Hadow's Tribute

(Copy of a letter addressed to Capt. Timewell, by Lieut .-Col. Hadow, C.M.G.) (recd. 2 June.)

Dear Timewell:

Each division holding the front trenches provided its own rear guard and of course there were several Divisions doing this.

As regards the 29th Division, the 88th Bde, of which we are one of the 4 Rgts.) was holding the front line, three out of the 4 Regts., including ourselves, were holding the front line trenches, so we were part of the rear 1689 Private Peter Joseph Hudsdn, 20 guard. Each Regiment gradually withdrew simultaneously at fixed hours, so at the very last there was a small party of each Regiment as the final rear party.

It was a wonderful operation, and the conduct of our men left nothing to be desired. It was an extremely anxious time, and instead of being a most brilliant success, might easily have been a great disaster. I selected 1472. Private Linus Coombs, Upper Is-Lieut. H. Rendell and nd Lieut. Clift (bombing officer) to be in charge of the last party to leave our trenches.

The work of the Regiment, at the evacuation of Helles was equally good. as I have already informed the Governor. Although not actually finding the rear guard, our duty was equally important and quite as trying.

> Yours sincerely, (Sgd.) A. L. HADOW.

"Korunna's" Experience

We hear that the S.S. "Korunna's" which has been in the harbor the past couple of days, had quite an experience after the outbreak of hostilities. She was commissioned for a converted cruiser, brought troops to Gallipoli and hardly had disembarked them in the first push against the Turks on the peninsula when she was taking on board wounded. Two of our brave Newfoundland Naval Reservists served the guns on her and she brought the wounded men to Malta. Here an exciting incident occurred. A seaman was wanted, and the Captain shipped a man whom he took to be a likelylooking Russian, Another from the the ship was on her voyage west this man discovered that the "Russian" sailor never came from the Czar's dominions. Investigation proved that he was an officer in the Austrian service, and he was handed over to the British authorities at Gibraltar. TOTAL PROPERTY AND THE PROPERTY OF

Official Report By General Hunter-Weston

To His Excellency the Governor, St. John's:

Have returned from France where we met our men and addressed the battalion. Our officers and men are cheerful and anxious to secure full strength at earliest possible time. The gallantry of our Regiment in action on 1st. July deserved, as it has received from General Hunter-Weston. Commanding our Army Corps, and all others, the highest possible praise. Nothing has occurred since the commencement of the war more conspicuously brilliant. The General Staff and many others assure you and all Newfoundland of their heartfelt sympathy. We desire to unite in their expression, particularly with the families of those who fell. General Hunter-Weston's official report of the engagement (of which he handed us a copy) begins: "Among such grand battalions it is difficult to allocate greater praise to one rather than to another; but, as this is the first occasion on which troops from our Oldest Colony, Newbattle, it is good to be able to say that They attacked regardless of loss, movof disciplined courage." The wounded are doing well. R. K. BISHOP.

His Excellency the Governor observes that General Hunter-Weston commanded our Army Corps in Gall:poli and in France. He was a Royal Engineer, and wone a great name in
