Miss Hessian.....Mr. Blake's Bible Class, Deaconess
at Sackville Mission.

List of candidates now in the Home for training: Miss Annie Archer, Miss Eleanor Shepherd, Miss Ida Collins, Miss Maria Allworth.

Much success attended the courses of lectures, opened to the women teachers of our Sunday-schools, which were given last year. About thirty-eight availed themselves of the lectures on "Christian Doctrine," "Epistle to Romans," "Missions," "St. Luke," "Joshua."

This year a most enthusiastic gathering of teachers was held in St. James' Schoolhouse, and the classes which have now opened are being more largely attended. It is our strong conviction that this branch of the work has been opened by God and that He will use this agency to give the women of our Church a sound grasp of the faith and fit them to be capable workers in the Sunday-school and as District Visitors. We have already begun to make our mark upon the teaching given by many of our teachers and we intend to carry it on by God's help until once more Evangelical teaching shall be the most general, if not the only instruction imparted to our youth. What God did at the Reformation He can do again to-day.

We would draw attention to this branch of our work and point out that should any of those attending lectures offer and be accepted by the C.C.M.A. (as we hope and pray that some will), they would not need to wait two years but may fill out the time required for the additional lectures to complete the course, saving at least six months, and it might be in some cases even the two years' time and expenses.

In closing, let us remind the Alumni that great doors are open to us; pray for us that we may have courage to go forth and that women of faith, piety and love only may be sent, who shall do great things for God.

Miss Cross is still at the head of the House, retaining the re-
