"NONPAREIL"
Billiard Hall!
 SHARKEY'S BUILDING,
 OPP. OFFICERS' BARRACKS, QUEEN ST., FREDERICTON, N. B.
T. E. FOSTER, Proprietor THIS HALL has been newly fitted up and handsomely furnished, and for extra light ventilation and neatness, compares most favorably with any Billiard Hall in the Province. The Billiard and Pool Tables are pronounced by players to be superior to any now in use in this Province.
 They are the BRILLIANT NOVELTY, size, 41 x 9 feet.
 The main object in the construction of the Billiard Novelty, and the one most noticeable, is that it embodies all the more salient or most important features that have rendered popular all the other styles of tables of the J. M. Brunswick & Balke Co.'s make. The Billiard Novelty has all the advantages and good points, including the respective inlays claimed by the "Nonpareil" and "Exposition" Novelty, "Ames" and "Amaranth" Tables. The "Brilliant" is a happy combination of all the celebrated tables, and has rapidly taken the foremost place in the estimation of all players of Billiard and Pool Tables. The "Novelty" is indented and handsomely inlaid in many different colors, made up from California Laurel, Pearl Ash, French Walnut, Bird's Eye Maple, Mahogany, Rose Wood, Tulip Wood and Ebony. It is supplied with the finest of Vermont Slate bed, Simsbury Cloth, and a first-class outfit of everything necessary.
 A call is respectfully solicited from lovers of the game.

Found Dead in a Thicket.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Aug. 19, 1884.—A horrible crime, resembling the shocking murder of Rose Ambler near New Haven a year ago, was committed about twilight last evening, on the lonely country road between Yorktown and Oakland, N. J.
 A fair and gentle girl, walking home after dark, waylaid by ruffians, choked, outraged, and finally murdered within sight of home, tells the story. The poor victim is Ella Watson, the 16-year-old daughter of an aged and well-to-do farmer who owns and tills the largest farm near Yorktown.
 The young girl left home about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon to carry some game to Yorktown and purchase small supplies for the home table. The road lay among hills and meadows, and the distance was a scant two miles. At eight o'clock, not having returned, her mother anxiously started out to meet her, and, not finding her an alarm was raised. A dozen men went out with lanterns. The hunt continued until after midnight, when a farmer named Zeigler came to a place on the road where there were marks of a struggle, and, following these tracks, the body of the young girl was found in a ditch under a pile of underbrush not 50 yards from the highway. There is every indication that she made a desperate fight for her life and honor. Two parallel tracks show where the murderers dragged her away, her heels scraping the ground.
 Broken hedges indicate that she seized the branches and clung desperately to them until they gave way. The searching party was horror-struck at the awful sight which confronted them. There the poor girl lay doubled up, her head turned, and from a deep cut above the right temple blood had soaked into and matted her golden hair. The muscular hand which choked out her life left their marks on her throat and breast. There was a look of intense agony on the face, as though the death struggle had been a long and desperate one. Her garments were almost entirely stripped from her.
 There was unmistakable evidence of repeated attempts at assault. The young girl was of about medium height, but slim and delicate in form. She was an only daughter, quiet and beloved by all who knew her. The surrounding country was in arms before daybreak, scouring the country for the murderers. Only one stranger had been seen in the village, Charles Peterson, a colored barber at Eleventh and Chestnut streets, Philadelphia, who had come down the day before to see a dissolute friend named William Jones.
 Both men had been seen at Yorktown the night before, but were not observed on the road leading toward Oakland. The sheriff had no difficulty in finding both men at Jones' house this morning. They were both slightly drunk, and pleaded innocence when locked up. Another arrest was made. A Thomas Simpkins, who slept last night at a barn near the scene of the murder, was chased to a swamp and surrounded. If there had been any proof of his guilt he would have been lynched.

The Medical Congress.

LONDON, Aug. 18.—The American delegates to the International Medical Congress, which began its sessions at Copenhagen, the 10th inst., are delighted with the success which has attended its deliberations, and the value to medical science of the interchange of opinions among so many of the most eminent physicians of all countries. It has now been settled that the next meeting of the congress shall be held at Washington, in accordance with the formal invitation extended by Dr. Billings, of the United States Army, on behalf of the American Medical Association. Berlin, St. Petersburg and other cities were competitors for the honor of entertaining the Congress, and the Americans are naturally elated over the fact that the selection has been made in favor of their capital. They promise that the reception of the distinguished delegates in America will be such as to repay them for their trans-Atlantic voyage, and will be equal to the warmth with which the Americans have been entertained at Copenhagen. The American doctors have certainly nothing to complain of on this score, as they have been the lions of the hour at various social gatherings, and Drs. Delevan and Hooper have especially been received with enthusiasm.

Eighteen Fatal Cases.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 19, 1884.—The state department to-day informed the surgeon-general of the marine hospital service that the United States consul at Barbadoes had telegraphed as follows:
 "Ship Bencadale left St. Lucia for New York on the 16th inst. with cholera."
 This is the British steamer which left Calcutta on the 4th of June, bound for Demerara and New York. Cholera broke out during the passage, and on her arrival at Table Bay, July 4th, she was reported to have had 18 fatal cases. There were 651 coolies on board, of whom 28 had been down with the cholera. The steamer took in coal at Table Bay and left for St. Lucia, where she arrived on the 3rd inst. and was placed in quarantine.

St. Lucia is one of the British West India islands, Windward group. No apprehension is felt at the surgeon-general's office, as the vessel will be properly cared for upon her arrival at the New York quarantine by the health officers at that port.

Cause of Cannibalism.

(Chicago News.)

There is something very singular about the way in which the news-gatherers are treating the sad rumor that Greely and his gallant little band were driven to cannibalism prior to their rescue. The subject is approached tenderly and gingerly, and when at length the horrid thing itself is named it is with hurried intimations of its enormity. This is done through sheer stupidity, or it is a cumingly devised attempt to fasten public attention upon Greely and his men, and no one else, in connection with this matter.

Now, suppose the poor fellows were driven to subsist upon the frozen flesh of their dead comrades. No sane person will suppose that as between that horrid food and any other they voluntarily chose the former. Civilized man does not eat human flesh of his own accord. Therefore, they can only have resorted to this method of sustaining existence when every other means had failed.

This brings us to the crucial inquiry, whose fault was it that other means did fail? Does Gen. Hazen, who, we are told, behaved "with great dignity" when approached on Tuesday by a reporter, know anything about this matter? Does any responsibility for the failure to provide supplies attach itself to the skirts of the secretary of the navy? The public will want to know, and will know. Unless we mistake public sentiment the people are now determined that this entire Greely business shall be sifted clear through, and the men who did not place provisions where Greely directed, and so nearly led the poor fellow to his death, be punished as they deserve.

Referring once more to this charge of cannibalism, we would ask, what of it?
 Are the men to be blamed? They killed no comrade, let it be remembered, that they might eat him. Poor wretches they waited with staring eyes and failing strength until the weakest dropped off, and then they satisfied hunger. It is very woful, of course. But whose fault was it? Not theirs certainly, but that of some man behind a desk in Washington, whose identity several millions of indignant citizens would like to see revealed.

The Cornwall Scandal.

(New York Sun.)

Cornwall, the postmaster of Dublin, who is on trial for such hideous crime, is the son of a landed proprietor in Meath, and after a short service as clerk in the London office was appointed in 1850 to his recent position by the Marquis of Clanricarde, when Postmaster-general, at the instance of the Marquess, who was fascinated by his musical accomplishments and drawing-room graces. He stands six feet, is of handsome, but pompous and pretentious, and with a great deal of vulgar swagger both in his air and conversation. There is nothing, however, repellent or repugnant in his appearance, or which would give the least index of crime. He is 61. Mr. Kirwan, who figures beside him, and who will probably be found less of a criminal than a foolish friend, is of a Galway family of remarkable gentleness and purity of character, and is a nephew of Lawrence, author of Guy Livingstone. He has that thin, fair hair and cream-colored complexion which speak the slender mind. The first mention of his name in the matter killed his mother. None of the accused are genuine Irish. They all belong to the Protestant colony.

Carnegie's Syndicate.

(New York Sun.)

LONDON, Aug. 18.—Mr. Andrew Carnegie, the American iron master, has a syndicate of Liberal newspapers, under the management of Mr. Samuel Storey, M. P., which has considerable influence in the political world. The St. James Gazette, in an article this afternoon, comments on an interview with Mr. Carnegie, originally published in Pittsburg. The Gazette declares that the present agitation against the House of Lords originated in America, that it is an attempt to infuse republican sentiments into English politics, so that the movement with all its paraphernalia of processions, monster meetings and other factitious machinery, which American politicians know so well how to handle, is entirely unknown to English sentiment, and is the result of American influence and paid for by American dollars. It charges Mr. Carnegie with being at the head of a conspiracy which is more subtle and more dangerous than that of the dynam-iters and which seeks to destroy both the Crown and the House of Lords.
