At the time of the child's illness Mr Past was a resident of Hamilton. His story is substantially as follows:—Mry daughter had been very delicate from childhood until about three years ago, and the money it cost me for door bills made me poor, as it was relatous the was without a doctor's care, and at times we have had as many as three doctors in attendance and hope of saving her despaired of. The doctors succeeded in keeping her slive, but she was gradually growing worse and we althought she was going to die. Our regular physician had given up hope of saving her life and remarked that if it were only warm weather, (it was then wister) there might be a change. But seven summers had passed since her birth and she had gradually become feebler, and my wife and I thought it was just a matter of time until the child would be called to a better home. About this time Dr. Willisms Pink Pills were prominently brought to our notice through a cure they wrought in a neight to dealer's sign."

I thought I would give them a trial and so informed the doctor, but he only laughed at the idea of them helping her. However, I bought a box of the Pink Pills, and began giving them to her, half a pill at a time. After a short treatment there was such an improvement that reither her mother nor could doubt that Dr. Williams Pink Pills were helping her, and I decided to abandon the doctor's services altogether. The Pink Pill treatment was continued and although the progress towards health and strength was necessarily slow, it was none the less certain, and it was continued and although the progress towards health and strength was necessarily slow, it was none the less certain, and it was continued until she is as well and strong as you was he has had no occasion for medical treatment since. I am a strong believe in the efficacy of Dr. Williams Pink Pills for weak and delicate children, and I firmly believe it was this medicine that saved my child."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are an all round-year medicine and are quite as efficactions in the case of children as in adults. They restore to, the blood its lacking censitients and make it rich, red and pure. In this way they strengthen the system and drive out disease. King's College.

It is reported, and correcetly so, as we learn from an authorative source, that after the Collegiate School closes next June, it will be re-organized, and Rev. Dr. Willets, President of the College, will have the general management of it. It will be remembered that Dr. Willets was Head Master of the school for a number of years before he was appointed President of the College.

The Board of Governors have approved of the scheme for the admission to the College of non-resident students, which was proposed by Dr. Willets last year, and it will come into operation next October. Students of either sex residing at a distance who may be intellect anally qualified, but whose purses are not long enough to enable them to take a resident college course, will now have long enough to enable them to take a resident college course, will now have the opportunity of obtaining a university degree on passing the required examinations. We heartly wish the new scheme every success.—Windsor Tribune.

How a Little Farm Well Tilled Pays.

Three years ago I soid a farm of 200 acres that was heavily mortgaged, and out of my equity I bought and paid for a 50 acre farm, with fair improvements, and I think it was the best trade I sver made in my life. We have four in the family, do all of one own work, get much larger returns, and having less land to calityate I can give more attention to cows, hogs and poultry, which I find pays better than drowned-aut or dried-up crops, and since we have no hired help or interest to pay we are living comfortably and can succeed in hangon through about as hard times as any-body can. For a money maker, to any nothing of the greater comfort in living. in politics, in tariff, or silver or labor, we realize that there is a still greater question—one which, indeed, is the end of all politics and government—The Child.

The eye of this generation should be fixed upon the young. There is an army marching forward, in which every man may be a hero, made strong in mighly conflict. Put your ear to the ground and you may hear them, "Tramp, tramp, tramp, the boys are marching."

Whether they march to victory over elf, victory over foes without as well as loss within, depends upon the habit they are forming during childhood and routh.

You can get evidence needed for conviction if you try. I ask you to look into the faces of so many of our buye who have formed this habit, and see how the better nature is being crushed out by this vice, and know that no boy is safe so ong as our laws are violated with sact-nity. Your boy may be tempted and may fall. Just as good boys have fallen. Place the barriers of enforced law about Place the barriers of enforced law about him. The man who would wrong your son by selling this poisonous drug to him deserves greater puni-hment than he who robs you of your property; yet you are raising no veice, lifting no hand to protect them. Why? Partly because you do not know the nature of the deadly eigarette. A committee of United States senators appointed to investigate the nature of eigarettee, when legislation against their sale was pending, brought in a report that they are all injurious to youth, and Congress passed the law that the women petitioned for. A petition for this law was signed by the teachers and ministers of the District of Columbia, and two hundred and fifty-seven
