Their connections have now extended awan to the Island of Jave, from which for canteen spot they have this week received a commission to make large scales with Asiatic and Spanish weights. This like similar orders to their factories, came through the Beitish metropolis, and passed by the great European scalematers. Their scales are becoming more and more the standards of the civilized world, and the wonder is that many other manufacturing departments in the metal goods do not keep up with the Fairbanks Scales in foreign and home markets.—N.
