SALVATION AND SOOTHING SYRUP

A Hartford Baptist Church to start a Baby Annex to bring Mothers to Service

Hartford, Conn., April 1.—Salvation and soothing syrup will go hand in hand, if the plan of the Memorial Baptist Church meets with the success the doctors of the church have predicted. A falling off in the number of cases which its originality deserves, married women who attend service, care of babies in almost every instance being given as the cause. With the approval of a majority of the congregation, the church has now decided to open a baby bureau, where the infants may be checked while the mother gets divine consolation.

"Come and bring the babies with you. We'll see that they get the best of care and that you get the right ones back."

This is, in substance, the invitation that has been sent to every woman of family in the congregation. Ford says who have had to do a little road work with the baby. If the mothers did take a chance on leaving the dears to their care, are considering the advisability of holding a mass meeting to publicly congratulate the doctors on the splendid idea.

It has been decided that the "baby" room shall be in a remote part of the basement, where the youngsters can turn on the lung power without disturbing the worshipping overhead. On presenting her baby at the door each mother will receive a check, the duplicate of which will be attached to little Tommy or Nellie, as the case may be. The women of the congregation will take turns presiding over the safety pin section, and a philanthropic old gentleman has promised to supply the new department with the plenty of fresh milk and rubber hose.

"It will work splendidly," said a maiden lady, "unless these children get quarrelling and pull the identification tags off each other. Then think of the joy we would have sorting them out!"

THE DEATH BED.
We watched her breathing thro' the night.
Her breathing soft and low,
As in her breast the wave of life
Kept heaving to and fro.So silently we seemed to speak,
So slowly moved about,
As we had left her half our powers
To eke her living out.Our very hopes belied our fears,
Our hearts our eyes betrayed;
We thought her dying when she slept
And sleeping when she died.For when the morn came dim and sad,
And chill with early showers
Her quiet eyelids closed—she had Another morn than ours.CONCLUSIVE.

in talking with another passenger on a

was the best horn player in the world.
"How do you prove it?" asked the other prove it; I admit it."—New York West.

SHE WOULD GROW CHILDREN ON PLAN OF GARDEN TRUCK

Miss Mary Jewell will raise crop of Sturdy Youngsters on a Texas farm—Thinks Children and Vegetables can be Cultivated by same Methods

St. Louis, April 1.—Miss Mary S. Jewell, of Alton, may rent a farm in Texas for the purpose of putting into practice her theory of cultivating vegetables and children by the same methods. Miss Jewell desires to imitate Luther Burbank in the development of a "Shasta daisy," excepting that hers is to be human. As the Alton representative of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society, Miss Jewell has, in the last four years, had opportunity for studying the children in whose interests she has worked. As she has transplanted them to better conditions under which they grew, she has noticed the impetus. She has gloried in the additional vigor and promise which was attained by improved environment.

Now she will make an effort to establish a colony of children of various conditions whom may personally care for and train.

I think that a normal child has the same chance among other normal children as a perfect potato plant, has among other potato plants," Miss Jewell said to a reporter. "It is all a matter of nourishment and training. I think the average child is truly the creature of its environment."

Miss Jewell's desire to become a husbandman of vegetable and human plants was conceived during a trip through Texas recently. She saw women managing farms and was attracted because she thought she would love the life. Then it occurred to her that it would be a fine place for the growing of children, as well as potatoes.

One of the first requisites for the proper development of a child is health, and affords suitable employment. They might learn much from healthy, growing plants in the fields. "The child, like the plant, must be given proper nourishment and care. It must be protected and encouraged. The things with which it is brought into contact must be carefully selected."

It is Miss Jewell's plan to rent a small farm in Texas, which she will be able to operate with profit to all concerned. She says her plans are not at all mature, but she thinks arrangements will be made for her undertaking. She has investigated land in the Dakotas and in Colorado but she favors the Texas location.

WHAT CANADA'S SURPLUS MEANS TO THE TAXPAYERS

It is Made up of Money Paid Out by the People and which Should be Returned when not needed

Montreal Shareholder.)

We have of late years become quite accustomed, if Canada, to large surplus, and every time the budget is presented the Finance Minister smiles with satisfaction at the country's income having exceeded its expenditure. Now, while a surplus is undoubtedly better than a deficit, still, as we have on a previous occasion pointed out, it has been collected from the pockets of the people who have a clear right to have it returned to them in some shape or other. It is their own money, over and above what they have paid for the maintenance of government, and if it is not returned to them in the shape of reduced taxation, should be expended in ways for the benefit of the citizen, and with the surplus the whole community, otherwise the surplus is neither more nor less than robbery. As Mr. J. H. B. Macdonald, who carried the bill in the House of Commons, stated some time ago, "To lay with one hand the power of the government on the property of the citizen, and with the other bestow it on favored individuals to aid private enterprises and build up fortunes, is a robbery because it is done under the forms of law and taxation." Unless the public as a whole participate in a surplus, the country is so much the poorer for having the extra taxation wrung out of the earnings of the people. An extravagant and wasteful government is the most pernicious of all governments and does more to impoverish the people than any other form could do. It lays on a burden which the former Rajahs of India did upon the ryots, then in order to keep up luxurious habits and hoard up diamonds and rubies; or, like the Egyptian despots—before England took a hand in the government—for the wretched fellahs who tilled the cotton rice in order that the Khedives might loil on silks and velvet. What is this but political corruption?—and are we, white men willingly going to bow their necks to the yoke? Some of our members have been shouting in our vast expenditure, and seem to glory in the fact that our federal taxation is nearly double per head of what it is in the United States, being almost $12 against about $5, failing only in the matter of this does not necessarily mean prosperity, but simply a drain upon the pockets of the people, who belong to the people, who should not be mulcted of them. A camel will carry a heavy load, but there is the old story of the last straw breaking its back; and so a time will come unless relief is given, when our white men and their burden, too heavy for their backs. The Manager of the Bank of Montreal is reported to have recently sounded the note of warning in some remarks about vesting funds and we are convinced that it is not the office of a government to be in the least degree interfering with private enterprises upon the plea that such are of public utility. For every trade is of public utility, and further, it is the duty of a government to be economical, as possible, the funds collected being in trust, and belonging to the people, and it is out of this is acknowledged and insisted upon, there will be political corruption, and the whole man's burden will continue to grow.

REGULATIONS AT THE BISLEY MEET

New Rules will go into effect at this Summer's Meeting

Ottawa, April 1.—The Bisley meeting will open this year on July 13 and will continue during the fortnight. Various new regulations will come into force, among the most important of which may be mentioned the definition of a volunteer, which has been amended so as to include members of the territorial force and officers' training corps, while a retired volunteer need only have had ten years' service as such instead of twenty as hitherto. With the service rifle any backshot, whether including a vernier, ventometer or aperture sight, may be used in all competitions, provided it conforms to certain rules, and the War Office pattern miniature rifle may be used in competitions open to military miniature rifles. As regards targets, the second and third class will this year be circular, the divisions at 200, 300 and 400 yards remaining the same, but for 300 yards a new target has been introduced with a nine-inch bullseye and an eighteen-inch inner.

In the competitions probably the most important change is that made in the King's prize, in the second stage of which the twenty shots at 600 yards are now replaced by ten shots at 300 and ten at 600 yards. The Waldegrave, instead of being a single-stage competition, will now be at 300 and 600 yards, while a challenge cup has been presented by Major C. T. Mander for yearly competition, the round shots' competition, and a challenge cup and £50 have been given by Mr. J. Hamilton Leigh for teams of five from any unit, to be shot for at Wantage targets at 300 yards.

TROPHY NAMED FOR A FAMOUS BALL PLAYER

Hans Wagner's name to be Perpetuated in Trophy Offered to Amateur Ball Teams in New York

New York, March 31.—The gift of Harry Pulliam, President of the National League, a cup to be known as the "Hans Wagner Trophy" will be competed for by the Clubs of the Interborough Amateur Baseball League. Mr. Pulliam, in making his purpose of presenting the trophy, after eulogizing baseball as the most healthful of sports, said:

"I consider Hans Wagner the greatest baseball player yet produced in the professional leagues, and I should like to perpetuate his name in the form of a cup. I will give a trophy to be known as the Hans Wagner Cup to the Interborough League to be won three seasons in succession before it becomes the property of any individual team. I think it is properly perpetuate the name of Wagner and at the same time make a good incentive for the Interborough players."

The Interborough League, composed of eight teams in Manhattan, Bronx, Brooklyn and Queens will open its season Decoration day.

HEALEY AND ASQUITH.

Their Speeches in British House Arouse considerable Criticism

London, March 31.—Mr. Asquith's speech seems likely to produce a strained relationship between the government and the Nationalists. Bitter disappointment at it was expressed in the lobbies by the Irish members.

Mr. Healey's speech was a scathing attack on the chancellor. He reminded the House that in the question of amnesty for the dynamite men some years ago, Mr. Asquith "closed the gates of mercy with a clang," but the gates were opened by the Tory party within two years.

Then, referring to the ordeal of the Pigott forgeries, Mr. Healey said that the only thing he regretted was that Mr. Asquith was engaged in that case to defend the Parnellites. Continuing, he said that it was on the Irish question that Mr. Asquith first came into notice.

"Today he is an important man," said the speaker; "tomorrow he may be a god, but we shall not worship at his shrine."

Mr. Healey's argument was that the Conservatives would force "free trade versus protection" as a plank at the next general election; therefore Mr. Asquith's attitude meant indefinite deferment of home rule.

MACHINE MEASURES JOY AND SORROW

New Instrument Records the Effects of Different Kinds of Music on Human System

New York, April 1.—Just how much joy or sorrow may be produced in the human system by various kinds of music will be shown with mathematical accuracy by a new instrument which will be exhibited in Carnegie hall. The mechanism will be shown by James E. Homan to members of the National Society of Musical Therapeutics.

As melody rises from the piano, from the strings of seven strings and from the organ, the subject will be secured to the machine and his blood circulation and the vibration of his nerves accurately measured. Mr. and Mrs. Karl Feininger will help solve the clinical material with piano and violin. The society, which was established last year, is devoted to the theory that many ills can be cured or mitigated by music.

The validity of convictions under the local option bylaw in Owen Sound is to be tested in the courts. There have been some 75 convictions under the local bylaw which will be affected by the decision in the case. It is claimed that the measure was put into force on the 15th of the month, too soon after the vote for the convictions under it to be legal.

East Indians resident at Vancouver have called a protest to Mr. John Morley, secretary for India, against their treatment in Canada.

ARE THE FAMOUS JEWELS IN HOCK

Dublin's Lost Crown Jewels may, after all, be quietly reposing on a Pawnbroker's Shelves

Dublin, April 1.—A pawnbroker, discussing the still unexplained mystery of the Irish Crown jewels, said that, although he did not believe that the jewels were in Dublin, it was not impossible that they were.

"They may, in fact," he added, "be in my place at the present moment, quite unknown to me. Young gentlemen come in here with a portmanteau or a Gladstone bag, saying that their dress suit is in it and their valuables, and ask only for probably one pound. We give a pound, not on the vague value of the contents of the bag, but on the value of the bag itself. The owner of the bag takes away the key, pays the interest if he cannot release, and so on. Now, considering this custom, how do I know that the Crown jewels are not at present under this roof?"

The pawnbroker explained that to leave a Gladstone bag containing the Crown jewels in a pawn office in Dublin, the pawnbroker knowing nothing about what was in the bag, would excite no suspicion. The thief, feigning poverty, would be unable to redeem the bag, and would simply manage to pay the interest. Then, in course of time, when the whole fuss in parliament and elsewhere had become a matter of history only, he would take the bag out, "levant" to Amsterdam or Berlin, and realize the value of his prize in safety.

According to the report of the superintendent of education, there are 2,465 schools in Nova Scotia. It is stated that Nova Scotia has still the largest attendance at school, for the population of any country in the world. In one particular 1907 was a disappointment, the number of pupils falling 325 from the previous year, when the attendance was 199,332.

Ladies & Gentlemen,

I will be a Candidate for ALDERMAN to Represent QUEENS WARD at the ensuing CIVIC ELECTION and kindly Solicit your Support.

Yours respectfully,

HENRY DUNBRACK.
