Through Suez in 16 Hours.
The average duration of the passage through the Suez Canal, which was reduced by 15 minutes in 1913, is now 16 hours and 12 minutes. The average time through the Panama Canal is estimated at 9 1/2 to 11 hours. The length of the Panama and Suez canals is, respectively 50 and 60 miles, and the cost of construction $275,000,000 and $100,000,000. The Panama canal, however, include the $50,000,000 paid to the French Canal Company and the republic of Panama for property and franchises and about $50,000,000 expended in the sanitation of the Canal Zone.

What of the Night?
Say not, the struggle sought availed.
The labour and the wounds are vain.
The enemy falls not nor fleeth.
And as things have been they remain.
If hopes were dim, fears may be less,
It may be in you smoke concealed.
Your comrades chase 'em down the fiercer,
And, but for you, possess the field.
For while the tired waves, vainly breaking,
Seem here no painful inch to gain.
Far back, through creeks and inlets making,
Comes silent flooding in, the main.
And you, with others wide awake,
When daylight comes, comes in the light.
In front, the sun dimly glow, how slowly,
The westward, look, the least is bright.

Canadian Engineers Inspect Concrete Roads.
PARTY OF FOURTEEN VISIT WAYNE COUNTY, MICHIGAN, AND GET FIRST HAND FACTS.
Last week a party of Canadian Highway Engineers and Municipal Officials interested in good roads, under the guidance of Mr. L. S. Bruner, of the Wayne Cement Company, Limited, visited Detroit and Wayne County, Mich., to learn how this progressive American community is building a comprehensive concrete road system of which it is justly proud.
The party included: J. F. Ure, Woodstock, Ont., Engineer for Oxford County; R. H. Spencer, Acting Mayor, Trenton, Ont.; G. R. Marston, Simcoe, Ont., Engineer for Norfolk County; F. M. Rutherford, St. Catharines, Ont., Engineer for Lincoln County; W. J. Hollingsworth, Hamilton, Ont., Assistant City Engineer; A. Manigault Stratton, Ont.; J. H. Jackson, Brantford, Ont.; R. Clarke and W. E. Neabitt, Merriton, Ont.; L. J. Wooley, C. P. Rotator and W. Cole, Toronto; L. S. Bruner and R. S. Muller, Montreal.
Wayne County now has nearly one hundred miles of the finest concrete roads in the world, one stretch of which extends in a smooth unbroken road surface for a distance of 21 miles passing through the villages of Wayne and Dearborn and it is noteworthy fact that after much experimenting with every kind of road building material, the Board of County Road Commissioners has adopted concrete as its standard.
The party covered about eighty miles of highway, and found it in every condition from the worst to the best. The tour proved an excellent strong object lesson to everyone of the party and much gratification was expressed at the completeness of the building equipment and the excellent results obtained.
Fortunately, the party was enabled to see practically every operation of road building from the grading at the sub-soil to the finished road, at which one machine can lay 750 square yards of road in one day. This method of reinforcing and its advantages was shown and explained. Much interest was shown in the thorough manner in which every operation was carried out, especially the curing of the finished road and the handling of materials to where the road was being built. The cars of sand, stone and cement are sidetracked on the railway line nearest the place of operation and unloaded with a steam shovel into a string of 30 dump cars holding one and a half cubic yards. These cars are hauled by a "donkey" engine, in some instances a number of miles, to the spot where the materials will be mixed to make the road. The narrow-gauge track over which the materials are hauled is laid in sections that can easily be extended by two men. Properly cured the finished road takes seven days. As soon as the concrete has set, it is covered with two inches of sand and then wet down with a hose daily, this permits the whole mass of concrete to harden uniformly and eliminates surface cracks that would otherwise appear under the heat of the sun.
As a whole the methods used by Wayne County Road Commissioners are very simple and undoubtedly the most economical for the construction of an extensive and permanent road system, at any rate, they are the result of years of study and experiment by able engineers.
However it is noteworthy that the conditions with which Wayne County has to deal would not be in evidence in most Canadian Counties, broken stones, which is usually about one-half of the mixture used, is obtainable within a few miles in every county throughout the Dominion with few exceptions, whereas Wayne County hauls its broken stone a long distance. Then again, the special machinery and equipment used across the border is not absolutely necessary, for men and teams could be used in place of most of it.

Wayne County began building concrete roads in 1909 and the first stretch laid in that year was carefully inspected by the party at close range and the consensus of opinion was that it is now as good as when put down and the maintenance cost has been practically nothing during the five years that it has been used. A striking contrast is shown when the condition of this concrete stretch is compared with other stretches of the same road, built at the same time, of other materials and at approximately the same cost, but which now resembles the Rocky Road to Dublin and must be rebuilt in the near future.
One of the engineers expressed the opinion that if Wayne County could afford to have such excellent roads, there is no excuse for Canadian communities to delay the building of systems that will be as good as the Wayne County roads, for there are few Canadian counties that are not infinitely richer in natural resources than in actual capital, and we can greatly benefit by the experiences of the county across the line.
The individual and collective opinion voiced was unanimously for concrete as the logical and economical material for permanent good roads in Canada and one that will enable every community to invest its road money so that it will return a dividend instead of being spent to fill up the mud holes.

Evangeline Beach Notes.
Quite a large number have taken up their abode at this pleasant summer resort, some at the hotel, some in cottages and others in tents. The hotel this summer is under the management of Miss Woodier and her sister, Mrs. Delaney, of Hantsport, who are very popular among their guests and occupants of the beach.
There is an ice-cream parlor in connection with the hotel and a store where one may be served with cooling drinks, confectionery or more useful articles, so altogether the dwellers at Evangeline Beach find it a convenient as well as delightful place to spend a vacation.
The "Hans in the pith" that the Eastern Carolines was very prettily thoroughly discussed in this county before the vote was taken. They doubtless had an effect in cutting down the vote against the act. In fact there is good reason to believe that it Messrs. Kelly and Glassey, Limited, had not "batted" in with their advice to the liquor-suggling, law violating fraternity to work for the enactment of the Scott Act, that Act might have remained in force in the County of Kings.
These, of course, the possibility that Messrs. Kelly & Glassey, Limited, were "foxing" that they foresaw the effect that their letter would have and intended it to have, that effect, expecting so profit through the period of chaos that the Eastern Chronicle anticipates between the passing of the one law and the effective coming of the other. If so they were, indeed, "wiser in their generation than the children of light," and must have knowledge of some works of darkness that have been carefully concealed from the workers in the temperance cause.
Should this prove to be the case, should the Scott Act cease to be in force in Kings County and the Nova Scotia Temperance Act fail to come into effect, the result will be in its place the government of Nova Scotia.
The date of the death of the Scott Act is as yet, uncertain. At any time after the expiration of thirty days from the day on which the petition was adopted by the electors an Order in Council may be published in the Canada Gazette, declaring Part II. of the Act to be no longer in force in that county, whereupon the Act ceases to be in force. This Order in Council does not appear until August 1st.—Besswick Register.

Poor Citizens.
The man who sells his vote parts with a priceless privilege to a scoundrel who buys an infamous advantage. The man who falls, without reasonable excuse, to exercise his right of suffrage, denies himself the opportunity of participating in our scheme of self-government. No matter what he gets, he should keep a closed mouth. He gets all the benefits without assuming any of the burdens of citizenship. He is a sneak. It is hard to say whether the defaulters who will not vote or the wickeder scoundrel who buys it, is the more dangerous man to the community of which he is a member.—Philadelphia Record.

Push.
It has impressed, not a little, that on all the big business houses, in the big cities, you come to a door with a big brass plate on it and the word "Push."
Now I know as well as you do, that this is a simple bit of instruction that tells an often unthinking public how to operate a swinging door. Never the less whenever I see that sign on a door, it reminds me that unconsciously, it is a motto which reads the whole story of worldly success. It is initiative. It is putting hands to the plow. It is doing things that should be done, and not waiting to be told. It is a plain old English word that has a substantial old stock of meaning. It is "Push" and not "pull" that gets to the top.
Mayor Stratton, of Reading, Pa., instructed the police to arrest all persons swearing on the streets, each to pay 67 cents a word.

The Death of the Scott Act.
(Hants Chronicle.)
Those active in repealing the Canada Temperance Act are jubilant over their victory; but he that is putting on his armour has no cause to rejoice such as he has, who, having been victorious, taketh it off. The C. T. A. has served the temperance people well; as well as they have served it. To us it looks like as if a man was glad because he killed his old horse, though the animal has served him well and faithfully. In any case, taken before a magistrate under the C. T. A., at least in this part of Nova Scotia, if the evidence justified it, the verdict was against the offender.
Under the Nova Scotia Temperance Act there are several things that have yet to be defined by the courts. These will give trouble. Another thing is, on July 25th or 30th, the Nova Scotia Temperance Act comes into force. On that date the Inspector under the C. T. A. will go out of office. New Inspectors will have to be appointed. This will give trouble, especially in the Municipalities, where, unless the Act otherwise provides, the Council will have to be called together to make the appointment. Then there are the C. T. A. funds. Can they be used for the purposes of the Nova Scotia Act? If not, where are the funds to come from to pay inspectors and to carry on suits at law? The Councils, when making estimates at the proper time, can estimate for this service, but at this time of the year such funds cannot be found. There are several other things, too, that will call for judicial adjustment, so that taking things by the large we can see little reason in rejoicing over the death of the Scott Act.
Again, some people talk as if the Temperance Alliance was a great moral victory. There is so little difference between the Scott Act and the Nova Scotia Act that there is little choice between them. A voter whose morality is truly by his vote for the C. T. A. as the man who voted for the N. S. A. A question of morality did not come into the matter at all. As regarding the reform of a drunk and the new Act will be no more efficacious than the old.

Saint John Exhibition.
The Experimental Farm System of Canada is co-operating this year in making the Agricultural Department of the Saint John Exhibition a larger and more complete feature than has been the case for some years. Owing to the early dates on which the exhibition must be held in order to secure reasonable weather for those attending, the display of agricultural products has during the last two or three exhibitions not been as comprehensive as the exhibition on a horticultural basis. This year a special effort is being made and the Experimental Farm System will make an exhibit embracing the following departments: Annual Husbandry, Field Husbandry, Forage Plants, Cereal, Botanical, Horticultural, Poultry, Chemical and Bees. This exhibit will be in charge of special officials and will be of a high educational value and of great interest to all classes farmers or not. It is also planned to supplement the value of the exhibit by literature especially prepared and also by special lectures to be delivered under the supervision of the Provincial Department of Agriculture. In these days of the up-to-date and scientific farmer who produces the goods that command the best prices and these lectures will describe the latest and most effective ways of getting the desired results. Other features are also under contemplation which will indeed make the Saint John Exhibition of 1914 an Agricultural Exhibition in fact as well as in name. The dates are from Sept. 5th to 12th.

Guard Against Cholera Infantum.
Cholera infantum is one of the most fatal ailments of childhood and during the hot months thousands of little lives are lost by its ravages. The best way to guard against it is to give the baby an occasional dose of Baby's Own Tablets. The Tablets never fail to regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach, thus preventing cholera infantum, diarrhoea, dysentery and all other stomach and bowels' complaints. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A New Day's Opportunities.
There are a great many people in this old world of ours who go around day by day in a pessimistic mood, carrying with them the burdens and trials of yesterday. They do not seem to know the important fact that the sun rises every morning, or if they do know they do not act accordingly. These people carry yesterday's burdens and successes around with them to-day. How much better off would they be if they only carried to day's burdens, successes and failures. The failures of yesterday should be forgotten because they departed us for to-day. The successes of yesterday should not be remembered; they will weigh against the larger possible successes of to-day. The burdens of yesterday should have been hurried yesterday. That is one meaning of sun rising. It shuts off yesterday. The sun rises as fair and bright this morning as if it had not risen anew for the past six thousand years. It brings a new day, with new opportunities, new duties and new possibilities. Yesterday is shut off from to-day by the curtain of the night, and the sun rises in the morning to usher in the new day. Let us cast off the burdens of yesterday and be buoyant and happy with the brightness of to-day's dawn. Let us not forget that the sun has risen, and then our gloom and pessimism will disappear, and life be worth living.

Completing the List.
She was one of that kind of women who want to see everything there is in the store. She was looking for home, and the obnoxious and obliging clerk got down everything in sight within a radius of a half a mile. After the counters had been strewn with hose and hose of every size and shape and color—box on box, dozens on dozens—he waved his arm around and said—
'There, madam, is our stock.'
'Is that all that you have?' said the lady, her voice showing disappointment.
'The clerk passed.
'Yes, ma'am,' he replied, 'except the pair I've got on.'
The latest compilation of automobile figures shows that there are registered in the United States to-day 1,203,770 cars, and that nearly $2,000,000 are being paid in licence fees. The gain for the first six months in cars over 1913 is more than 150,000. Of all the cars in the country, about one-eighth are in New York State, where nearly 150,000 are registered.
If you put ordinary bluing in the water for cleaning windows, you will find they will be polished much more quickly and will retain their brilliancy much longer.

What is Modesty?
An editor in the Pittsburg Press carries the question caption, 'Is Modesty a State of Mind?' The answer is not definite.
Modesty is not a state of mind. Neither is it a result of culture, home, foreign or boarding school.
Style among men and women rules the world of dress. Extreme statements might be made to justify the position, but the element of coarseness would be too pronounced.
Modesty and style have never been closely allied. Casual glances through pictorial work in treasured toms and on walls of ancient buildings establish the fact that modesty, as we know it has never been a ruling factor in life. It is less prominent to-day than it was in other ages.
The nude has been a thorn in ethics of dress, or undress, since the day of Eve. Even now there is no peace. Skirts have been voluminous, skirts have been scant, and style never fixed a limit to what the French call delecte.
There never has been a day when modesty reigned. Therefore it cannot be a state of mind.

The Fool With a Gun.
In Muskoka, Ont., a farmer has been shot dead by a man who did not know the gun was loaded, and at St. Helen's island, Montreal, a youth has been wounded by another possessor of the same temporary all citizen. Not long ago a newspaper across the border advised the rapping over the head with a club or any other available weapon of the person who points a gun at another person. The advice sounds good. The cure for the lunacy should be drastic.

About Dogs.
If everyone who owns and cares for dogs would see to it that the animals have plenty of water to drink during the summer months there would be fewer cases of rabies. There are doubtless hundreds of people to whom this simple precaution never occurs, but who just talk it for granted that their canine friends' can, of course, find water somewhere when they are thirsty. This applies to other animals as well, but dogs are the principal sufferers.

Old Doctor Nature.
Old Doctor Nature is a splendid physician. Give her half a chance and she will work the most remarkable cures. Every delicate child, every invalid, should bear this eye in mind and take courage. If all others were removed, the work of the world could be carried on satisfactorily to day by those who at some time or other were scheduled to die and refused to do it.
A Hindu baker's assistant in Bombay, setting up in business for himself and desiring to cater for the English community, had the following notification painted over his doorway. 'Bann' liak solicits respectful patronage. He is a first-class British loaf.'

WILSON'S FLY PAD POISON
Every ten cent packet will kill more flies than $3.00 worth of any sticky fly killer. Refuse substitutes, which are most unsatisfactory.
