Marshall Bros.

Mr. William Marshall

DEAD AT MANCHESTER.
To-day we chronicle with much regret, the sad and unexpected death of Mr. William Marshall, of Marshall Bros., who died at Manchester at six o'clock this morning. Heart trouble was the cause of his early demise as he had been ailing only a fortnight. Only five weeks ago he left St. John's on a visit to the English markets to purchase a spring stock of goods for his firm. It appears that while on the other side he was stricken with a severe attack of the heart ailment. Last night, Mr. Chas. Marshall, brother of the deceased, had a cablegram to the effect that his brother was dangerously ill, and at nine this morning received a message that he had passed away. Deceased was 42 years of age, a partner of the firm of Marshall Bros., and a splendid type of man. The Rev. Mr. Whitmarsh broke the sad news to the wife of the deceased. The corpse will be embalmed at Manchester and forwarded to St. John's for interment. Deceased was the son of the late Alexander Marshall. Besides a widow and two children, he is survived by a mother, three brothers, Charles, Alexander and George, and two sisters, Mrs. John Pierson, of Toronto, and Mrs. John Bryden, of Scranston, P.E. To the bereaved family the Telegram expresses its deepest sympathy.

Races at Parade Rink.

The championship and all-comers races came off at the Parade Rink last night and created more than ordinary interest. In the former event Squires and Hackett competed. Both men changed position for several rounds but Squires reached the tape first. The distance covered was three miles in 11 mins. 41 secs.
In the all-comers race six competitors took part—Bishop, Lidstone, Marshall, O'Toole, Chaney and Evans. Chaney came in first with Evans a close second and Lidstone third. Three miles was the distance covered and the time was 12 mins. 8 secs.
The prizes presented were: for the championship race, a belt; and for the all-comers race, gold and silver medals to first and second places.

Action of Firemen.

The monthly meeting of the Firemen's Union, held last night was largely attended.
It was decided that Union members will not sell with non-union members at the sealshery the coming spring. As it is now too late for the non-union members on the ships to join the Union, and the members of the organization will have to be employed to replace them, in order to avoid further trouble.

NO NEWS OF BLANCHE CURRY.
No word of the Blanche Curry, which was driven off by the storm of the 7th inst., has yet been received. If the vessel ran for Barbadoes she should soon be heard from. Since she is now 85 days out on the passage from Brazil, it is expected that her provisions must be running short.

Wedding at St. Mary's.

A pretty wedding was solemnized at Riverhead, St. Mary's, on the 14th inst., when Mr. Michael Lee was united to Miss Norah Lee, daughter of George Lee. The ceremony was attended by a large number of friends of the contracting parties. Rev. Father O'Driscoll officiated. Before the ceremony the rev. gentleman delivered an eloquent sermon on matrimonial duties. The bride was charmingly attired in a dress of white serge with hat and veil to match. The bridesmaids were Misses Bride Lee and Bride Hearn, sister of the bride and cousin of the groom, respectively. Both were attired in a costume of white satin. The groom was supported by his brother, J. I. Lee, and E. Lee, brother of the bride. After the ceremony refreshments were served at the residence of the bride's father; a large number attending. The wedding party drove to the groom's home on the north side where a wedding feast was in order to which some thirty people were invited and did ample justice to the good things provided. Both the bride and groom are very popular and received a large number of presents from their numerous friends. Wishing Mr. and Mrs. Lee many years of wedded life.

STOP COUGHING

It's quite as foolish as it is annoying to keep on coughing since PHORATONE COUGH MIXTURE is sold all over Newfoundland and is guaranteed to soothe and heal the irritated parts at once, and to rapidly destroy the very cause of this aggravating nuisance. Hundreds of persons are complaining every day about the cough; cold they have had for a long time, and are not able to get rid of it. Don't let a cough or cold hang on you day after day and run the risk of catching and developing the "cough" that is not easy to throw off. You will avoid all this worry (about the cough or cold you have) by obtaining

PHORATONE COUGH MIXTURE at once.

Where They Test Shells.

About the Secret Experiment at Woolwich Arsenal.

Boom!
If, by chance, you live within a five miles' radius of Woolwich, you will hear that music throughout the day and you will find the windows of your residence reverberating to the crashing of artillery.
No; it is not the arrival of the German fleet in the Thames. It only means that guns and shells are being experimented with in the testing ground at the far end of Woolwich Arsenal.

Not only is the Arsenal itself protected by an enormously high wall and by armed guards at every point, but the testing ground is still further inclosed from outside view by another high wall. To reach the ground involves a trip on the R.A. private railway, on which His Majesty the King and the Royal Family travelled on their visit to Woolwich some time back.

Toy Railway Takes the New Guns.
It is but a toy railway; yet it keeps busy a large staff of workers on its mass of lines, signals, shunting points, and signal cabins, and, though so small, it has a grim record in the fatalities for which it has been responsible. It runs the entire length and circumference of the Arsenal; and, as the shells and newly cast guns are finally completed, they are shunted on to the rails and dispatched to the testing station.

Huge, cavernous and solemn secrecy reign supreme. Only special men are allowed in the station—certain workmen, firing experts, and Government inspectors—for the testing of a new type of gun is a matter of considerable gravity. An imposing looking register plays an important part in the proceedings, for therein are recorded the name and type of gun, when delivered, when tested, what kind of ammunition was used, from which store it was drawn, how many shots were fired, which man fired them, and, finally, a full report as to the result of each shot.

In addition to guns, rifles, carbines and each new moulding of cartridge and other ammunition are all tested here. For each test, however trifling the same routine must be observed and sometimes eight or nine groups of operators are busy at once.

Shots are fired into a huge erection of sand and gravel. Probably the most noticeable feature of the whole business is that, apart from the crashing of the guns, intense silence prevails. There is practically no conversation; all is business, grim, deadly earnest business—the business of finding out how many human lives this or that gun is capable of slaughtering. A few sharp commands are jerked into the echoing air: "Steady! Right! Let 'er go!" "Now then—whoo! All clear! Fire!"

Vows of secrecy for the workers. The men who work in the testing station have no very easy life of it. In fact, one man who had been on the job for some years has said that he would much rather be in action with artillery in real warfare; the work, he said, was no harder, and it was more interesting.

The general public is admitted to the Arsenal by special permit; but the testing station is sacred. None may enter there; and when tests are in progress it is jealously guarded. Every employee "inside"—which is the Woolwich folk's term for the Arsenal—is under special vows of secrecy and faith. Whatever goes on inside must be looked in, his own breast, and even workmen in other departments can never learn from their fellows at the testing station, how the tests of any particular gun or ammunition have resulted.

When a test is ended, the report is signed and witnessed by the officials present, and it is then signed again by a superior official, and finally dispatched by messenger to the War Office. When one remembers that the explosive department of the Arsenal turns out weekly 2,000,000 ball cartridges, and that one of each thousand has to be tested, it will be understood that the Arsenal worker is no slacker.

Spy Scares.

They will never tell you at Woolwich that such things as spy scares have happened there; but they have. Only recently a newcomer was sent with a message to an official at the testing station. On showing his message and his number he was admitted through the gates, and was proceeding towards the man he was seeking, when he was seen by two or three of the gunners.

They, not recognizing him, shouted the news of his approach. Thereupon the superintendent ordered them to remove him. They at once ran in his direction, and he, bewildered, and scenting possible danger, took to his heels and bolted out of the testing station.

A man in full flight, in the Arsenal, suggests all manner of possibilities; and in a moment a couple of dozen workers were after him. That unfortunate youngster was chased half-way round the place by nearly fifty men and boys before he collapsed and was able to stammer out explanations.

MERCANTILE TEAMS PRACTISING.—Great enthusiasm is being shown in hockey circles by the mercantile teams of the city, and it is expected that a series of games will take place next week. Several of the teams are now practising at every opportunity.

GOSPEL SERVICES.

AT GOWER STREET CHURCH.

The series of united services which are to be held on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings, under the auspices of the four city Epworth Leagues, were begun last night and were largely attended. Mr. A. Soper was in charge, and in a very judicious manner, conducted the meeting to a successful issue. He was assisted by several members of the Leagues, and also had a nice choir around him on the platform, and all the arrangements were harmonious and well chosen. Among the special features of the meeting was a choral solo, rendered by Mrs. Cochran, of George St. League, and also a duet by the Misses Kendall; and inspiring songs, planned by Mr. Soper, formerly of London, Eng., but now of our city. The cornet playing was a great acquisition to the singing service, and it is hoped that Mr. Soper will be able to contribute his talent to all the services to be held. The entire spirit of the service last night was both helpful and encouraging, and the addresses by the leader and Mr. L. C. Morris were specially adapted to the occasion. In all, there was a spirit of unity and everybody seemed to find their right place. All the people sang, and the result was that all felt it was good to be there. We feel certain that the promises of these services must be greatly encouraged by the attendance and interest so manifested in their evening meeting; and if last night may be taken as a criterion of the series, then we have no doubt whatever and no hesitation in stating that their great end will be accomplished, and lasting results will follow.

AT THE CASINO.

"THE EAGLE'S NEST."

The production of the thrilling melodrama, "The Eagle's Nest," at the Casino Theatre last night, was attended by a large and appreciative audience. The play was excellently staged, the scenery very effective, and the players quite at home in their different roles. The whole story is filled with thrilling situations and climaxes, and from the murder of Mrs. Silbee and abduction of Rose Silbee by the villain, Robert Blawie, up to the latter's defeat by Jack Trail in the great knife fight, the excitement is intense. Mr. J. J. O'Grady as Jack Trail won new laurels by his clever acting. Mr. I. Spearns played a difficult role with great success; Mr. J. J. Prowse was very realistic as Geoffrey Milford; and the comedy was supplied by Daniel Bibeau, who was cleverly impersonated by Mr. C. Fitzgibbon. Miss M. Jackman as Rose Milford was very pleasing, and Miss J. Carroll in the dual role of Mrs. Silbee and Sierra Suze was very natural and displayed rare histrionic ability. The other characters were ably sustained by Messrs. Sullivan, Burnstain, Parsons and Fagan. During the intervals some excellent selections were discoursed by the C. C. C. band, which were enthusiastically received and added greatly to the enjoyment of the evening. The proceeds will go towards the funds of the C. C. C. Corps.

Shipwrecked Crew

May Arrive by Stephano.

It is expected that Capt. White and crew of the Tobatic will arrive by the Stephano this afternoon. It will be remembered they were rescued from their sinking vessel and brought to New Orleans by the oil tanker Teda. The shipwrecked crew reached New York on the 17th inst.
