COMMISSIONER IN CLASH WITH MAYOR

Ross Takes Exception to Paying Out Grant on Ground of Illegality.

Finance Commissioner Ross had his first clash with the board of control yesterday about the payment of $3,500 to a soldiers' committee to entertain visiting V.C. men which had been authorized by the board at the last meeting. Mr. Ross took the stand that he had no authority to pay the money until approved by the board. The committee to entertain visiting V.C. men which had been authorized by the board at the last meeting. Mr. Ross took the stand that he had no authority to pay the money until approved by the board. The committee to entertain visiting V.C. men which had been authorized by the board at the last meeting. Mr. Ross took the stand that he had no authority to pay the money until approved by the board.

Getting Over Difficulty. "We are elected to do the city's business, not the collector's," declared the mayor with some heat, after hearing the collector's opinion. Commissioner Ross said something about having no desire to do something that wasn't legal, to which the mayor replied: "If an irresponsible, not you; I am not going to take advice from anyone about this. You have your instructions to issue the cheque and it will be issued."

Mr. Ross then withdrew and later a representative of the auditing department appeared on the scene and asked that the auditing department be protected in the matter. At the suggestion of Controller Maguire the word "notwithstanding" was added to the new resolution and the burden of which was that the commissioner be ordered to pay out the money, notwithstanding legal advice against paying it.

WILL GIVE PREFERENCE TO RETURNED SOLDIERS

The report of the committee on behalf of the veterans employed in the civil service has now been made public by the G.W.V.A. The commission points out that temporary employees can only be paid the minimum salary prevailing in their particular branches, irrespective of their classification. The commission, however, points out that employees should not be considered temporary after being in the service six months.

There is an express stipulation that the reclassified temporary employees released prior to the date of classification shall have their claims to participation in the higher rates made retroactive. The commission further states that it has no power to give returned soldiers preference in the order of their release, and that all appeals against classification for inside and outside service must be made to the commission thru the respective deputy ministers.

Recently a petition signed by eight hundred fishermen and others, was received asking the government to discontinue the business and allow it to fall back into private hands. This is what will probably be done.
