

No Bull...They Played Mem Hall!

by Jethelo E. Cabilete

Ya know, I wish Nature would make up its mind about the weather and temperature. This bouncing between warm and cold is messing with my sinuses. Anyway, this week has a lot going on in Memorial Hall, Wednesday being the St. Lawrence String Quartet, and today and tomorrow (Saturday March 20) the UNB Art Centre hosting a number of events. Sooo...let's start with Wednesday night and the St. Lawrence String Quartet.

This promising Canadian ensemble met through summer studies in Banff. In the Fall of 1989, the Quartet began performing in Toronto, eventually moving to New York to study for two years with the famous Emerson Quartet. Overall, they perform about 70 concerts a season, in countries like Canada, the US, Europe and Asia to name a few. Actively commissioning new works from Canadian composers, the Debut Atlantic Tour is the Quartet's fourth year performance, supported by the Canada Council, Ontario Arts Council and Foundation for the Arts. The performance Wednesday night was marvelous. These people really get into their music, communicating each other's actions to one another, as much a visual display as a play. The first composition was by Schubert, a contemporary of Beethoven's. Schubert took some of the qualities of Beethoven and added
