if not a predominant, influence on international commerce," said Prof. H. Melville Jones in the course of a paper read before the Royal Aeronautical Society, "when the times come," he added, "the nation that is disadvantageously placed aerially will be in much the same position as the unfortunate nation that had bad seaports when sea traffic was becoming an important factor in international trade."

HAMILTON Status of Imperials.

Several ex-imperial service men are stumped in Hamilton. They were ordered to transportation to Canada by the overseas settlement board, which, however, failed to provide for them after their arrival in this country. To make the situation worse, they applied to the local soldiers' aid commission, only to find that there was provision by which that body could not assist them financially. This is certainly not as it should be. These men, who have saved lustre on British traditions by volunteering in the hands of the men who have been appointed specially to look after their interests. Let us hope that this incident is but the overture to a cog in the machinery of the overseas settlement board, and that there will be no further instances of the kind.

New School Inspector.

The necessity for new schools and additional teachers ever follows the growth in the school population of a municipality. Coincident with this, the need is felt of an increase in the number of school officials. Faced with this condition, the board of education, in an endeavor to bring the local educational system to a higher standard of efficiency even than now obtains, has decided to appoint another public school inspector. The man recommended for the position is Frank Perry, B.A., English master in Hamilton Normal School, and who has had wide experience both as a public school teacher and in training teachers. He also has eminent professional qualifications for the office.

MRS. SOLOMON SAYS—

Being the Confessions of the Seven-Hundredth Wife.

My Daughter, hearken unto the revolt of a Bachelor, who perceiveth his life in a canoe, by moonlight! He doth walketh wearily amongst women.

"Help, help!" cryeth the Bachelor. "Now is the hour of my confusion. Now is the reason of mine eternal vigilance!"

"For lo, all the world conspireth to lead me into bondage, and to fasten a ball and chain upon my feet!"

"Behold, one by one, I witness the downfall of my friends; and they seek to lure me with them, and to entice me to their wedding!"

"I am arrayed in a long-tailed coat, and decked with a foolish flower, and made to lead felly damels down the white-ruffled aisle, and to sit beside chattering dowagers at the bridal feast."

"Lo, I dare not chide a maiden's hand, lest there be a HOOK therein; I cannot permit her arms to encircle my neck, lest she place a YOKE thereon."

"For, this is the season of folly and flirtation and silly sentiment, when even the moon and the waves, and the perfume of winds, and ALL the elements are banded together for a single man's undoing!"

"Go to! Go to! Ye snare in petty, ye temptations in tulle and tatum!"

"Ye may lead me beside the Blue waters in broad sunlight, but ye cannot lure me into a canoe, by moonlight! Ye may babble unto me of ART, or of suffrage, or dirigibles; but ye shall not win my LOVE, and tell me of your soul-yearnings."

"Ye may cover me with scorn or with pearl-powder, when I dance with you, but ye shall not anon me with violet extract, and hyacinth sachet, that ye may mark me for your OWN!"

"Ye may hold my hands—but ye shall not make me MANICURE them. For I am wise to all your little 'stunts,' and I know the end thereof."

"Yes, by THESE things fell the Benedictine!"

"Oh, ye match-making matrons, I will bring you ice, and sit beside you between dances, and hearken unto your servant problems; but think not to talk to me of your Daughters. For I shall not listen!"

"Verily, verily, all my words shall be discreet, and all mine actions cautious and self-restrained."

"I shall insulate my vanity against you, and put my sentiment away in a capbox, and my affections in a cold storage, until the season of the Love-Moth hath passed."

"Yes, tho I may lose my heart an hundred times, I shall NOT lose my head!"

"Therefore, waste not your wiles and your smiles upon me, for 'Preparedness' is my slogan, and my motto is:—'Give me one more year of liberty, or give me death!'"

TURKS DEFEATED WITH HEAVY LOSS

Many Prisoners, Fifty-Four Cannon and Much Ammunition Are Captured.

Constantinople, July 2.—Occupation by the Greeks of Baloukessar, 50 miles north of Soma, in Asia Minor, after stubborn resistance by the Turks on a line extending eastward is reported in a Greek communique issued under date of July 1.

The Turks are declared to have lost 1,500 prisoners, 54 cannon and much ammunition and to have suffered many casualties in killed and wounded. The Greek losses, the communique adds, were relatively small.

On the eastern front a Turkish detachment surrendered to Greek outposts.

The capture of Baloukessar by the Greeks is given here as indicating that they have overcome Turkish opposition in the Pergama vicinity, defeated the Turkish flanking effort and that the Greeks are advancing along the railway towards the Sea of Marmora.

complement to various candidates, however, and it seemed almost certain that there would be no nomination on that ballot.

There were some hisses when Massachusetts cast one of her 36 for William R. Hearst, and there was a roar of applause a moment later when it from that state went to Palmer.

Another flash of handclapping followed the announcement of the first vote for William J. Bryan. It came from Michigan. When the roll call was close to the half-way mark, Palmer and McAdoo were running neck and neck for the lead, with the former a score or so ahead.

Both were far away from enough to nominate, however.

The company plans to raise sheep on a large scale and contemplates purchasing but 100,000 acres of pasture land in Mongolia for that purpose, which is about six times the pastureage conducted by the south Manchurian Railway in North Manchuria, said to be the largest of the kind in Manchuria.
