"At Inkerman Barracks, Woking Area, on 21st July 1942 during lunch hour Tpr. Austin, J.D. came to my quarters for a haircut. While I was cutting his hair he asked me if I would like to buy some clothing coupons, which resemble Exhibit "B", only to my memory the coupons had a cover. I asked him the price. He told me he'd let me have them for five shillings. I didn't fancy buying them but Tpr. Austin said he needed the money for some special reason. I asked him where he obtained the coupons. He said one of the fellows in the Orderly Room gave them to him to buy some clothes. I said, 'In that case they are not stolen?' He said, 'No.' I then purchased the coupons. I then sold them to the Regimental Barber, whom I assisted, as I knew he was getting married and would be interested in acquiring coupons. I sold them to him at a value of ten shillings. He paid me only five shillings as I was indebted to him for five shillings. He asked me if they were all right and not stolen. I assured him they were not stolen."
