WATSON TO HIS FRIENDS.

LONDON, Jan. 27.—Since his return to England William Watson, the author of the poem, "The Woman With the Serpent's Tongue," has been making things unpleasant for the papers which printed the statements made by his brother relative to the poet's mental cendition.

things unpleasant for the papers which printed the statements made by his brother relative to the poet's mental condition.

Under the English laws the publication of such statements is distinctly libelous, and several papers have tendered ample apologies rather than contest the legal actions with which Mr. Watson has threatened them. He has just published here the verses he wrote before leaving New York to "The Two Friends That Championed Us." He apostrophizes these friends:

A really sensational act has been booked at the Orpheum for next week. This refers to the "Great Conture." the world's greatest unicyclist. Trick hicycle riders have become relegated to the past as compared with the wonderful performance of Conture on one wheel. Conture has enjoyed an international reputation, and some of his feats, it is said, have never neer, performed by any other living rider. For example—while riding around the stage at a rapid clip on one wheel he jumps bodily to the saddle of another and continues without apparently the slightest difficulty. This is but one of this great performer's tricks, who must be seen to be appreciated. The second act on the bill is Miss Dorothy Hall, male impersonator and dancer. The burden of the responsibility for bad business was thrown on the shoulders of the motion pictures at still another place. The Actors' Fund placed the blame on the cheap playhouse, but palliated the offence by saying that a great many actors were finding employment posing for these pictures, and making a good living at it. At the offices of the fund the statement was made that about 300 actors were employed by the motion picture manufacturers, and more and more were needed as the quality of the pictures im-

Forty years ago, when I first discarded drugs and devoted my whole attention to the study of Electricity, I could not afford to do business on today's basis, but I have so perfected my Electrical Appliances, and the knowledge I have gained from all these years of experience and research is so great, that I will now give my wonder-famed Dr. Sanden Electric Belt, with Electric Suspensory, to any man who suffers from Nervous Debility, Varicocele, Losses, Rheumatism, Lame Back.
