

NEWS OF THE COAST

A fine of $20 was imposed on a young Indian in the Vancouver police court for offering a doe for sale in the city.

A man named George Ross has been fined at Victoria, $25 and costs for killing a fawn, contrary to the provisions of the game act.

Julia, the oldest Indian woman on the Songhees reserve, is dead. She was nearly 100 years old. In earlier life she was the wife of a white pioneer, who was murdered many years ago.

The two prospectors, Messrs. Austin and Spinliff, who were supposed to have been lost on route from Nanaimo to Douglas bay, have been heard from. Their boat was stove in on the way up, but they escaped and reached their destination.

The Nanaimo Creamery association has elected a board of directors, and arranged for a temporary loan from a bank, pending the receipt of a loan of $11,500 from the provincial government. The creamery will now be able to start without delay.

It is not unlikely that before very long another salmon hatchery will be built up the coast, at a place called Oweekayno. Tired of waiting for action by the Dominion government, which has done nothing beyond looking over the site for two years, the canners of the up-coast inlets have turned to the provincial government for aid and Commissioner Babcock has sent Mr. Rossbury up to make a careful examination and report on the suitability of the site for the purpose of a salmon hatchery.

Further nominations were recently made in coast districts. Hon. R. McBride has been formally placed in the field by the Dewdney Conservatives, Mayor Grant of Cumberland is the Conservative candidate in Comox. John McLaren, not long ago secretary of the carpenters' union in Rossland, has been selected by the Labor party in Vancouver, in addition to Messrs. Dixon and Williams. There is a probability of a three-cornered fight in Atlin, the candidates being Dr. Young, Conservative, James Stables, Liberal, and James Kirkland, Labor.

Information was given a Times representative to the effect that San Francisco parties are negotiating for 170,000 tons of Haddington Island stone for the erection of some wharves in the Bay City. The stone found in California is too soft and not sufficiently durable for such a purpose, and the parties influenced by the city of Victoria in building of the James Bay wall have called for tenders for the supply of the material. A number of British Columbians have tendered on the contract, and estimates have been presented showing the cost of transportation, of quarrying and of otherwise handling the contract.

Operations on the construction of the railway and traffic bridge across the Fraser at New Westminster are being rushed and it is expected that this great highway will be ready for travel by early spring. The contractors for the superstructure have almost completed their part of the work and are now engaged in sinking the two small No. 2 piers, which are the last to be put in position. The others are now all finished with the exception of a little stonework on Nos. 3 and 4. The grading and cribbing for the wagon road and railway approaches on shore have been almost completed. The contractors for the superstructure have a large gang rushing up the steel work as rapidly as it arrives from the east and is unloaded from the cars. Five spans are now up, and these reach half-way across the river. However, the three remaining spans will be the most difficult to place in position, as the draw-bridge is a large one, and the steel work has to be riveted yet, and this is a work that will take several months to perform.

Hold up by the Indians in far off lonely Ootsa, was the peril which faced Mr. McIntosh, clerk of the Vancouver police court, and his party. Mr. McIntosh was in search for gold. He had heard of a fabulously rich deposit, and talked to men who had picked up the quartz speckled with gold that had dropped off the vein. From them he had learned the secret of the locality of the rich mine, and at a heavy expense he returned to the Ootsa lake country, not only to stake land but in search of gold. They had some trouble in securing Indian guides, but finally did so. These guides demanded a heavy pay, but guaranteed to take the party safely to the deposits of gold. On the third day out Mr. McIntosh's party became suspicious, the Indians got too familiar and were constantly talking amongst themselves. They then deliberately led them on the wrong track, and by the time they got within thirty miles of their destination their grul was nearly exhausted. 'Twas then that they realized that the Indians had determined to steal their outfit or demand all their possessions in payment of food. They refused to budge and became defiant when threatened, but the white men were caned of their guides, while the Indians slept, and paddling all night, succeeded in finding their way back to the starting place.

As a result of the visit of President London, it is not unlikely that the Victoria college examinations will be taken as part of the university course, the college being recognized to this extent in affiliation with Ontario's Provincial university.

The timber business has taken another spurt in Vancouver district, and last month was the banner month as regards the number of timber licenses issued, there being 175 disposed of, which means a revenue of $17,500 for the province. Forty-five of these were renewals.

The attendance at the Vancouver public schools has fallen off very largely owing to a diphtheria scare. The board of health having in mind the reduced government grant by lax attendance, have issued a notice that diphtheria is not epidemic in the city, and there is no reason why children should be kept from school.

Rich finds of gold bearing quartz have just been made on Gribbell Island, situated 400 miles up the coast from Vancouver, according to a statement made by Mr. Wm. Cox of Whatcom, president of the Canadian-American Mining company. Mr. Cox says that these finds made by individual prospectors have not been exploited or developed so far, but are reported to present ore bodies of very large extent. Assays from these new finds give returns in gold going all the way from $4.05 per ton to $120.20 per ton.

A dispatch from Dawson conveyed the sad news of the drowning of Mark Alock, son of Captain T. H. Alock, of the customs service at Dawson, in the Yukon river opposite Dawson, on Wednesday afternoon. The young man was starting up the river with Government Engineer Rendall. They were in a canoe, and were bound for the scene of one of the new stampedes. Alock was carried away by the swift current, and never rose to the surface. Rendall was rescued with great difficulty. The deceased young man and his father were both former residents of Vancouver and were well known there.

Forty men or thereabouts are hard at work clearing land for the Britannia Copper syndicate on the company's townsite, Britannia, which is situated on the beach at Howe Sound, at the mouth of Britannia creek, not more than three miles from the famous Britannia copper-gold mines. The clearing now under way on the land is to make room for the company's buildings at the beach. It is not known just what structures will be erected at the beach, but it is to be supposed that there will be bunk houses for workmen, ore bins to accommodate the ore run down from the mine, offices and other smaller structures always to be found about a mining company's headquarters. A wharf will also be built at the beach.

A special from Dawson says: Two of Dawson's biggest social clubs, whose members are business men, were raided last night. The affair caused a big sensation, and from all accounts one of the biggest poker games ever run in the north was in progress when the officers arrived at one of the houses. There were several thousand dollars' worth of gold on the tables at the Aurora. Joseph Clark, Conservative candidate in the last election, is president of the Aurora, and he is the man who a year ago made such a row about the prevalence of gambling. At the time the club was organized, it was said that large games were immediately inaugurated. Detectives watched the house and last night they pounced upon it. This morning Judge Macaulay found that the evidence that it was a common gaming house was sufficient to warrant a conviction. He therefore gave judgment against the house, and all the players were fined heavily.

Mr. Thomas Cunningham, provincial fruit inspector, reports that the season for the importation of foreign fruit is over. In an interview he said:

"There were only fifteen boxes of California fruit consigned to Vancouver on the last steamer from San Francisco. The consignment came up from Victoria this morning, and I think it will be about the last received this season. British Columbia grown apples are now on the market in quantities. They are much superior in quality to similar fruit grown in California, and what is more, they are selling at prices ruling at the wholesale rate in San Francisco. With the advent of the home grown fruit on the market a heavy financial drain to foreign growers ceases. I am delighted to say that the time has now arrived when British Columbia fruit growers can supply the market. There is more fruit grown in this province now than ever before, and the production is annually increasing. It is the realization of hopes I have entertained for 26 years past."

COMING ON ELECTION DAY

Manufacturers' Association Arrive Here a Week from Saturday. (From Tuesday's Daily.)

Election day on October 3 will bring success to one or other of the political parties, and it will also bring to Rossland a strong delegation of the foremost manufacturers in Eastern Canada. The announcement is now definitely made that unless something unforeseen prevents the Manufacturers' association from adhering to its itinerary the excursion under its auspices will be in Rossland on the night of October 3 at 10 o'clock. They are to depart on the following day at 2 o'clock, so that the local committee in charge of the reception to be visitors will have several hours at their disposal for the purpose of showing the party the mines of the camp which they are coming to see.

The arrangements as to arriving and departing do not, however, permit of anything elaborate in the form of entertainment. All that the reception committee will have time to do will be to convince the visitors that they are heartily welcomed to the Golden City and then show them the sights of the camp in a somewhat hurried manner.

THE CANADIAN WON.

HOBOKEN, N. J., Sept. 19.—Frederick J. Anderson, the Canadian ex-champion, today won the final match in the New Jersey state championship tennis tournament by defeating Frederick L. Smith.

A FORECAST OF THE FORTH-COMING PROVINCIAL ELECTIONS

From the most northern constituencies to the southernmost boundaries, and from the Rocky mountains to the sea, The Miner has at a very considerable cost and an enterprise that has not been manifested by any other paper in the province, gathered information of an authoritative nature which allows it to present to its readers this morning an unbiased and accurate forecast of what may be expected on the third of October next.

The deductions that follow are intensely interesting, inasmuch as they show an even break if one classes labor men and socialists with the Liberals—which would undoubtedly follow unless the Conservative party were to lay themselves open to the charge of trading because of the exigencies of the case. And on the same basis the Labor and Socialist elements of the next house would lay itself open to the charge of trading on a sacrifice of principles for the sake of individual kudos. It remains to be seen whether or not this will be accomplished. If it is accomplished, then Mr. McBride's exigencies will cause him to sacrifice his principles, and a close adherence to what he took the lurid step to introduce into British Columbia politics for either Socialism or the straight interests of labor and who succeed in being elected, stand for principles that they term "the obsolete conditions of Conservatism," and have placed themselves on a very distant cousin of Liberalism. But removed they are cousins once or twice removed so far as Conservatism is concerned, they will find it very hard to reconcile their own arguments and their principles to anything that might approach Conservatism. It may therefore be reasonably supposed that being in a hopeless minority they would show an inclination, if they honestly abide by their convictions, to identify themselves rather with the Liberals than with Conservatism. This being the case the net result is that the Liberals and their affiliations, as may be reasonably expected, will have a strength of twenty-one as against a straight Conservative party vote of twenty-one.

When we come to consider that the membership of the house amounts to forty-two and that the governing party must by the ordinary course of events elect a speaker, neither side has a sufficient strength to guarantee a government.

It was hoped by both the Liberals and the Conservatives that the inauguration of a party line would result in producing a stable government, wherein responsibility would become fixed so far as a recognized party is concerned in direct contradiction to the individualism of former days and conditions. We find, however, that such is not to be the case; that the province has not got beyond the stage of chaos in matters political; which has been the bête noir of uncertainty which has been the bête noir of uncertainty which has been the bête noir of uncertainty.

The Miner has already stated its individual opinion; that it took a gloomy view of the situation, and the facts and figures that follow fully justify its contention, as well as all that is stated in the foregoing.

In the thirty-four electoral districts there are forty-two seats, which, taken in alphabetical order, will compose the next legislature as follows: In Alberni there are two candidates, W. W. B. McInnes and Major R. J. Hickey. Mr. McInnes by virtue of his former attainments and reputation, will defeat Major Hickey, and so score for the Liberals.

In Atlin, James Stables, Liberal, will be elected over John Kirkland, Labor, and Dr. Young, Conservative. In Cariboo, which returns two members, the two Conservative candidates, S. A. Rogers and W. Adams, are certain to beat James Murphy and H. Jones.

In Chilliwack there will be a very interesting contest between C. W. Munroe, Liberal, and J. L. Atkinson, Conservative. Those familiar with the situation on both sides admit the strength of Mr. Munroe, and even Mr. Atkinson's warmest supporters are not prepared to say that he has any certainty. The unbiased and well-informed concede that Mr. Munroe will be elected, and are offering to bet their money that way, but Conservatives will not allow them an opportunity to do so. It may therefore be taken as a certainty that Mr. Munroe will be elected.

In Columbia riding, W. C. Wells, erstwhile commissioner of lands and works in the Prior government, occupies the unique position of being unopposed. His record in the last legislature was a disgrace to the province of British Columbia. However, his election means a score for the Liberals.

In Comox Mayor Grant, of Cumberland, will defeat the Liberal carpet-bagger, F. McE. Young, thus scoring for the Conservatives.

In Cranbrook district, the Liberal candidate, Dr. J. H. King, will have a hard time beating Thomas Cavin, the Conservative nominee, but he will do so, and the province will make a distinct gain by having a man like Dr. King in the legislature. Cavin poses as a Conservative and a labor man. As a matter of fact he is neither. He is simply a Canadian Pacific railway conductor.

Ladner is an old-timer of old-timers, and enjoys the reputation of being a "good fellow" in every sense of the word. He could be elected in the Delta district if his party had given him a chance, but because it did not have sense enough to produce a platform of political principles that could be considered adequate he will be sacrificed on the altar of fealty to mossback Toryism. "Honest John" Oliver has the confidence of the ranchers and salmon-cannery of the Fraser river valley. Oily-trace as may be, he is a fanatical individual, but he means well. If his party should happen to get hold of the reins of government Mr. Oliver would undoubtedly be in the cabinet, and it is generally conceded that he has got sense enough and patriotism enough to do his duty with far more discretion than his enemies give him credit for. It would be a pity to see Mr. Oliver out of the party to the fact that he will not be.

In Dewdney Hon. Richard McBride will easily defeat W. W. Forrester, the Liberal candidate.

In sleepy Esquimalt Hon. Charles E. Pooley will sit as yore, nominally representing Conservatism, but mainly the interests of his chief client, Mr. Dunsmuir.

Interest surrounds the contest in the Fernie district because it is going to be a three-cornered fight. A man who is a Liberal, will defeat Price Ellison, the Conservative nominee, and the Liberal interests. It did re-election in the power of Mr. Smith to make South-east Kootenay prosperous, but he fiddled and trimmed with his opportunity until the enterprising element, not only of his constituency but of the whole province, stood aghast at his either wilful neglect or craven stupidity. The unthinking and wild-eyed element of the Fernie district is making a desperate attempt to shove a man by the name of J. R. McPherson into the legislature as a Socialist. He will not get there, and it is very fortunate that he won't. R. W. Ross is the Conservative nominee, and it is a pity there are not more Conservative candidates like him in the province. He will make a useful member of the legislature and will certainly be elected.

In Grand Forks there is another three-cornered contest. George Fraser, an ex-Rosslander and all-round good fellow, is the Conservative nominee. His opponents are W. H. P. Clement, a Liberal, and John Riordan, a socialist. If Riordan were not in the fight Mr. Clement would be elected by a large majority, because he is a man of ability and possesses a knowledge of what is required for his district and the province at large. Grand Forks will, consequently, be Conservative.

In Greenwood, the Conservative nominee, Dr. Spankie, labors under the same disadvantages as does Mr. Ladner in Delta. There can be no doubt about the personal popularity of Dr. Spankie, neither is there any question as to his patriotism and abilities, but because of the inconsequentiality of the Conservative platform, the Liberal candidate, J. R. Brown, will roll up a majority that will elect him beyond any question.

In the constituency known as the Islands, T. W. Paterson, Liberal, will easily defeat H. W. Bullock, Conservative.

There is going to be a close contest in Kamloops between F. J. Fulton, Conservative, and F. J. Deane, Liberal. Both candidates are young men of parts. Mr. Deane has a rattling good opinion of himself, and about forty-five per cent of the Kamloops electorate take him at his own estimate, but because of a certain Chinese commission and the fact that he has allowed the Nelson News to be neutral in the Taylor-Houston contest in the Nelson riding, when as a party man he should have done his duty to Mr. Taylor and all because, probably, of a certain mining contract which was farmed out to the Nelson News by the Conservative candidate, John Houston, it does not require much perspicacity to discover the mix in the cocoanut. The fact that Mr. Fulton will get fifty-five per cent of the vote of the Kamloops electoral district will necessitate Mr. Deane remaining at home wherever that may be.

In Kaslo the Hon. R. F. Green will beat John L. Retallack, Liberal. There is a third party in the fight, a socialist by the name of Shannon. Mr. Shannon is an impossibility from pretty nearly every standpoint that the situation might be viewed. He will, nevertheless, pass into history as one who kept a better man than himself, viz., John L. Retallack, out of the legislature.

In Lillooet, the Conservatives elect A. McDonald by acclamation.

Nanaimo riding will elect J. H. Hawthornthwaite, a Socialist. Mr. Hawthornthwaite is a very reasonable man, and the Liberals will find no difficulty in gaining his support. In the contest he will be opposed by Edward Quennell, Conservative, and H. Sheppard, a so-called labor man, but the opposition in either case is not to be seriously considered.

In Newcastle riding, A. Bryden may defeat D. W. Murray, Liberal, and P. Williams, Socialist, but if he does so it will be by the narrowest plurality. The Miner concedes the election of Mr. Bryden with less certainty than any of the others enumerated in this forecast.

In New Westminster, T. Gifford, running as a Conservative, is opposed by W. H. Keary, who represents the Liberal interests. The funniest part about this contest is that Mr. Gifford used to be known as a Liberal, while Mr. Keary has generally been classed as a Conservative. Mr. Gifford is a man of considerable popularity. On the other hand Mr. Keary is mayor of New Westminster and manager of the New Westminster fair. As the fair will be in full swing on the day of election, and as the election will elect somewhat from the success of Westminister might, otherwise derive from the festival, and as Mr. Keary is a very popular man among his people he will probably be elected. The contest, however, will be a bitter one.

In Okanagan, a young man of sterling qualities by the name of Stirling, who is a Liberal, will defeat Price Ellison, the Conservative nominee, and the representative of the district in the last three legislatures. Mr. Ellison's chief claim to fame is that he succeeded in getting an appropriation from the provincial government for the construction of a jail at Vernon, but the chief reason why he won't be elected is because he has done nothing else for the "garden of British Columbia." Mr. Ellison will not be missed from the legislature, and Mr. Stirling will be a decided acquisition to the house.

In Revelstoke there will be another three-cornered contest. Tom Taylor, Conservative nominee, can best serve the interests of that constituency, but the consensus of opinion is that J. M. Kelle, Liberal, will defeat Mr. Taylor and John W. Bennett, Socialist.

In Richmond, F. Carter-Cotton, the scholarly editor of the Vancouver News-Advertiser, will defeat "Winchester" Brown in spite of that gentleman's astonishing verbosity.

In Rossland, J. L. Macdonald, the Liberal nominee, will defeat the Hon. A. S. Goodeve, the standard bearer of the Rossland Conservative association. The reasons for this are plain. Mr. Macdonald can reasonably expect to have as many straight party votes as Mr. Goodeve because there are just as many Liberals—if not more so—than there are Tories in the Golden City. On top of this Mr. Macdonald will poll something over ninety per cent of the vote of organized labor. It has been said in some quarters that some sixty or seventy voters of Italian and French extraction have been delivered to Mr. Goodeve. Why this rumor should go abroad is beyond the ken of The Miner. There is no more reason to suppose that the vote referred to can be farmed out to Mr. Goodeve than it can be farmed out to Mr. Macdonald. Certain members of the Rossland Conservative association—the same ones who opposed resolutions declaring for an equitable system of taxation—have spoken slightly of both the French and Italian vote, and this is known to all parties interested. Furthermore it has been said with some grounds for substantiation that the factor of religion has been brought into the contest to the serious detriment of the Conservative nominee. Again, it is conceded by the well-informed that the hotel vote, which is certainly influential, is opposed to Mr. Goodeve in almost every instance. Nevertheless the Conservatives claim, and with some good reason, that the fact that Mr. Goodeve has been appointed a cabinet minister for the time will bring him strength and support.

There is always an element in any constituency that is glamoured by the powers that be. It looks, however, as though the Rossland riding is bound to have a cabinet minister, no matter which side is returned to power. Mr. Goodeve is already a cabinet minister, and if his side should happen to be victorious there is not the slightest reason to suppose that he will not retain his portfolios. On the other hand there is no one familiar with the situation but would readily admit that it would be impossible for the Liberals to have a majority in the next legislature without the aid of those being one of the first men called upon to become a cabinet minister. For this reason Rossland is to be congratulated, and it is just as well that the electors should have due regard for men more than portfolios. The factors enumerated are sufficient to elect Mr. Macdonald, but it is rumored that at least fifty per cent of those living in the town who are interested in East Kootenay coal and petroleum locations will be induced to vote for Mr. Macdonald after his next public address to the electorate.

In Saanich, the erstwhile attorney-general, D. M. Eberts, Conservative, will defeat H. Tanner, Liberal. There are many reasons why he shouldn't, but Mr. Eberts is a clever politician, and in this respect he has the advantage over his opponent.

In Similkameen, W. A. McLean, Liberal, will defeat L. W. Shatford, Conservative. Mr. McLean is a contractor and very well known throughout the length and breadth of Southern British Columbia. He has no enemies, and has a host of friends. It would be well nigh an impossibility for Mr. Shatford to win.

In Skeena, C. W. D. Clifford, Conservative, will enjoy a walk-over against P. Herman, Liberal.

In Slokan, since the Liberal candidate, Mr. Bradshaw, retired, W. Davidson, a labor candidate, will defeat William Hunter, Conservative. "Bill" Hunter has a lot of friends, but the complexion of the vote in Slokan ensures Mr. Davidson's election.

Five members are to be elected from the city of Vancouver. There are sixteen aspirants. The latest advices show that Hon. R. G. Tatlow, Hon. Charles Wilson, ex-Mayor Garden and either A. H. B. McGowan or W. J. Bowen, all Conservatives, will be successful. Joseph Martin, Liberal, will be the fifth, but Mr. Martin's support is barely enough to get him there. If he is not elected the Conservatives will make a clean sweep.

In Victoria four Conservatives, four Liberals, and T. T. Waters, Socialist, aspire to the four available seats. H. D. Helmcken, a Conservative, will head the Conservatives, and another Conservative will be successful. At the present time there is every probability that A. E. McPhillips, the present attorney-general and one of the most conscientious and straightforward men in the province, will be defeated because his ideas are too broad for the ordinary Victoria elector. R. L. Drury and Richard Hall will be the two successful Liberal nominees.

In Yale, Stuart Henderson, Liberal, will easily defeat T. G. McManan.

In Trail-Ymir, Alfred Parr, a can probably be elected. There can be no question as to the Conservative candidate's popularity, but he has identified himself too much with John Houston, and now that Houston has selfishly ignored his interests in order to devote his time to abusing the Liberal candidate in the Nelson riding, Mr. Parr's chances are below "Par." Trail can always be safely relied upon to give a Conservative majority. It will do so on October 3, but the Tory vote will be much smaller than on former occasions.

It will be seen from the foregoing that the Conservatives may expect to have twenty-one of the forty-two seats—just fifty per cent—provided the Conservative candidate is successful in Newcastle, which is a moot question. Opposed to this there will be nineteen Liberals with a possibility of twenty if D. W. Murray is elected in Newcastle—one Socialist and one Labor man. This estimate is given as an item of news and has nothing to do with the editorial policy of The Miner. It is its duty to publish the news in this unbiased form. To make it biased would be to practice a petty deception which would be discovered in less than two weeks time. The Miner has no desire to deceive anybody.
