read the first six chapters of Matthew's gospel, and as far as the 7th verse of the following chapter, when, to use his own expression, the scales fell from his eyes as from those of Saul of Tarsus, when Ananias laid his hands upon him, and the whole Truth like a flood rushed upon his mind, so that he could say, "one thing I know, that, whereas I was blind, now I see." I am happy to inform you that he has been, since that time, an eminent and successful preacher of the faith which he once so obstinately denied.—Such, my friends, are the happy effects of the Word, when accompanied by the influences of the Spirit: without these influences, the Word is but a dead letter: for the Divine author of the Gospel has said, "without me, ye can do nothing." Not to occupy any more of your time, permit me most cordially to second the Resolution.

In moving the fifth Resolution, the Rev. Robert Irvine spoke as follows:—

Mr. Chairman;—We are much indebted to the Ladies for their praiseworthy and Christian efforts in the Bible cause, and we should be very ungrateful did we decline to acknowledge it. God has endowed woman with a peculiar fitness for reaching the heart, and abodes of misery, and when the lofty endowments of her feminine nature are sanctified by grace, she becomes the best philanthropist, the most faithful confidant, the most affectionate friend, and the most persevering of all labourers. To her, under God, we are indebted for almost every earthly blessing we enjoy.

The godly Minister will tell you that his early impressions of religion were received while he prattled by a pious mother's knee, at a time when his youthful mind was prepared to drink in example at every channel. The philanthropist will tell you that he learned to commiserate the wants of a suffering humanity, by seeing a mother's eye filled with the tear of pity while she listened to the tale of another's woe. The warrior will tell you that the courage which bore him through the brunt of the battle-field, was instilled into his youthful breast when he learned from a mother's lips the lessons of patriotism, and of chivalry. Col. Gardner, once an abandoned sinner, was indebted to his mother's piety, for what by the grace of God he afterwards became. John Howard's benevolence was hereditary, and Napoleon Bonaparte's mother made him a warrior. The cause of God in all ages of his church has been greatly indebted to female influence. In fact, it must often have sunk in the hands of man, had they not been sustained by the agency of the female assistant. If you remove the aid of our female friends from the Bible Society, you strip it in a great measure of its active efficiency. This great cause without female assistance to carry out its plans, is like a choir without a female voice. It needs female influence to sweeten to succour, and to give harmony to all its operations. When God's people of old were emancipated from the bondage of Egypt, and when Moses sang the song of victory over the vanquished troops of Pharaoh, as they sunk "with bubbling groan" into the returning waves of the Red Sea, it seemed that he was unable to chant the notes of that war song, until Miriam came with her timbrel and her harp to aid him in the delightful task. When Jabin, with nine hundred chariots of iron, invaded the people of God in the days of Barak the Judge, and when Sisera, the captain of his host fell by the hand of Jael, the wife of Heber, it seemed that the masculine music of Barak was not sufficient to celebrate this great national conquest until Deborah's voice was employed to modulate and give effect to the song; thus it would appear that the troops of Israel never caught the echoes of their natural melody, until the thrilling tones of a female minstrelsy, awoke the latent feelings of patriotism in their manly bosoms. And how soon would our efforts be paralyzed in conducting the operations of this Society, were the ladies to refuse their aid! We may do the platform work of the association; we may draw up reports, fill orders, and post letters,—we may import Bibles, call meetings, and deliver speeches; here our operations cease.—but we want a locomotive agency—we must have the aid of female influence to make Bible readers—to create an interest in Bible Societies, to teach the practice of Bible principles, to instil into the human heart the influence of Bible truth, to send the Bible into the abodes of misery, of ignorance, and of want, and not to desist from the labour of love until she make the cottage, and the hamlet, feel that there is a power and pathos about female piety, to which the religion of a man is an utter stranger. Historians tell us that a woman once walked the streets of Alexandria barefooted, with a burning brand in one hand and a vessel of water in the other, exclaiming, "I will burn the heavens with this torch, and extinguish the flames of hell with this water, that man may love his God for himself alone." Let our female friends go forth with the word of God in their hands, let them feel its sacred and heavenly influence on their own hearts, let them enter the streets and lanes of this city, and let all their efforts be conducted with a single eye to the glory of God, and then may we expect drunkenness, and Sabbath desecration, and bloodshed and murder to cease within the precincts of St. John. When Christianity was in its infancy it was fostered, and nursed by the genial breath of female affection. It was watched over by woman's eye when slumbering in the manger in the person of our blessed Lord. It was carried in woman's arms into Nazareth, at a time when the hands of an unrelenting Herod were soaked in the blood of the infants of Bethlehem; and by woman it was presented in the temple according to the rites of Moses. Nor did woman desert an infant Christianity here, for when an expiring Saviour hung upon the accursed tree, betrayed by Judas, denied by Peter, and forsaken by all, we find three solitary females, riveted by the spell of woman's love to the cross of Calvary, even in spite of the threat of a Roman magistrate, the glitter of a Roman spear, and the din of a Jewish rabble. And she who was last at the cross of Calvary, was first at the tomb of Joseph.

Need I turn to the history of Christianity while it remained in the hands of the Apostles, in confirmation of these statements. Only read the salutations of the apostle Paul in his epistles to the different churches to which they are addressed, and you hear the honorable mention which is made of the Phœbes, the Priscillas, and the Junias, to whom he was indebted under God for much of the success that attended his apostolic labours.

The hands of the Apostles must often have sunk under the oppression of their arduous toils, had they not been sustained by the councils and the prayers of the pious females. And we all know that when Christianity was often chased from the walls of the synagogue and of the temple, and even from the public highway, it found an asylum in the humble dwelling-place of the pious female.

Ladies of Saint John, allow me, in the name of this large and respectable meeting, and in accordance with the sentiment embodied in the resolution which I hold in my hand—allow me to thank you most heartily, for your assiduous and persevering efforts in the great Bible cause. You have our approbation and our gratitude; you have more, you have the approbation and the gratitude of all the pious and the good; you have more still, you have the gratitude and the prayers of many a houseless widow, and many a homeless orphan, whose souls have been comforted by your faithful labours; you have yet more, the prayers of many a Hindoo mother, who was wont to stand on the brink of the Ganges, and in accordance with the rites of a barbarous theology, was wont to plunge the child of her affections into its polluted waters, are now ascending to heaven on your behalf, and these prayers shall yet descend in showers, a blessing on you and on your children and your children's children; and yet again, you have more, you have the approbation of the God of the Bible. 'Tis true you shall meet with opposition, in your good work, but your Saviour will succour you; when He visited the house of Simon, a Pharisee, on one occasion, a woman came running in pursuit of Him, and she brought an alabaster box of ointment, and poured it, though rich and costly, on his head. For this her good work she was reproached by the self-righteous pharisee, who said "to what intent is this waste? might not this ointment have been sold for three hundred pence, and given to the poor?" So will your enemies reproach you, and justify themselves by pharisaic professions of charity, couched in such imposing language, as "give the poor food, give them clothing, and keep your Bibles to yourselves." But you have been doing a good work, you have been pouring your ointment on the head of Christ, you have been anointing Him a King in the hearts of many of his dear people. Go on, rest assured that whatever your enemies and the enemies of the Bible may say of you and your cause, your Savidur and your God approves your labours and encourages your hearts by the cheering promise which at once comforted the godly woman, and condemned the ungodly pharisee, "Verily I say unto you, wheresoever this gospel shall be preached in the whole world, there shall this also that this woman hath done, be told for a memorial of her."

One word bearing upon the spirit of my resolution and I shall sit down.—I cannot resume my seat, Mr. President, without dropping a tear over the memory of a worthy female to whom the Ladies' Bible Association of Saint John is deeply indebted. I refer to the late Mrs. Kinnear, the lady of the Honorable the Solicitor General of this Province, a lady whose unostentatious but deep toned piety rendered her at once an affectionate wife, a loving mother, and a benevolent member of Society,—a lady whose life was spent in doing good, and whose triumphant death was perhaps the most powerful exemplification of the influence of Bible truth on the human heart, that ever this Province witnessed. "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord, from henceforth," yea saith the spirit, that they may rest from their labours, and their works do follow them."

Appropriate Hymns were sung three times, First, at the commencement; next, after the 3rd Resolution, when the Collection was taken up; and again, at the dismission. In this elevating exercise, the audience had the able assistance of several of the Members of the Sacred Music Society, accompanied by the Organ, which was played by Mr. Steven.

In order to publish complete, in our paper, the several able and interesting Speeches delivered at the anniversary of the Bible Society, we have been compelled to omit several articles of a domestic nature, and summary of general news. From the same cause we have likewise been unable to give insertion to two important communications requiring immediate publicity. In our next paper we will give the usual variety.

Surgical Operation.—We are informed that a tumor was yesterday removed from the arm of Mr. ——Boudreau, of Carleton, by Dr. Hunter Peters, of that place, while the man was rendered entirely insensible to pain by the inhalation of the vapor of a compound of which æther appears to form the chief ingredient.—Complete sleep and insensibility were produced in three minutes by this process, under the direction of Dr. Adams, of Boston; and the instant the operation was completed, an open window and a little cold water to the fore-head, immediately restored the patient, who at once expressed himself as "having been every happy and quite unconscious of having felt anything."

We bring this under the notice of the public, that others may benefit by this wonderful improvement in modern science. Many, to our knowledge, are laboring under disease in this City, who have not the fortitude to endure the pain of an operation. This process is safe and rapid and has already been extensively used in Boston and other portions of the United States, by the most eminent Surgeons there.

The operation was performed in the presence of three Medical gentlemen, who expressed themselves perfectly satisfied with the complete and entire insensibility to pain of the patient.—Dr. Adams remains a day or two in the city, when he will visit Fredericton. (St. John, Jan. 16, 1847.

Concert.—The lovers of music will be gratified to learn that the Philharmonic Society, assisted by several gentlemen Amateurs, intend favouring the public with another of their pleasing Concerts on Thursday evening next, at the Hall of the Mechanics' Institute.—[See advertisement in another column.]

The thermometer yesterday morning was at 5 deg. below zero, being the coldest weather experienced in this city this winter.—In the forenoon the air moderated, and a snow storm commenced, which continued till night, when it changed to rain, with a heavy S. E. wind. The snow is again washed away, and nothing but ice remains.

Electric Telegraph.—A large and respectable meeting was held at Quebec on the 7th inst. when it was resolved that a line of telegraph from Halifax to Quebec, about 600 miles, could be set up at an expense of £25,000; and that the expense from Quebec to the frontier of New Brunswick, is estimated at £6,500. This sum it was proposed to raise in 650 shares of £10 each; and it was resolved to send a Deputation or Agent to this Province and Nova Scotia, to urge the establishment of similar Companies to carry out the entire plan. A committee of eighteen gentlemen was appointed to superintend the proceedings, and when 300 shares are subscribed for, Directors are to be chosen.

☞ The annual collection in St. Andrew's Church, on Sabbath last, for the poor, amounted to £10.

Flour.—At New York on the 11th inst. 1000 brls. flour, for exportation, sold at $5.50; Corn meal, $3, 87½; Pork, $9.25, to $11.—Freight to Liverpool, flour, 4s. 9d. to 5s.; wheat 18d.

Freights at New Orleans, 2d Jan. to Liverpool, ¼d. for cotton; 6s. for flour, and 17d. to 18d. for grain.

At New York, Laths are now selling at $3.50 per thousand; and such is the scarcity of the article, that several saw mills in Brooklyn are cutting them from two inch plank.

Consecration.—On Tuesday last, according to previous announcement, the new Church at Manawagonish, Parish of Lancaster, was consecrated. The Bishop was accompanied during the ceremony by the Rev. Messrs. Coster, Stewart, Avery, Disbrow, Bowyer, and Simonds. The Petition for the Consecration was read by the Rev. Thomas W. Robertson, the officiating Minister of the Parish. After the consecration of the Church, the services commenced: Prayers by the Rev. T. W. Robertson; Communion service by the Lordship the Bishop; Epistle by the Rev. Mr. Stewart; Gospel by the Rev. Mr. Avery. The Bishop preached a very excellent and appropriate Sermon from Acts x. c 15. v 4. "What God hath cleansed, that call not thou common." After the sermon a collection was made in behalf of the building. The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was then administered by the Bishop, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Coster; immediately after which the ground round the church was consecrated as a Place of Burial.

The land (one acre) on which the church stands, was given by Mr James Olive, who has taken a very active part in the building since its commencement. The seats are all free, and capable of containing 300 persons. The church received the name of St. John the Evangelist.—Chronicle.

Supreme Court.—The Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Gaol Delivery for this City and County commenced its sittings on Tuesday—His Honor Judge Street presiding. In charging the Jury, His Honor observed that the criminal cases before the Court were of a less heinous nature than he usually had to notice—the most aggravated one being for larceny—which circumstance was highly creditable to the morals of this populous and thriving city.

His Honour took occasion to notice the recent outcry which had been made by some parties relative to the execution of a criminal for taking the life of one of the fellows, and calmly, but with great ability and firmness, explained the object contemplated by the law in such cases—the duty of the Judges and of the Executive, and the melancholy results which might be anticipated if the laws of the land could be violated with impunity. His Honor exposed the fallacy of the opinion which has so generally obtained here of late, that the Executive could interfere with the execution of the law, or that the Judges could in no case in the one under consideration, move in the slightest degree to prevent the punishment of the criminal.

There are fifty-two cases on the Civil Docket for trial, fourteen of which are marked "summary," being for demands under £20, a class of cases which we should suppose, might be as well disposed of in an inferior Court.—New Brunswicker.

The British Ship Indus, Capt. Cox, in 34 days from St. Helena, recently arrived at Port Royal, Jamaica, with 340 Africans, captured from a Slaver by Her Majesty's brig Waterwitch, 4 guns, Commander Birch, on the coast of Africa, and sent to St. Helena, where the vessel was condemned and the Africans were shipped on board the Indus, and sent to Jamaica for the purpose of assisting in Agriculture.

Wesleyan Missions.—During the present week the Anniversary Services of the St. John South, North, and Carleton Auxiliary Missionary Society have been held. The Ministers who took part in these services were those residing in the City, namely, the Rev. Messrs. Daniel and Sutcliffe, and the Rev. Mr. Smallwood of Portland, and the Rev. Mr. Rice of Carleton;—also, the Rev. Messrs. Hennigar of St. Stephen, and Pickles of St. Andrews.

In the South Circuit, namely, Germain street and Centenary Chapels, in addition to the above mentioned Ministers, the Rev. Messrs. Gallaway, Independant; Irvine, Presbyterian; and Robinson, Baptist; took part in the Meetings. Also, the Hon. L. A. Wilmot of Fredericton, who delivered a most effective address at the German street meeting on Tuesday evening; and presided with his usual ability at the Centenary Chapel on Thursday evening. The cause of Missions at these meetings was most nobly advocated. The addresses of the different Ministers were listened to with deep attention and evidently with great delight. As an evidence of the effect produced, the Collections were more than twice the amount of last year, reaching the respectable sum of £63.

We are informed that both in Portland and Carleton, the Collections are largely in advance of last year,—shewing that the cause of Missions is acquiring additional hold of the public mind in this community,—that when a case is earnestly made out,—when the wants of the world are pressingly set forth to view, a generous response will be found in the heart of the religious public, and "the liberal man will devise liberal things."

Considering the numerous appeals which have been made on the Wesleyan Congregations in this City for different local objects, during the last six months, the proceeds of the Missionary Anniversary just closed, are highly creditable.—New Brans.

Melancholy Death.—We regret to learn that Mr. Charles Hardenbrook, residing in the Parish of Westfield, about 12 miles from this City, was found frozen to death yesterday morning, near the residence of Mr. James B. Lyons. It appears that Mr. H. left town on Sunday, (whither he came for the purpose of visiting a sick daughter,) on his return home, and that he became benumbed with the intense cold, and sat down near a large rock, about one hundred yards from Mr. Lyons's dwelling. Mr H. was between forty and fifty years of age, and was much respected as an honest, upright man. His loss will be much regretted by all who knew him. We understand that he has left a wife and four or five children to mourn their bereavement. —Ib.

Destructive Fire.—Last night, (Friday) between the hours of 11 and 12 o'clock, we were alarmed by the cry of Fire and the ringing of Bells; and in a few moments we discovered that the extensive and valuable Steam Saw Mills owned by Mr. Nelson, at the Nashwaaksis, on the opposite side of the River, were all on fire. Every thing was done which could be accomplished by the joint operations of the Military and our Citizens, to stay the flames, but that was impossible, considering the distance, which is about a mile and a half from Town. The property destroyed is estimated by some at £5,000, and it is said that there is no Insurance, unless it has been effected within a few days, the proprietor being at present in the United States. Through the uncommon exertions of the Engine companies, already alluded to, a great quantity of Lumber was saved; but upon the whole, the consequences are truly melancholy, not only as regards the great loss sustained by Mr. Nelson, but also in reference to the number of individuals connected with the establishment, who are thrown out of present employment.—[From a Slip from the Fredericton Reporter, January 16.

Agricultural Show in Miramichi.—The Annual exhibition of the Northumberland Agricultural Society was held at New Castle on the 7th inst.—The Gleaner describes it as having exceeded anything of the kind ever witnessed in Miramichi, and highly eulogizes the deportment manifested by the farmers of that place to advance the interests of Agriculture.

Mortality among the Indians.—A fearfully malignant fever is raging among, and sweeping off the Indians at Dartmouth. No less than four victims of it, we have heard, were buried yesterday. The sickness is said to be the "black fever." The Government has compassionately taken the state of the sufferers into consideration, and directed that an hospital shall be prepared for them, and appointed Dr. Jennings to superintend it.—Halifax Recorder.

From the Seat of War.—The accounts from the army are full of interest. If they are true we shall soon have accounts of the highest importance from the seat of war. It is stated that Santa Ana was advancing on Saltillo with 15,000 men (not 20,000 to 30,000, as the telegraphic account stated yesterday, and that General Taylor had sent reinforcements to General Worth, and would soon follow himself.—Boston Daily Advertiser, Jan. 13.

Congress.—The bill for the increase of the army by ten regiments had been passed in the House on Monday 11th, and a new "Lieutenant General" bill had been reported in the Senate.

Pensacola, Dec. 31.—A schooner arrived here this morning from Key West, at which port a small British vessel had arrived with fifty white passengers, fugitives from Green Turtle Key—one of the Bahama Islands,—in consequence of an insurrection there of the free negroes.—N. Y. Jour. of Com.

From the West.—Cincinnati papers of the 4th instant contain melancholy details of destruction caused by a flood in the Big Miami on the 2d.—Five lives were lost.

The Cincinnati and Dayton Canal is swept of bridges, and is broken and overflowed. The Whitewater Canal is almost irreparably damaged. The loss in lumber, flour, logs and pork is enormous, and the destruction of mills, &c. is fearful. The price of pork in Cincinnati has advanced one eighth of a dollar.

Passengers in brig Jessie Thomson, for Liverpool, sailed on Friday last—Mr. James Robertson.

[FOR THE OBSERVER.]

Mr. Editor.—I was very much pleased with the communication of "A Ship Owner," in the Saturday's Courier, in relation to a "Sailor's Home." Nothing is more needful than such an establishment in this City. The benefits from it would be great. It would tend, in some measure, to check the vice and immorality, which, to our disgrace, are fast increasing in some of our dockside. It would withdraw some of those people, by which the licensed taverns so temporal and eternal ruin, that the taverns and grog shops are supported. It would have a salutary powerful and moral influence upon the Sailor himself, and afford the Christian a better opportunity of opening up to him, from the Scriptures of Truth, the way of life and salvation. And thus, through its means, we might have a sober, moral and religious class of men to man the numerous ships that frequent our harbour. There is no class of respectable citizens that should not feel an interest in a "Sailor's Home." The Merchant, the Lawyer, the Physician, the Mariner, the Teacher, and the Artizan, should all combine to press upon the Legislature the absolute necessity there is for such an establishment—and if further Legislative aid is not granted, they should not rest until by private subscription, a sum sufficient for the purpose of erecting a suitable building, has been attained. It has been truly said that there is no Society which ought so to command the support of all, so much as the Bible Society. In like manner it might be said, that there is not a project, devised in this city, to which every other should give way, so much as that of a "Sailors' Home." Supporters of the Bible, promoters of Temperance, advocates of civil and religious liberty, deserters of lovers of the public good, well-wishers to mankind!—come forward, one and all, to assist in the accomplishment of this thing,—and the blessing of the poor neglected Seamen will rest upon your heads.

To call them to his arms."
